SATURDAY, JULY 23, 1881. STATE NEWS.

Salisbury Watchman: Nearly all the dark horses, who are seeking the Congressional honors in this district, have come out, with a single exception, as anti-prohibitionists. This may be very wise, and again it may not.

North State: Revenue collections in the Fourth District for the week ending last Saturday night, amounted to $11,077.80. We are pleased to notice the improved condition of Capt. R. G. Lindsay, who has returned home from the mountain region of Virginia.

Monroe Enquirer: Since our last issue, portions of the county have been favored with good rains. Still, the outlook for cotton and corn crops is not at all promising, as the plant in both cases is very small generally. Plenty of rain from now on, will perhaps insure a tolerably fair crop.

Asheville Cttizen: A severe wind and hail storm visited Jackson county one day last week. A waterspout of considerable dimensions did some damage about three miles from Webster. Mrs. M. M. Jones died at her residence in the New Found Township, this county, on the 13th inst., in the 45th year of her age, Carolina Central during the past winter.—Miss Cornie Benton, daughter of Capt. J. H. Benton, of Polkton. had the misfortune to fall out of a buggy one day last week and fracture a bone of one of her arms.—Our farmers generally report cotton small, though looking well, notwithstanding the dry weather. Early corn is nearly ruined, and that planted late will not make more than than a half crop, except in low grounds.

Salem Press: Dr. John Pepper died at his home in Danbury, Stokes county, on the 6th inst., aged 86 years. Dr. Pepper was a well known and highly respected citizen. On the 5th of February last he was stricken down with paralysis, and lingered in a helpless state to the end on Wednesday the 6th, inst.—We regret to learn that the grist mill of Messrs. Jones, on the Yadkin river, near Conrad P. O., Yadkin county, was burnt on Saturday night last. The fire was discovered too late to stop the flames. The parties estimate the loss at $1,000. — Mrs. Duncan died at her home near Madison, last Friday, aged 98 years. She was the oldest person in Rockingham county.

Raleigh News-Observer: Mrs. M. A. Warrenton, had her house burned on | But the scene also filled the spectator Monday night. She lost about half her with hope; for it proved that it is never furniture. No insurance; loss about too late to mend, and even in this charfurniture. No insurance; loss about $2,000. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary .-- The African clerk is now a feature of the postoffice and court house. They say this is the effect of the African officeseekers' convention, held here last spring.—Perhaps not many people in the city have observed the unusually large sassasfras tree which stands near the southern gate of the capitol square, and fewer still know that a hundred years ago there was a notable deer stand at this tree. This is as tradition has it, and the oldest inhabitant vouches for its truth.

Lenoir Topic: An archery club is proposed for Lenoir.—We have received from Mr. Stallings, of Watauga, a stalk of rye, nine feet in height.—A very severe hailstorm prevailed in the eastern part of the county last Sunday. The roar accompanying the storm, was heard in Lenoir, and suggested fears of a cyclone.—The many friends in this section of Mrs. Mattie Ward, wife of Capt. E. W. Ward, U. S. A., and daughter of the late Gov. Tod R. Caldwell, will be grieved to know that she died suddenly of heart disease, at her residence in Lincolnton, July 7.—We learn that an organized band of robbers has been operating in Alexander. Robberies have been of frequent occurrence, and persons living in the Southern and Western section of the county, feared to leave their houses unguarded, even in daytime. A citizen living near the Alexander line, informs us that a negro was arrested last week and carried to Taylorsville, for suspected com-plicity in some of these numerous robberies. He confessed that he belonged to a band of thirty, but could not be prevailed upon to make any revela-

Chinese Pirates.

