TOLE FAIR.

Why the Board of Aldermen Didn't Meet.

To the Editor of the Observer. In your local column of yesterday morning, at its head, was the rather laconic announcement that in consequence of a quorum not being present at the regular meeting of the board of aldermen held on Monday afternoon. The bare announcement does not "tote fair" for it no doubt lead seven-eighths of your readers to suppose that the want of a quorum was caused by the absence of those who are styled the "wet" aldermen.

The facts in the case are that Alderman Wilkes (dry) being absent from the city caused the aldermen "drys" to "smooze" and keep in their chambers being thereby put in a minority, not one of them putting in an appearance, and the mayor only at the last moment, when the "wets" had about evacuated the hall for meeting. The question now is since the "drys" have caused the wheels of the city government to clog will it be attempted to obtain an indictment against them for conspiracy, as was done in the case of the "wets" absence at a previous regular meeting? The "wets" are perfectly willing to abide the consequences of their "misdeeds," but as many of them are patrons of THE OBSERVER they have a right that they be not misrepresented by innuendo in the style referred to. Tote fair and "feed both out of the same spoon."

Prohibition Meeting in Clear Creek.

To the Editor of the Observer. At all previous meetings of the prohibition club the anti's have been personally invited to produce their arguments, and have always replied: "Not prepared to-day, but will have a man here next time." We felt a little uneasy when we were told that Mr. C. Q. Lemmond, of Union county, would speak for them to-day. We knew if any man could make wrong appear right, he could. After prayer, the secretary, Mr. Ellington, in a short speech tied several things to the snake's tail. Mr. Lemmond followed about an hour, directing most of his argument toward the constitution. Finding the snake too heavy to pull, he said: "I do not myself, believe that whiskey is very good for snake bites."

Col. H. C. Jones then spoke for one and a half hours in a most appropriate and interesting address, reaching the sublime, his arguments running with the deductions of logic. The wet men looked dry. Those that were on the fence came over. The Colonel said many things, did us much good, and made several friends; doubtless he will come again.

Prohibition in Lowesville.

To the Editor of the Observer: LOWESVILLE, LINCOLN CO., July 17.—Our meeting advertised in THE OBSERVER to be held at Lowesville came off Saturday, the 16th, and Gen. Johnston, the great high priest of prohibition, Judge Schenck and Calvin Grier, failed to put in an appearance. We had a goodly crowd of both men and women, white and black. The meeting was called to order at 11 a. m. in the grove fronting the hospitable mansion of Col. D. A. Lowry, by our county's distinguished graduate of Chapel Hill, Alfred Nixon, who introduced the Rev. Samuel H. Chester, the able pastor of Castanea and Unity churches. Mr. Chester's address was strong and convincing, and extended to the depth of thought. His audience, composed as it was for the most part of the best people of our neighborhood, portions of Gaston, Mecklenburg and Iredell, listened with attention and interest, and his friends did not hesitate to pronounce it the best effort of his life.

Dr. J. M. Templeton, a young physician, living in Dallas, was next introduced, and well did away his and his friends' close attention. He is a remarkable young man, and gained the plaudits of the people for his beautiful rhetoric and happy repartee. These gentlemen had painted in such dark lines the tragic picture of the drunkard that the faces of the audience wore a saddened expression as they reflected what might be the possible fate of their children, whose habits were yet unformed.

But the farce was near at hand and well was it played in two acts. Ill-humor and shouts were substituted for sober thought and even our longest faced Presbyterians smiled when "Abby Kirksey" leaped into the arena to reply to Mr. Chester. Right here the farce began. Sympathy forbids any comment.

"Oh! was some power the gift of us to see outside as there are us!" The second act in the after piece was even more amusing and a broad grin was worn by the faces of all as Clabbe Nana, a Republican anti, commenced abusing his former ally, David A. Jenkins. But while "Abby's" imagination was prolific and disordered, I must do Clabbe the justice of asserting without fear of asinine contradiction from either party that he told the truth when he spoke of the county, but that his speech making sustained that self-evident truth. I honor so much of the man as encloses a good genuine candor. A few more such "wets" and anti's will give us all the wisdom in the county, but we ought to have a smart negro orator as the negroes are sold for the wet ticket in this section.

