Cotton Production and Manufacture.

The primary tabulation of the census office presents the following statistics of last year's cotton crop, to which is added for the purpose of comparison, a statement of the crop grown ten years previous:

1870. Bales, Increase, 429,482 270,094 Alabama 699,576 Arkansas 607,223 Florida 54,977 Georgia 813,695 Indian Ter 17,000 247,968 359,255 39,789 473,934 15,188 17,000 Kentucky..... 1,367 Louisiana 508,442 350,832 157,610 Mississippi ... 955,808 564,938 390,870 564,938 1,248 Missouri 19,783 North Carolina 889,516 144,935 244,581 South Carolina 522,548 224,500 298,048 Tennessee ... 330,524 181,842 148,782 Texas ... 801,140 350,628 456,512 Virginia -11,000 10,817

It will be observed that Georgia has simply held the second place, or the place that was assigned her in the census of 1870. Texas however threatens to displace both Georgia and Mississippi, and she surely will rob Georgia of her present rank as a cotton-producing her present rank as a cotton-producing State, unless the farmers of Georgia increase the yield per acre. Last year our planters made only thirty-hundredths of a bale on an acre. If the acreage of Georgia could be made to produce one bale of cotton to two acres of land neither. Towas nor any other land, neither Texas nor any other State would outrank her in the official cotton statement of 1890. The average yield of an acre in Georgia is altogether

Mississippi headed the list in 1870, and so she did in 1880. Texas was the fifth State in 1870; last year she gained the third place—thus making Alabama the fourth instead of the third State, the fourth instead of the third State, and Louisiana the seventh instead of the fourth State. South Carolina is now the sixth State. Arkansas has clambered up from the sixth to the fifth place. The Cotton States are, therefore, in rank, as follows: Mississippi, Georgia, Texas, Alabama, Arkansas, South Carolina, Louisiana, North Carolina, Tennessee, Florida, Missouri, Virginia and Kentucky.

A Philadelphia woman worth $700 died and her funeral cost $300. Funerals cost; about $1,000,000 annually in Chicago, $6,000,000 in Illinois, and $100,000,000 in the United States. A corpse can be cremated for about $15. These are some of the arguments put forward by the body-burning reformers.

The Courier-Journal has this hit: "Every time Raum thinks he is in danger he gets ont a statement of his department alleging that he has collected so much money during the year, and 'not a dollar has been missing. Of course, not a dollar should be missing. It is no virtue for Raum not to steal the money that comes to him. He prints his honesty as if it were a very rare thing at Washington. Perhaps it is."

In some sections of southwest Georgia, the people are reduced to straits just now that they have not known for years. An exchange from Cuthbert says: "Many of our people are reduced to straits just now that they have not known for years. We might relate many circumstances that have come to our knowledge that would awake the liveliest sympathies of our readers. There are people in our county who have not had a mouthful of meat for two days—some that have not had bread for that time. Many horses and mules are plowing now that have had neither corn, fodder nor oats for two weeks—being plowed till dinner and then turned upon the swamp grass and canebrake to graze till they are put to the plow again."