All the Year Bound. The towns contain a due amount of tame cheats, but the bold hectoring highwayman, the truculent sea-robber, must be sought elsewhere. All along the Blue and Yellow rivers are found retail buccaneers, who hawk at a trifling quarry and fatten on slender profits. These poor rogues do not aspire to a ship of their own; they come paddling out of muddy creeks in the smallest of sampans, ill-armed, ill-clad, but plenti-fully smeared with fish-oil. If man-fully confronted, they fly, if grappled by the crews of the fourth-class junks, which they select as prizes, they slip; like so many eels, through the hands that grasp them, and their swimming makes amends for their lax courage. Seldom do any very sinister results follow one of these attacks. If the fresh-water pirates prove victorious they are mild conquerors, and only too eager to be on shore again with their booty of rice and corn, stray garments, odd fragments of chain, bits of copper and brass hastily ripped from the poop and cabins, and, perhaps, the glorious trophy of a few rattling strings of cash. The dollars and silver bars are generally too well hidden to be detected by such hurried searchers; food, rather than fortune, is the object of the foray; and, except in rare cases of remarkable temptation, no life is attempted and no torture resorted to. With these amphibious petty-larceny rogues the magistrates deal mildly, according to the traditions of Chinese justice Three hundred strokes of the bamboo | county. may be endured by the human frame. Four sleepless weeks in the "cangue," or bamboo pillory, may fail to madden a stolid, unimaginative coolie. A few minor tortures need only be added to these two first-named inflictions, and the culprit is thought to have been most tenderly dealt with. Pilferers in a fair or the streets of a town are considered as still more venial offenders.
A vigorous bastinado and a week of the pillory is the law's award in such trivial cases. Petty assaults are assileniently disposed of, but fire-raising is a sin of deeper dye; and the malicious piercing of a neighbor's dike, to let in a devastating flood, is punished with extreme rigor. Murder and treasona-ble practices, wholesale piracy and brigandage all cry aloud for death, more or less slow and painful, and parricide evokes the sternest chastisement of the Chinese, as it once did of the Roman law.

BURNETT'S COCCAINE,

A LADYS HAIR SAVED BY ITS USE.

Burnett's Conductor will keep the hair in a strong and healthy condition by stimulating the roots of the hair and restoring the natural action upon which its growth depends. Twenty years ago a single bottle sayed a lady's hair in a desperate case where every other treatment had failed; and since that early success thousands of cases of

A SCENE IN THE TOMBS.

Fallen Angels Sing the Praises of the Master. Strange and sad scenes happen in the New York Tombs sometimes. Yesterday while a reporter was standing in the corridor the sound of female voices floated in from a room at the other end of the passage, and the burden of the sung was:

"There will be no more sorrow there There will be no more sorrow there; In heaven above, where all is love, There will be no more sorrow there!"

The effect was sad indeed. The hymn was sung with that peculiar drawl which is so suggestive of breaking rather than rejoicing hearts. "Who are they?" asked the reporter, after listening attentively to the singing for a few moments. "Prisoners." "The voices are those of young girls?" "Well, yes; the girls are, compara-tively speaking, young in years, but they are old offenders—that is, many of

"Are they having a prayer meeting?"
"They are. A lady comes from Brooklyn every Thursday and goes into the 'shanty' among the prisoners, who al-ways receive her respectfully and listen to what she has to say. She prays with them, exhorts them to a better life, and sings with them. She generally succeeds in getting them to unite with her this county, on the 13th inst., in the 45th year of her age.

Anson Times; One thousand tons of commercial fertilizers were delivered from the Wadesboro depot of the Carolina Central during the past winter.—Miss Cornie Benton, daughter ter.—Miss Cornie Benton, daughter had been the past winter.—Miss Cornie Benton, daughter had been the past winter. sang in Sunday school when they were children they must be very hardened indeed if they are not touched and sorrowful."

