The Tourists' Country-The Invalids' Retreat.

A Perfect Corset at Last. HENDERSONVILLE, N. C., June 8.— Editor Morning News: The summer season has opened, and doubtless many persons from the "Forest City" will ere long seek some cooler clime. As but very few from the seaboard of Georgia have as yet visited our section, I have taken the liberty of addressing you this communication, in the hope of attracting the attention, both of tour-ists and health seekers, to the "Land of

There is no section of country on the American continent that can excel western North Carolina as a summer climate, either for health or comfort. It is here that the tourist in quest of pleasure can satiate his desire, while the invalid, enfeebled by disease, can recuperate with a rapidity truly aston-ishing. The altitude of Hendersonville is 2.252 feet above the ocean, the air cool and bracing, the water ice cold and free from the slightest particle of limestone. The city, like Augusta, is laid out at right angles and is beautified by rows of trees in the centre and on either side of the principal street.

Passengers for the mountains on reaching Spartanburg, S. tions, at the most reasonable rates, offered by the American, the Virginia, the Arlington, Chase's Globe, and the Fletcher House. The latter, while possessing a less pretentious name than the rest, is superbly kept, its proprietor, Dr. J. L. the North has been so much more successful in the accumulation of wealth? The chief reason is that the North has not only enjoyed the profit of her own productions, but has, also, made a great profit on the productions of the South. For example, it is stated that in 1860 Mississippi produced one million bales of cotton which brought her thirty-five millions of dollars. This was the entire income of the State. In the same year Massachusetts manufactured three hundred thousand bales of cotton that cotton cloth which she sold for thirty six and a half millions of dollars. The manufactures of cotton goods was only one of the industries of Massachusetts, but it brought her more morey than the entire product of the single industry of Mississippi. It is probable that a very large part of the profit of the cotton crop of Mississippi want into the pockets of Northera manufactures for merchandise of one kind and and other consumed by the people of Mississippi. The same condition of affairs which agisted in 1860 exists, to a very considerable extent, to-day, and will continue to exist until the South manufactures not only the cotton and woolen goods which she needs, but, also

Why should not the South manufacture not only the cotton and woolen goods which she needs, but, also agricultural implements and machinery of various kinds which she uses on her plantations? She has coal, iron and timber, and there is no reason why she should not supply her own wants. If cotton can be transported to Connecticut and Massachusetts, manufactured there and brought back here at a profit, there is no reason why it cannot be cut and Massachusetts, manufactured there and brought back here at a profit, there is no reason why it cannot be manufactured here where it is proficed profitably. As long as the North is allowed to make the profit out of the raw materials of the South, which the South ought to make herself, the North will be the richer section. There is one industry of which the South was shrewed suough to obtain control. It is the manufacture of oil cake and oil from cotton seed. A little more than a dozen years ago cotton seed was regarded as worthless except for planting. It was discovered that two very valuable articles of commerce could be made out of it. To-day the manufactured products of cotton seed oil fado oil cake rank thirdin value. Cotton ranks first and cattle second. The number of cotton seed oil factories is increasing rapidly. That which was thought to be of the wealth of the Cotton States are to the wealth of the Cotton States and ought. A UNION VETERAN'S CLAIM. Scuator Bayard Looking After Him and His Six bots of Twins.

An interesting pension case is just now attracting the attention of the government officials in Pennsylvania government officials in Pennsylvania and Delaware. Three or four weeks ago John Brothers, an ex-Union soldier, made application for a pension, claiming that he was suffering from a wound received in the battle of Gettysburn. Brothers is a farm laborer and lives near Middletown, Delaware, but his application for a pension was made his application for a pension was made in this city, he having served five years in a Pennsylvania cavalry regiment. Shortly after, Brothers applied for a rension, the United States Marshal, of Wilmington, received orders from Washington to investigate Brothers's case. He did so, and learned that tradition had it that Brothers's wound, which is his leg, was made by the bayonet of a fellow Union soldier in a barroom brawl. Brothers, however, has many friends, and when they learned that his application was refused they his application for a pension was made that his application was refused they circulated a petition, which, after receiving several hundred signatures, was forwarded to Washington with a second application. A few days later he was summoned to appear before the United States District Court of this city to shawer the charge of forward United States District Court of this city to answer the charge of forwarding fraudulent affidavits to Washington. He did not answer the summons and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest and the United States Marshal of Wilmington brought him to Philadelphia, and, after a preliminary hearing, he was released on $2,000, to answer the charge at the fall term of the United States District Court. Brothers had eighteen children, twelve of whom are twins born within the of whom are twins born within the past eight years, and as his wound prevents him from working the members of the family are wretchedly poor. Last Monday the case came to the ears of Senator Thomas F. Bayard, of Delevers and efter investigating it and ware, and after investigating it and calling on Brothers and the twins, he went to Washington for the purpose of

The streams in this section abound in mountain trout, and the industrious sportsman, by journeying twenty-five or thirty miles to the "Balsam Mountains," can get a shot at a bear or deer. Western North Carolina offers every inducement to summer travelers for the season of 1881, and heartily invites them to come within her borders, assuring all who may do so that they will never regret their visit to this "the Land of the Sky."

The way to Increase the Wealth of the South.

New Orleans Times.

The wealth of the South is increasing. It is not increasing, however, as rapidly as the wealth of the North. There was a time when of the two sections the South was the richer. There is no good reason why she should not contain the most wealth now. Her advantages for the accumulation of wealth are greater. Her climate is better and her soil is equally fertile. Why is it then that the North has been so much more successful in the accumulation of wealth? The chief reason is that the North has not only enjoyed the profit of her own productions, but has, also, made a great is general attorney and stockholder of
