On and after Sunday, June 5th, 1881, the following schedule will be run over this road daily (Sundays excepted):

GOING NORTH.

GOING SOUTH.

The Widow.

She is modest, but not bashful;
Free and easy, but not bold:
Like an apple ripe and mellow—
Not too young, not too old.
Half-inviting, half-repulsing;
Now advancing, and now shy;
There is mischief in her dimple;
There is danger in her eye.

Are you sad? How very serious
Will her handsome face become!
Are you angry? She is wretched,
Lonely, friendless, tearful, dumb.
Are you mirthful? How her laughter,
Silver sounding, will ring out!
She can lure, and catch, and play you,
Like the angler does the trout.

She has sindled human nature,
She is schooled in all her arts.
She has taken ber diploma
As the mistress of all hearts:
She can tell the very moment
When to sigh and when to smile—
Oh, a maid is semetimes charming,
But a widow all the while.

Ye old batchelers of forty
Who have grown so hold and wise;
Young Americans of twenty,
With the love looks in your eyes,
You may practice all the tessons
Taught by Cupid since the fall,
But I know a little willow
Who could win and fool you all.

OBSERVATIONS.

When a Boston girl is presented with a bouquet, she says: "Oh, how deliciously sweet; its fragrance impregnates the entire atmosphere of the room." A down-east girl simply says. "It smells scrumptious; thanks, Reuben."

A Hindoo woman; aged 27 (it is impossible to say how her age was ascertained), who had been a widow since she was ten years old, recently eloped to Bombay and married, and there is a tumult among her Hindoo friends, her easte not permitting her to marry twice. What wretched failures American widows would be as Hindoos? FIRST. It cannot be broken. A reward of $5 will be paid for every corset in which the Coraline breaks with six months ordinary wear.

able corset ever made.

THE CORALINE CORSET is made throughout of superior materials, and is warranted in every respect. If not found entirely satisfactory, the purchase money will be refunded. Ask for Opium is said to kill three million of Chinese annually, but Hoodlums will be glad to know that there are plenty left.

The Philadelphta Press makes the appalling statement that there are in that city 120,000 small boys and only 1,200 policemen. Says Mr. George Gorham in his Washington Republican: "We have elevated cant, hypocrisy and greed over patriotism, truth and liberty. Let us repent and do so no more." Does Mr. Geo. Gorham suppose that he and his friends will be allowed to escape under cover of repentance?

That of Mr. Clay was grandly eloquent; Mr. Pickney's, though admitted to be most convincing, stirred up no feeling as did the burning words of Mr. Clay. often heard from Prentiss.

As an evidence of Prentiss's great eloquence I may be allowed the narration of an incident in the life of this remarkable man. In 1844, in company with the late John Bell, of Tennessee. Wm. C. Dawson and Chief Justice Lumpkin, of Georgia, I met at a dinner table in Newark, N. J., a distinguished gentleman, who shall be nameless, who was far advanced in years. During the dinner a lady present said to me: "I believe you are acquainted with the great Southern orator, Mr. Prentiss?" On being answered in the affirmative, she added: "I was tempted once in this city to go and hear him make a political speech, and I consider it an era in my Artificial Limbs. "Do your customers embrace many ladies?" asked a Globe-Democrat reporter, addressing the artificial limb man. "Well, sir, I make about 200 of these limbs every year, and you'd be astonished to know how many of them are for female use. Ladies are much more ank on the street. In spite of all that medical skill could do, amputation or death was soon perceived to be the only alternative and an artificial substitute procured from Paris. Owing to a little accident which occurred at a large ball held here about a month ago, and which slightly damaged the elaborate mechanism of the sham limb, its possessor happened to be in need of my services, and I can tell you I was never so much astonished in my life as when that pretty, dainty-stepping creature told me, what she
