THE NORTHERN BAILROAD WAR. THE PRESIDENT'S CHANCE.

The freight and passenger war in which some of the grand trunk railways in the North have been engaging for sometime, is calling popular attention to the vast proportions some of these corporations are assuming and the strength they have. For weeks they have been carrying freights and passengers at a mere nominal figure, which, if continued for any considerable length of time, would bankrupt The temperance bill is having a rough them. This is when they are at war with each other. But suppose they, instead of pulling against each other, resolve to unite, and "pool their issues," as D. Kearney would say, and they sometimes do, what is the result then? A rise in rates that makes profitable shipping of grain and other farm produce almost an impossibility. Until the shipment of Western grain began by the barge system on the Mississippi to New Orleans and thence to Europe, within the past year, this was common, but the new outlet offered a low rate of freight which compelled the great trunk lines to lower their rates.

Jay Gould, however, has reached out in that direction, and in time he will be gobbling up the large lines and will in all probability have as complete control of the great Western river highway as he now has of the seven thousand miles of rail which he manages. This is the great syndicate era. They are reaching out not only for the main ed with complicity in the death of lines, but also for the feeders, the short branch roads that connect with them, and it is only a question of time, and respondent of the Philadelphia Times no very remote time either when the that Dr. Agnew told Mrs. Garfield on entire rail and water system of transportation in this country will be under the domination of a very few of the great capitalists of the country, and then it will be in their power to form such combinations as their interests

RADICAL CONSISTENCY.

In nothing is the arrant hypocriscy of the Republican party leaders more conspicuous than in their endorsement of the Readjuster party in Virginia. When it is a question of dividing the Democratic party and carrying a State all their fine spun platitudes about honesty and the honor of the State double what it was in 1860, though no they forget at once and heartily endorse anything that pronounces itself opposed to the Democratic party.

In Maine they denounced the Democrats who formed a coaltion with the Greenbackers, and the Greenbackers did not propose to destroy any obligation nor to repudiate any debt, but when Mahone comes to them and tells them that with their moral support and the aid of the negro vote of Virginia, on a repudiation platform, he can carry the State, they pat him on their back, endorse repudiation and write letters telling all the Republicans of Virginia to vote for repudiation and Mahone's candidate. All their professions of honesand public morality are lost sight of and banished when political expediency comes into question.

The first great object in view with them is the defeat of Democracy, the character of means employed being a matter of no consideration. To do his they would strike hands with any party and upon any platform.

EXECUTIVE MANSION .- 10:30 a. m.-In conversation this morning on the President's condition Dr. Boynton said the prospects were considerably brighter and that the patient is resting comfortably. In reply to an inquiry the doctor explained that the enemas which were being administered consisted principally of diluted extract of beef, a yolk of an egg and whiskey, the whole being dissolved and slightly heated. Dr. Bliss in conversation or the same muriatic acid was also a part of the enemas. The latter gentleman expresses the opinion that the President's stomach was gradually becoming stronger, and referred to the fact that nourishment was being retained as a proof thereof. The doctor still remains hopeful and says there is no reason for giving the President's case up yet.

Dr. Boynton in response to a question regarding the President's taking nourishment in a regular manner, said it was possible that a very small quantity of diluted beef extract, probably a teaspoonful, would be given him about noon. It would depend, however, upon the patient's condition at that hour. In referring yielding as they themselves have been to the appearance of the President Dr. Bliss said that when he was shot his weight was about 210 pounds, that his confinement had reduced him probably seventy pounds and that there was of course some pallor, but as he were full beard this was not so perceptible as it would otherwise be.

All reports received from the sick room this morning have been of an encouraging character and while there is anxiety is still manifested and the noon bulletin is anxiously awaited.

EXECUTIVE MANSION .- 1 p. m .- The President's mail has increased very materially since the relapse and the suggestions as to how the unfavorable turn in the case should be met are innumerable. One correspondent says that if the transfusion of blood should be determined upon he is ready to give half or all of his blood if necessary to sustain and build up the President. Previous to the midday dressing Dr. Agnew was asked the condition of the President, to which he responded "he is better to-day." When questioned further the doctor said "there is nothing further to say than is contained in the bulletin which is stated over my whether he considered that the patient had an equal chance for recovery. ### UNOFFICIAL BULLETIN.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, 2 p. m.-Dr. Bliss has just come from the patient's room and before leaving the mansion said that the President had taken nourishment twice since the mid-day dressing occurred, at 12.45 and 1.45. It consisted of a cooled infusion of beef mixed with a few drops of muriatic acid. The statement heretofore made that muriatic acid was one of component parts of the enemas was erroneous. The patient is given about a teaspoonful at a time. What has been administered thus far has been retained, and the improvement anticipated by it has been realized. The question was then asked, if there had been any return of nausea? he had been quite well since he had been away.

5 p. m.—Owing to the contradictory information obtained during the last hour with regard to the President's vomiting, a note was sent to Dr. Bliss, who is now in the surgeon's room, in forming him that a gentleman who had recently been in the private part of the house had said upon leaving the Man-sion that the President had vomited once this afternoon, and that his pulse was slightly higher, at once, in reply, wrote: "There has not been any vomiting to-day."

The Guard's Statement of the Encounter With Guiteau.

WASHINGTON, August 17 .- A report was current here this morning that Guiteau had attempted to kill one of the guards at jail but it was stated at police headquarters that the report was without foundation. It is learned, however, that the report was true. At an early hour this morning as W. C. McGill, one of the guards passed Guiteau's cell, he noticed something wrong and entered the cell. He found a knife in Guiteau's possession and demanded it, but Guiteau refused to give it up. McGill drew a pistol and a struggle ensued. Guiteau made a desperate effort to secure the pistol and succeed ed in getting it away from McGill. Afa feeling of reassurance considerable ter a severe struggle McGill regained anxiety is still manifested and the noon possession of the pistol, which, being discharged during the scuffle, brought other guards to his assistance and Guiteau was disarmed.

WASHINTON-EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 17 .- 1:30 p. m.-Major Brock of the metropolitan police force, was summoned to the telephone a moment ago, and was informed by the policeman whom he had despatched to the jail to ascertain what truth there was in the rumor concerning Guiteau's attempt to assassinate a guard, that the guard was standing immediately out-side of the door of the cell, when he noticed that the prisoner was acting in a strange and unusual manner, and as he (the guard) thought, was trying to hang himself. The guard opened the door, and upon entering the cell Guiteau seized him and a scuffle ensued, during which the guard drew his pistol in self defense, and it was accident-ally discharged. Hearing the report of the pistol, another of the guards rushed to the scene and separated the men. There was no damage done by the discharge of the weapon.

Men were seen to seize them even from women. For about half an hour there was a scene of dire confusion. On the upper deck cabin a struggling mass was wedged, the doors being blocked up, and to facilitate escape windows were broken out by the officers of the boat and the passengers passed through, head first. As soon as the panic had somewhat subsided the band struck up and this helped to reassure the passengers and restore order. The tug Germania, about half an hour after the accident, went to the assistance of the Plymouth Rock and took her in tow.
