VIRGINIA POLITICS. The Republican convention which met at Lynchburg was rather a mixed multitude, and in their deliberations got badly mixed, too. The contest be tween the Straightouts and Coalition ists resulted in a split and the entertain met at Nagara sais, Phase dorsement of the Readjusters by the latter, who thereupon retired from the convention leaving the Straightouts to run the machine according to their own fancy. Precisely how serious this split may be, we, at this distance, cannot tell, but it looks to us as if the re-It is said that cotton seed oil is a good sult will be to defeat Cameron and substitute for lard in cooking.

Since the State to the Democrats. Had the Republicans remained united and supported the Readjuster ticket, we think it more than likely it would win, but it required solid Republican support to do that.

The Readjusters, by the way, are no mean antagonists, for Cameron is a man of more than ordinary ability, and he is backed by Mahone, a good organizer, and perfectly unscrupulous as to the means he employs to carry his point. He understands his work fully, and has managed it shrewdly from the start. The fact that he could call into a Republican convention so many men to advocate his support, shows that he knows what he is doing. We believe now that he can control more votes in the Republican party than Wickham can and that he will get Cameron more of them than the Straightouts can controll; but whether he can secure enough to outnumber the Democratic votes that will be polled for Daniel, remains to be seen. We believe it possible, for the Readjuster has much on his side of the discussion that takes with the masses. To "pay all you owe" is the Democratic platform; to "pay as little as you can" is the Readjuster's. The Democrat appeals to the voter from a standpoint of honesty and State pride to meet his public obligations squarely and honestly, while the Readjuster appeals to the selfishness of the voter and the disposition latent in the average man to escape obligations when the plea of right or justification can be put in. Paying public debts, especially when more or less of it may have been contracted in a questionable way, is not very popular anyway, and whether repudiation win or lose in popular elections depends no little upon who advocates it and how it is advocated. Of course the great body of substantial state pride and take a personal interest in the good name of the State will vote solid for meeting her just-obligations, but there are many on the other side who are not imbued with this high sense of honor, and who will vote for any measure that means lessening their liabilities, and lessening taxes. How many of this class there may be in the Old Dominion we have no means of figurof them, if the Republican muddle can be arranged, to make Mr. Daniel's election no easy matter if not to constant and the section is constant. no easy matter, if not to ensure his de-

MONEY PLENTY.

One reason, perhaps, of the Southern increase of business enterprises of late, the large investments in railroads, mines, &c., is the great amount of money locked up in Northern vaults, and the low rate of interest at which it is offered. It is said all the money one wants may be borrowed at three per cent. No wonder that capitalists are respiration 19. seeking investments under these circumstances, and that railroads, mines, and factories in the South, which hold out inducements of liberal dividends can command the capital asked for.

We saw a statement not long ago of the formation of a company at the North to loan money to Georgia farmers, thus going out and actually seeking borrowers.

The great field of enterprise is now in the South, and this way the owners of large unused capital are turning and will turn for some time to come. As the completion of the North Pacifice railroad enlarged business and peopled the Territories of the Northwest, so will the completion of the Southern Pacific increase business and increase population in the South Western States and Territories, some of which are even now growing with amazing rapidity. Of course all this means, as a natural consequence, towns cities, and numerous industries now not even thought of, but sure to come.

I deem it my duty to say that in ne particular do the details given represent my views of the case—nor were they ever given by me to any representations. If told ten years ago that the then wild State of Texas would by this time be girded with railroads, that her population would increase at the rate of two or three hundred thousand a year, that she would be connected directly with the City of the Montezumas, with a dozen of other roads from different firections penetrating into the Mexican Republic, that New Orleans would be one of the greatest grain export ports whose proper place would be inside of some asylum, but all this and even more we have seen come to pass within a few years, and still the work goes on with increased vigor, having yet scarcely made a good beginning. The next ten years will see three times as much ten years will see three times as much ten years will see three times as much partly cloudy weather, followed by local rains, westerly winds, stationary or

The straight-out Republicans, in convention at Lynchburg, adjourned with out making any nominations. They authorized the executive committee to do so, but their strongest men "decline the honor.". This leaves the race to Daniel and Cameron. The Philadelphia Bulletin, a Republican paper, speaking of the appointment of colored men on the police force by Mayor King, says the negroes should not aspire to office. Of course not. The Republican idea is that all they ought to do is just go right along and elect white Republicans.

New York Herald: Perhaps Dr. Agnew will now tell some one why a strong man with a wound that has not penetrated any great cavity, nor injured any blood vessel, nor touched any vital organ, with a mere flesh wound in the wall of the body—is now, after thirty seven days, no farther advanced toward recovery than Mr. Garfield is?

WHY THE BULLET HAS NOT BEEN CUT OUT.

A correspondent of the Baltimore Sun writes thus to his paper about the hidden bullet: The impression is growing that the operation of Monday was not so much o facilitate the exit of pus as it was to straighten the track of the bullet, so that the electrical probe can be used in locating to a certainty the position of the bullet. Those who know Dr. Agnew well and are familiar with his views in regard to this case say he is not at all satisfied with the bullet being where it is, and that it is his intention to cut it out if it can be located as the only means by which a final recovery can be assured. It would have been and intelligent citizens, who have taken out weeks ago had the Presicould stand the operation. that in a conversation with Secretary Blaine yesterday he said that the ball would have been extracted before this, but that the danger attending the operation would be more than that of leaving it where it is unless the Daniel leaving it where it is, unless the President was sufficiently strong to rally from the effects of the operation. It is said also that Dr. Agnew is of the opinion that the rise in temperature during

HICKORY, CATAWBA COUNTY, N. C.

THIS school, located near the town of Hickory.

Catawba county, N. C., within a few minutes' walk of the depot, and a few hours' travel by rail of the far-famed Asheville, is conducted by the Sisters of Our Lady of Mercy, who for nearly three quarters of this century, and until recently unaided, founded and directed all the female Catholic literary institutions in the Carolinas and Georgia. Hickory is a great health resort, having in its vicinity the celebrated Catawba Springs. Malarial diseases and consumption are unknown in this immediate section, and visiting patients rapidly recover under the influence of its unsurpassed climate. No undue influence used on the religious principles of the pupils, but to insure regularity all must conform to the general rules of the Institution. hing cures—all the proprietors claim for them. I have kept them since they were first offered to the public. They took high rank from the first, and maintained it, and are more called for than all others combined. So long as they keep up their high reputation for purity and usefulness, I shall continue to recommend them—something I have never before done with any other patent medicine. J. J. BABCOCK, M.
