HOME PENCILINGS.

Luther Benson is warranted to speak 200 words to the minute.

Col. Wm. Johnston and Jno. T. Schenck addressed an anti-prohibition meeting at Sardis' church yesterday. Senator Z. B. Vance and Maj. C. Dowd leave to-day for the Caswell centennial celebration.

We have been informed that the father of J. H. Van Ness, of this city, died at his home in Johnsontown, Va on last Sunday morning, 24th inst.

Under the vagrant act "Five Points" has been depleted of its population. This is hard on the "Points," but it is good news for the people of quest us to say that they have received a postal card without a signature. If this item should happen to fall under eye of the writer, who will never get an answer, he will know the reason We are indebted to Gen. D. H. Hill, formerly a citizen of Charlotte, but now president of the Arkansas Industrial University, at Fayetteville, Ark., for a copy of the ninth annual catalogue of that institution. It shows an attendance of 441 students, representing nearly every Southern State, and the statistics indicate undoubted success and prosperity. North Carolina feels honored in that its president is a North Carolinaian of good stock, and a representative of which she need not feel ashamed. His many friends here wish the old General continued success in his chosen calling.

A Revolutionary Relic.

It may be interesting to people of this section to read that when Gen. Greene retreated after the battle of Guilford Court House he stopped temporarily near Cascade, Pittsylvania county, Va., establishing a hospital there. A few days ago a graveyard containing the bones of many soldiers of the Revolution was discovered on the Dan, near Cascade.

Action of the Coroner's Jury.

Ephraim Johnston and Adam Springs, two colored men, were arrested yesterday and committed to jail by order of the coroner's jury empanelled to inves-tigate the circumstances of the death of Andy Beatty, who was found dead on the track of the Air-Line Railroad on the morning of the 20th of July. The jury were in session all day yesterday, and late in the afternoon this order was issued as the result of their deliberations. The proceedings were conducted with closed doors, and as their investigations have not yet been brought to a close the grounds upon which the above step was taken have not been divulged.

At Home and Abroad.

The August number of this North Carolina publication is on our table. It is published at Wilmington under the comprehensive title of a "Monthly Journal of General Literature and Information," and a glance at its pages will convince the most skeptical that it is not a misnomer. Unfortunately for ventures of this kind, Southern literary publications have failed heretofore for lack of patronage, but this one seems to have a vim on the part of its editors which indicates financial life and usefulness. It is published by Rev. G. D. and Misses Lisette & Florence Bernheim, editors and proprietors at $2.50 per annum.

Over in Gaston.

It is said Gaston county, North Carolina, contains more whiskey distilleries than any county in the United States, and it is accordingly predicted that her people will vote strong against prohibition. The result of the anti-prohibition meeting at Gastonia yesterday don't seem to predict any such conclusion. The attempt was made, as we exhibits how the colored people show learn by a correspondent who lives on | their gratitude to such leaders as Bishthe spot, to get up a grand rally to hear

PROHIBITION IN EARNEST.

More Invasion of Personal Liberty Wanted Down in Georgia. A correspondent of the Atlanta Con-

A correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution writes that paper an article on the subject of prohibiting the "hip pocket" business, which we commend to Charlotte readers. He says:

If our Legislature is open to a suggestion, I hope they will hear the following and act accordingly. If there is any one thing that calls more loudly for "prohibition" than another in this land to-day, that thing is the barbarous land to-day, that thing is the barbarous practice of carrying deadly weapons—particularly "pistols." The man who habitually carries a pistol is, at heart, a cowardly bully, little better than a carniverous beast, and he ought to be treated as an enemy to his kind and treated as an enemy to his kind and put out of all possibility of doing injury to his fellow-man. The place for such a man is the penitentiary, and the main fact of his having a pistol on his person ought to be sufficient evidence to convict him of intent to commit murder before any jury of the land. It ought to be "prima facie" evidence that the man is half savage, and therefore ought not to run at large. The same motion which prompted him to carry a pistol is identically the same that prompted him to use it, and that which prompted him to use it is the brutal desire of a wicked heart to kill somebody. But as all know, the horrible evils of this practice, as well as its rapid in-crease, and it is useless to dwell on