Don't die in the South. Ask druggists for "Rough on Rats." It clears out rats, mice, bed bugs, roaches, vermin, flies, ants, insects. 10c per box.

MOUNTAIN SCENERY.

Seen by a Charlottean Who is on the Rampage.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C., July 18th, 1881.

To the Editor of The Observer. After a week's sojourn in this pleasant little village my thoughts revert to home, and I have taken up my pen to give your readers a short account of some of the things I have seen. This place is well patronized by tourists, the hotels having, for a week past, been well filled. There are not many Charlotte people—only a few families. The weather has been delightfully cool at night, and during the hottest of the weather, the thermometer has not registered above 88 in the passage of the hotel. Coming, as I did, from the warmer climate of Charlotte, the change was very grateful. At night sweet and refreshing sleep is easily obtained, and we awake in the morning with renewed vigor. This charming town on which Hendersonville is situated, is dotted here and there with quite prominent little mountains, from whose summits, rearing up in stately majesty, you get charming views of the whole country, and the towering peaks of still greater magnitude rising in the distance. Two of the most popular in this vicinity it has been my pleasure to visit recently. The first one, Hebron, is a very scenic spot, and you can sit in your spring vehicle and be hauled up without the aid of any muscle. You catch from the top of Hebron a grand and extensive view of the French Broad valley in one direction, and the eye can feast upon a grand panorama of mountain peak rising above mountain peak, until one grand unbroken chain greets the delighted vision, (skirting around the horizon). The view in one direction, however, we found was obstructed and we turned to our guide and asked him what mountain confronted us, and seemed to rise considerably higher than Hebron, and obstructed the view to the North. The reply was, "That is 'Jump-off,' and you ought to go up there." We determined to do so, later. The next day we started to enter the "Jump-off" mountain, and found it much more difficult of ascent. Skirting around the foot of a long range, we found a rough and narrow road beset with gates and bars, and carefully set with roots and stones, which finally led us up to Farmer Davis's gate. But being informed there was "walking ahead of us," we left our horse and buggy and climbed the mountain side, up a steep path, for a half an hour, to the top of the mountain perspiring freely and panting like porpoises. The precipice on the south side, called "Jump-off," is a rocky cliff, almost perpendicular for several hundred feet, and is well calculated to give a nervous person a class shudder in looking over it. The view from the summit of the mountain a little further back is simply grand. Towering high above all in this section, the eye can take in from the top, a grand panorama of wondrous beauty and attractiveness. As from the centre of a circle, whose circumference is an unbroken chain of mountains with a radius of 15 or 20 miles, your eye feasts upon the scene, and you turn from one prospect to another, and all the while experiencing emotions of genuine pleasure. "In wisdom He made them all." How wonderful are the works of nature! After spending two hours in pleasant contemplation we returned to a late dinner, well prepared to do justice to it. I have seen the boat which is soon to plow the pellucid waters of the French Broad. It is almost complete and will be plying between Hendersonville and Brevard in a few weeks. If I am fortunate enough to get up here again next summer, I shall expect to be borne up the lovely valley of the French Broad on the deck of this little steamer. I am sorry it is not ready to take me now.

CITY PROPERTY FOR SALE.

A DESIRABLE residence, three blocks from the public square in Charlotte, will be sold cheap and on reasonable terms to the right kind of a purchaser. The dwelling is on a full lot, has nine comfortable rooms, brick kitchen, fine wood of water, etc. The house is admirably adapted for a family, for a lawyer, doctor or preacher, having an admirable living or study room, bath, etc. For further particulars, price, terms, etc., apply to THIS OFFICE, July 20, 1881.

BARGAIN IN REAL ESTATE.

To a bona fide purchaser, I offer for sale a splendid farm, five miles from Charlotte, lying half a mile from Stonevale Station, on the Atlantic, Tennessee and Ohio Railroad. The land is well adapted to the cultivation of COTTON, CORN, and other crops of this section. It consists of about 200 acres, 20 of which are bottom land and about 15 acres of freshly cleared land; 50 acres in natural forest. On the plantation is a gold mine, which has been probably worked. The vein gives promise of value if explored. On the premises is a comfortable dwelling and all necessary out-buildings, a good orchard and a never failing well of water. Terms very reasonable. A. D. PARKS, Alexandria, N. C. July 20, 1881.