And this was true beyond a doubt A peep through the chinks of the door revealed the bloated drunkards, the outcasts of society, the confidence women, the pickpockets, and shoplifters sitting around a little pale woman in black, whose face was characterized by an expression of devotion that was almost saint like. She had come among the wretched of her own sex to tell them that there was more joy in heaven over the repentance of one sinner than there was over ninety and nine just ones. They, who but a short while ago were ready to laugh boisterously at a ribald jest or to blaspheme, had been sobered and steadied by one gentle little woman, who came in the name of the Master to remind them of their mothers, their Sunday schools, and their dead and buried innocence. It was a sad picture, and one that made a man feel the truth of the statement that the way of the transgressor is hard, and that it were better for a girl to die in childhood than to perish thus slowly, terribly and surely in her womanhood. nel house of decomposed character there were signs of resurrection and redemption. With heads bowed in prayer the strange congregation knelt, sat, and stood. Emotions conflicting and struggling in their souls were mirrowed on their expressive faces, and as these were subdued and softened by thought and tears the voice of the widowed missionary broke forth exultingly in the words of the hymn, "I am so glad that Jesus loves me." The fallen angels joined in the refrain.

Prohibition in Carrolton, Ga. The following paragraphs are extracted from a letter from the Rev. J. W. Lee, of the North Georgia Conference, to Atticus G. Haygood, D. D., President of Emory College: "After many years of strong opposi-tion and abuse the temperance men succeeded in carrying prohibition, and now see the result : "The trade of the town has more than doubled. Before the liquor traffic was abolished the trade of the place was about $200,000 a year; now it is $500,-000 a year. There are thirty stores in town, and I do not know a single merchant among them who would not vote against the liquor traffic on purely business grounds. Mr. John W. Stewart, who has made a fortune here, says, as a business man, that he would not have liquor back for any consideration. Some of our leading merchants were opposed to prohibition at first because they fear-ed that it would injure their trade. They are unanimously in favor of it now. The $30,000 that was spent here for whiskey prior to 1875 is now spent in building houses, improving stock, draining lands and paying taxes. The farmers are nearly all out of debt. Many of the men who were spending all their money for whiskey have quit drinking and are making a support for their families. "The argument that men would drink anyhow holds good with but very few. Perhaps there are in every town some few men who have drank so long that they are slaves to the habit. Such men would send off and get whiskey and drink anyhow. But we have learned that, with nearly all the people, whiskey is like watermelons, the supply creating the demand. Do away with the supply and there will be no demand, as a general thing.

"In a moral point of view, the results of this movement in our own town have been perfectly remarkable. The Solicitor of this Judicial Circuit says that there is less crime in this county than in any other in this circuit. Most of the people have joined the church. Profanity is almost unknown. On the train that comes daily into Carrolton not an officer or train hand on it ever swears an oath.

"The soberness and quiet which prevail here, even on election days and court weeks, strike visitors as being wonderful. At a barbecue here last year, though there were together about four thousand people, Col. Thos. Hardeman who specks on the occasion said. man, who spoke on the occasion, said that he never saw a drunken man. He

"The prohibition movement in this county is a grand success. Three-fourths of the white people in Carrolton are opposed to the sale of whiskey, and nearly the same proportion in the

A Singular Death.

Augusta News.

On last Thursday, while Mr. Thos. H. Farnum, a traveling salesman, was visiting Dublin, he was stung on the lower lip by some kind of an insect or spider. He gave but little attention to the sting at first, but soon his lip began to swell and became punctured with holes. The swelling extended to the face and every feature soon became swellen until no semblance of his swollen until no semblance of his natural self remained. Mr. Farnum finally died of erpsipelas, despite of the best medical treatment.

The Cause of It.

There is less drunkenness in this State to-day than has been for the last ten years. It is gradually on the decrease, and prosperity is everywhere apparent.—Examiner.

This certainly is true as regards the county of Rowan, and we are glad to note that the whole State is showing the good results of the prohibition work. We are inclined to think that the action of the county commissioners in this, and a number of other counties in the State, has brought about this good result by their manly course in not granting license until the people should decide on the matter. If the slight restraint put on liquor has already made so perceptible a change for the better, what will be the result when the peeter, what will be the result when the people all over the State shall repudiate and abate liquor from all its borders! It will be a glorious rest! It will be peace and prosperity in many a troubled home.—Watchman.
