What an awful-locking hand. If confiagration or eerlesspleum should set in what would your unfortnit father say?" The poor boy didn't seem to take a very ready grip on the problem thus presented in reference to his paternal parent, but his face lit up with something like savage satisfaction as he observed: "If you think that's awful, mother, you ought to see Bill Stebbins' nose."—Brooklyn Ragle. -The Captain's Whereabouts.

Special to the Philadelphia Times. the latter was left behind by the scoundrel, and this wife is now left, with a grown daughter, entirely penniless. It appears that this plan of escape has been premeditated. The wife had some property of her own, but the licentious husband got possession of it in some way, disposed of it and kept the money. A part of this was in furniture. When the exposure of his Thirteenth street establishment and the family row establishment and the family row which accompanied its discovery by his wife occurred he sent his wife and daughter to Ocean Grove. Once out of the way they were kept in ignorance as to what was going on. He then took the elegant furniture out of the Thirteenth street establishment and disposed of it, moving his mistress to a more secluded spot. He then took his

A leading member of the syndicate who is now in Richmond was apwho is now in Richmond was approached yesterday afternoon by a Dispatch reporter and asked to give for publication the particulars of the purchase, or offer to purchase, of which he was undoubtedly well informed.

He replied; "I am not able at present to give you any definite information. I think anything said would be incertain."

Another gentleman deeply interested in the syndicate said that he had heard something about a sale, but it was confidential, and he was not therefore at liberty to say how far matters had gone. He thought, however, that there had as yet been no "oilicial" intimation of the accomplishment of the sale.

HOWGATE BURS AWAY.

His Stenlings Amounting to $170,000 Washington, August 31.—Additional developments in the Howgate case show still further embezzlements. The show still further embezziements. The sum has now grown to $170,000 and the back counties are yet to hear from. His property in this city was seized on attachment to-day by the government. It will not cover one-half the amount stolen. Meanwhile the gallant captain is mission. is missing. From being short in his accounts he has actually become short himself. The direction taken is unknown, but it is supposed he has been known, but it is supposed he has been in Canada several days. His bondsmen are left in the lurch to the tune of $40,000. They are good for the amount. The captain is reputed to have taken with him about $22,000 cash. He has also taken his mistress, Nellie Burrill, the story of whose laison with Howgate first appeared in these dispatches and furnished the clue to the government officers. Fortunately for his wife the latter was left behind by the scoundrel, and this wife is now left, with a wife's furniture and placed it in the deserted house and collected all his rents in advance, and otherwise raised money by converting his securities. His counsel made a vigorous fight to get his bail fixed at as low a figure as possible. His bold move of coming back here at the first moment after his arrest in Detroit is supposed to have been a part of the bluff game he was playing to get away with what property he had in this city. He evidently thought he could get away from here, where he had so many personal friends, on his own personal recognizance, but Captain Howgate overreached himself, and the gratings of a prison rose before his vision before he had been here twenty-four hours. It is thought by those who know him that he was planning for flight with his mistress to the Sandwich Island, as they had long ago laid an immigration scheme of that kind. When the appraisers went over his houses to-day it is reported that some very rich discoveries were made. Where the guilty birds have flown is pure matter of conjecture. There are four persons, however, who are just now very anxious to know, and these are the forsaken wife, the United States Marshal of the District of Columbia and the two bondsmen. hearted man." duction and Progress. GALVESTION, Sept. 1.—A, special statistical edition of the News to be published to-morrow morning proves conclusively the rapid development of Texas. It shows that 1,634 miles of railways have been completed within a year. That within two years 41 additional towns of commercial importance have been reached by rail or have sprung into existence, and that the value of the State's products has increased from $57,820,141 in 1878-779 to $95,960,930 in 1880-81.

A fragment of a prehistoric garment with a piece of wood attached, has been found in a deposit of salt in Nevada. It appeared to have been knit by hand from the inner fibre of a tree. A similar fragment was once found in Louisiana, among the bones of a mastodon, which proved its very great antiquity.
