THE WHISKEY CASES.

Once More—Anti-Prohibition Scores to Victory.

The whiskey men scored their first victory, yesterday, before the courts. The case against Elliott & Remley to recover the penalty of $50 for an alleged violation of the prohibition ordinance recently enacted forbidding the sale of spirituous liquors for use as a beverage was tried before Justice Hilton at the hour appointed. The right of challenge was exhausted on both sides before the jury of six men was finally impaneled. John T. Schenck was then called as a witness and testified substantially that he purchased whiskey of the defendants on the 24th of June ultimo, without any intention, however, at the time of the purchase of using it as a beverage. Here the city rested its case.

The defense contended that if Schenck had no intention at the time he procured the whiskey of using it as a beverage that under the principle that requires criminal law to be strictly construed, a verdict must be rendered in their favor. But presuming the question of fact to be proven, the next question was whether the prohibition ordinance was valid. They were supported by a number of men sitting as a board of aldermen whose official existence had, in reality, expired by virtue of the ordinance. In the preamble of the ordinance themselves they say that they are enacted to carry out a sentiment of the people as expressed at the ballot box, a few days before, when the result of that election had been the choice of another set of men to carry out the people's wishes. It was their province to say what those wishes were and it was not competent for the old board of aldermen to expect to come together and anticipate legislation on the subject. Other grounds taken were that the right conferred upon the board of aldermen by the legislature to grant and cancel licenses, did not imply a right to prohibit everybody from the sale of liquor, but only for certain men, and these for good and sufficient cause; and, also, that the ordinance could not be made to apply to wholesale dealers, for the reason that they were not required to have license, but simply to pay a privilege tax, the collection of which the city might enforce, but had no power, further, to compel them to stop their business.

These positions were argued ably and at great length by the counsel on both sides. Justice Hilton, in putting the case to the jury, charged in favor of the city on the question of law, and in regard to the question of fact—that is, whether Schenck had purchased the liquor for use as a beverage, that if they found that he was his intention to use it as a beverage at the time he bought it, they were to find in favor of the city; but if not, the defendants were entitled to their verdict.

The jury retired, and in less than an hour returned a verdict of acquittal. The news got abroad about dusk, and created quite a sensation on the streets. Anti-prohibitionists were evidently highly pleased over the result, and it was remarked that they could be distinguished by the broad smiles in which a number indulged. What will be the effect of this decision we will not undertake to predict.

Novel Way to Kill a Snake.

One day last week, Tom Elwood, who is well known in Charlotte, was in town, and filled up pretty considerably on the ardent. On his way home, a colored man driving his wagon, he discovered a moccasin snake by the road side. He ordered his driver to stop and get out to kill the snake. Catching his snake with a strong grasp in his right hand, about amidst the reptile showed vigorous fight and bit Elwood three times on the arm. Becoming incensed at such treatment he asserted with an oath that he would not be outdone as a bit, and attempted to get the snake's head into his own mouth with a view of retaining the commodity. In his attempt to do so the snake again bit him severely on the cheek, which only rendered him more furious. He finally succeeded in getting a firm grip on the snake with his teeth and actually bit off its head. Strange to say the snake's bites, usually considered poisonous, had no appreciable effect upon Elwood, who now announces that he is a rampant anti-prohibitionist, because he thinks the whiskey in him at the time probably saved his life. If he will go back to first principles we think he will find good reason for being on the prohibition side, because none but a drunk man would tackle a snake after that style.

The Hopewell Copper Mine.

The Baltimore Sunday News publishes the following item in regard to this mine. Messrs. Cone and Gorter called on us yesterday and assured us that the Baltimore newspaper had about gotten the facts: "The Hopewell Copper Mining Company of Baltimore, has been recently reorganized, and on a more solid basis has resumed work with vigor. A large quantity of machinery was shipped on Friday last by Messrs. Thomas C. Bassor & Co., the well-known Baltimore mechanics, to Charlotte, North Carolina. This shipment completes the necessary machinery, and puts the mine in full working order. Mr. J. M. Cone, the well-known builder of this city, with the superintendent of the mine, who has so successfully managed the affairs of the Harlem Stage company and its workshops for three years past, start for the mines on Sunday evening, 10th inst., and will arrive in Charlotte in time to receive the shipment of machinery. They will at once proceed to employ mechanics and miners, re-shaft the mine and vigorously pursue the working. The Hopewell Mine is located 11 miles from the city of Charlotte and 2 1/2 miles from the Statesville Railroad. The ore is rich in gold and copper and averages 1 ounce gold and 15 per cent. copper to the ton, an actual result from a recent assay by Charles Johnston, Esq., of the assay and smelting works. The outlook is very bright for the gentlemen embarked in this enterprise, and from all appearances the stockholders will be fully remunerated for their outlay of capital."