WANTED.

A FURNISHED room for one gentleman, near A. M. Coleman's, on College street. Address July 20, 1881.

NEWS IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Greensboro Battle Ground: The wells which have been dug here are filling with water again since the rain. A quicksilver mine has been discovered near Franklin in this State. It is said to "pan out" excellent. Gov. Reid is rapidly improving. He now walks with ease and impediment in his speech is entirely gone. We understand that the room in the new Benbow block, two doors above the hall, is to be occupied as a shoe factory. Goldsboro Messenger: The many friends of Mr. Rufus Edmundson will be pleased to learn that he is fully recovered from the stroke of paralysis. He is yet able to be on our streets again. We learn from Magnolia that the wife and son of Mr. David Mathews, residing near that town, were killed by lightning Friday evening last. Another son was badly stunned but recovered. The lightning of Friday evening struck in several places. Gus McKinney, a worthy and industrious colored man, living in the Whitesville section near Goldsboro, was instantly killed by lightning while on his premises Friday evening. His faithful dog and two chickens were killed at the same time.

Young Women in a Whirlwind.

Americus (Ga.) Republican. Mr. Z. T. Baisden gives us the following story of a whirlwind that visited his place about 12 o'clock on Monday, scaring all his hands and some visitors very badly: A whirlwind occurred in a twelve-acre cornfield that was about four feet in diameter and sometimes a hundred feet high. The body of it was perfectly black, with fire in the centre and emitted a strong sulphurous vapor that could be smelt three hundred yards from it. The whirlwind divided into three and moved rapidly over the field, twisting up the corn stalks by the roots and carrying them up. These three minor whirlwinds would then come together with a loud crash, cracking and burning at the top, and then they would rise high into the heavens. Three young ladies who were visiting Mrs. Baisden went in about 150 feet to observe it, but received such a shower of burning sand upon their faces and necks that they ran and fled to the house. Mr. Baisden says that he cannot account for this strange phenomenon and it certainly frightened all who saw it. The strange part was that it contained fire yet did not appear to burn the corn that it did not tear up, and its sulphurous vapor sickened and burnt all who got close enough to get a full breath of it.

Too Small.

If the land in Ireland were equitably divided among the Irish, they would not be enough of it for the support of the population by agricultural industry. Putting the population at 5,500,000, there are 170 persons to the square mile. While other countries, with great diversities of climate, have more dense populations, the general average in Europe is only 75 persons to the square mile. Under these circumstances it would seem to be the part of wisdom to assist and encourage emigration. The necessity of expatriation may be a hard one, but it is a necessity. Ireland is not big enough for the Irish.

Too Small.

I was cured by St. Jacobs Oil in one day of a bad attack of rheumatism of a week's duration, says Mr. Chas. Wetzel, of Nauvoo, Ill. July 19, 20.

A SURE CURE FOR PILES.

To you know what it is to suffer with piles? If you do, you know what is one of the worst torments of the human frame. The most perfect cure ever known is Eider's Ointment. It cures constipation, and then its tonic action restores health to the diseased bowels and prevents recurrence of the disease. Try it without delay. The ointment and the liquid are both sold by druggists.—Globe.

RHEUMATISM. Professor Wm. C. Richardson, M. D., of the St. Louis Medical College, says: "I have used Eider's Ointment for many years, and know of no other which is so effective in rheumatism and with most marked relief in every case." Beware of worthless imitations under false and startling names. Also cures piles, catarrh, neuralgia, painful swellings, old ulcers, lumbago, and weak eyes. Sold in fifty cents and dollar sizes.

SKILL IN THE WORKSHOP. To do good work the mechanic must have good health. If long hours of confinement in close rooms have enticed his hand or dimmed his sight, let him at once, and before some organic trouble appears, take plenty of Hop Bitters. His system will be rejuvenated, his nerves strengthened, his sight become clear, and the whole constitution be built up to a higher working condition.