The question is: What is the remedy? Prohibition and penal enactments -first, prohibit the manufacture of pistols in the State; second, prohibit the traffic in pistols in toto, except by State | front of the court house was packed and municipal officials for police pur- and the crowd extended beyond the and municipal officials for police purposes; third, make it a felony punishable by imprisonment without any "ifs or ands" or alternative fines-which is only another way for saying that a man who has money may be permitted to commit a crime, by paying a certain price for the privilege, while a poor man has to go to prison for the same offense. This is our remedy, and one that could not possibly work harm to any interest, public or private. For when you come to think of it seriously you will see that there is no earthly use for any man's ever manufacturing a pistol, and there is no earthly use of a there is no earthly use of a man's owning one. The only excusable circum-stance under which a pistol can be said to be of special use is to keep in your house to guard against burglars, but even for this purpose there is no need The prohibition managers state is a thousand times better, because almost imperceptibly into pathos and Benson to speak in the opera house and were afterwards refused the house by much more sure. a little fellow with his hair parted in the middle and a forehead about as broad as my two fingers, squares himself before me and says:
'Why don't you do like me, Benson?

Why don't you control yourself? Why, look at me, I can drink whiskey without getting drunk!"

And then Benson: "Say, see here young fellow, when you pour whiskey down a man it hunts for brains and ot course if he hasn't got any it doesn't Important Discovery in the Ward-Bousnzs Mine.

From a letter received here we learn that Mr. Muffly, an eminent practical miner, has discovered on the Ward-Bonanza mining property in Davidson county, formerly known as the Ward Mine, a large quantity of what is known on the Pacific slope as "shale," which denotes the presence, in close proximity, of a substratum of what is also called water-worn pebbles, easily reached by sinking a shaft, which is now being done.

This "water-worn pebbles" out West, it is said, sometimes yield thousands of dollars per ten, and the yield under all circumstances is enormous. This substance now ascertained to be what is known in mining parlance as "shale' is what has generally been regarded here as broken down slate. And while this is and has been yielding gold in handsome quantities, its value is greatly enhanced by denoting the near presence of the pebbles. While these surface deposits are extensive and rich, the veins from which they come are very large and rich in silver, gold and load. One we learn is sixty fact wide lead. One, we learn, is sixty feet wide upon the surface, assaying from $17 to $65 per ton in silver, and while the former will be exhausted in time, the latter is inexhaustible.

The Comet "C."

The new comet or comet "C" was seen at the Naval Observatory, Washington, yesterday morning and again this morning. The Star reporter was on the ground as usual this morning to find out all about it. "I believe Prof. Eastman saw it last night," said Prof. Hall. "It is quite a good little comet." Having received this endorsement of the comet from Prof. Hall, the reporter looked up Prof. Eastman. "Yes, I saw it last night, or rather this morning," said that astronomer. "I had only five minutes in which to observe it on account of the clouds, and of course did not see very much. I expect it will be visible to the naked eye soon—in about

"Is it as much of a comet as the other?" "That cannot be told yet."

"Will we have as fine opportunities of observing it?" "It will not go so far north as the other. We will be able to see it by-andby early in the evening in the west, and early in the morning in the east."

"Has it a tail?" "Yes, it has something of a tail, which will grow more distinct." The comet is labelled as comet "C," peing the third comet discovered this year. The comet up by the pole star is comet "B." "We have to indicate them that way," said Prof. Eastman, "as there is some doubt or to the like is some doubt as to who discovered the large comet."

Luther Benson Last Night.

Charlotte people, usually so indiffer- March..... ent in regard to speech-making, turned | April out liberally to hear Mr. Luther Ben-son last night, until the open space in sidewalk out into the street. Few who heard him the night before missed the opportunity to hear him a second time, firm. and numbers of others to whom the re-port of his extraordinary powers for New York Central..... pleasing and holding an audience had become communicated came to swell the audience. The speaker seemed to appreciate the compliment and be spurred by it to do his best. He fully redeemed his promise to say nothing that he had said upon the former occasion and nothing but what would also be better than anything he had before said. Indeed his resources out restraint or diminution. Better out of doubt. Dr. Wells Brown made a short talk after Mr. Benson finished.