How He Was Caught.

Tom Orr (not Moore, as his name was given in Sunday's issue) the youthful highwayman was captured in the suburbs of the city Sunday afternoon. The credit of the capture is due to Mr. B. Hand, a clerk in Mr. John T. Butler's jewelry store. He saw and recognized him lurking near a house inhabited by some colored people and informed Officer Erwin, of the police force. The officer stationed himself near the house while Mr. Hand undertook to decoy him out, he having by this time gone inside. Mr. Hand knocked at the door and offered 25 cents to have a note carried to a house around the corner, where the policeman stood. Tom responded and walked into the trap, the policeman pouncing upon him as he turned the corner. He will be before the mayor this morning.

Death of an Old Citizen.

About noon, Sunday, Capt. Alexander Glen, a prominent and useful citizen of the county, died at his residence in Steel Creek, of cholera morbus. Capt. Glen was about 70 years old, and was widely and respectfully connected. His death was sudden and unexpected, resulting from a short but painful illness. He was buried yesterday afternoon in Steel Creek cemetery.

Anti-Prohibition in Berryhill Township.

Pursuant to a short notice a portion of the voters of Berryhill township assembled at Colton's saloon on Friday the 9th at 3 p. m., for the purpose of declaring against the prohibition bill, and to organize for the campaign.

The meeting was called to order by G. W. Sloan, and J. W. Brown was requested to act as secretary. A committee consisting of R. R. Bay, David Weaver, Joseph Cathey, J. Robeson and W. L. Hoover, was appointed to nominate permanent officers and suggest resolutions. The committee retired, and on returning suggested that the meeting resolve itself into an Anti-Prohibition club, to be known as the Berryhill Anti-Prohibition club, and suggested the names of the following gentlemen as officers, viz:

President—G. W. Sloan, 1st Vice-President—W. A. Freeman, 2d Vice-President—Watson Parks, Secretary—J. W. Brown.

The suggestion was unanimously adopted, and the club was organized. They were also reported and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, 1st, That we are unqualifiedly opposed to drunkenness, believing the habit to be in the sight of God, and degrading in the eyes of man, but we would rest the evil where it belongs and punish the parties that are guilty.

2nd, That we believe this sugar coated measure called prohibition to be in its incipency concocted in the interest of the few, and for the oppression of the many, and not tending either to the moral or religious elevation of the people, but on the contrary on account of the inquisitorial interference with personal rights will tend to provoke the people to resort to smuggling and numerous other devices to evade its just operation, so that we honestly fear the proposed cure will be worse than the disease.

3rd, That we, as good citizens, feel that it is a duty we owe ourselves and our fellow men to oppose this measure.

4th, That as voters in Berryhill township we hereby pledge ourselves individually and collectively to use all legitimate means for the defeat of this insidious measure called prohibition, and we most cordially invite every voter regardless of past political affiliations to join us and vote with us on the 4th day of August, when we intend to roll up such majority as will cause those reckless invaders of personal rights to qual and show to the world that we are watchful of the God given heritage "our personal liberties."

On motion a working committee of five members were appointed, viz: D. Weaver, J. M. Wilson, Chas. B. Todd, W. L. Hoover, Joseph Cathey, J. T. Grier, J. Lee Suggs, D. P. Kelly, Green Potts, Thomas Swain, Levi Stevens, Lucius Alexander and Harry Watt.

On motion THE CHARLOTTE OBSERVER, Democrat and Southern Home, were requested to copy the proceedings of the meeting, and the club adjourned to meet on Saturday, July 23rd, at 2 p. m.

J. W. BROWN, Secretary.

BECAUSE it adds to personal beauty by restoring color and lustre to faded gray hair, and is beneficial to the scalp, is why Parker's Hair Balsam is such a popular dressing.
