

visit to Charlotte was the Horah vs. Knox case, but that case has been postponed.

The next company booked for the opera house is under the manage-ment of Mr. John T. Ford. John E. Owens, the celebrated "Solon Shingle," is the star, but he appears in a new role. The engagement is for the 28th inst.

IF It was reported that the storm struck Raleigh yesterday, and on the line of the Carolina Central it extended as far as Laurinburg. If it will just come here we are willing for a few houses to be turned overprovided itdon't kill any children. Charlotte seems to be the centre of the drought. The rain-less hurricanes even avoid us.

much interest.

Our Statesville correspondent writes under date of the 8th that the man Adams, who was jailed at Taylorsville as an accessory before the fact in the Caroline Thompson murder, committed last June (an account of the arrest appeared in yesterday's OBSERVER) has been released on a $500 bond. Adams, he says, is a Wilkes, and not an Alexander county man, as reported.

Changes on the Carolina Central.

On Monday the schedule on the Western Division of the Carolina Central will be changed—this time there is no mistake. The passenger train will leave for Shelby at 8:35 in the morning memory of the music we associate with leave for Shelby at 8:35 in the morning and will return at 6 o'clock in the af-ternoon. A daily freight will also be put on this division—the first unmixed freight train which has ever been run the Chalby When these changes take to Shelby. When these changes take place Monday, a total of 16 freight and passenger trains will leave and arrive in Charlotte daily over the two divisions of the Carolina Central.

The Assessment of the Site for the Reservoir.

Signal Service Officer, Mr. S. A. Haney, arrived from Wilmington yes-terday to take the place of Dr. D. O'Denoghue, who has been in charge of the office here since its establish-ment. The Doctor without solicita-tion has been re-appointed, but has not yet definitely decided whether he will Accept the re-appointment or not. He leaves for Washington this after-noon to report to the department, but will return to this city and continue the practice of medicine whether he de-cides to remain in charge of the signal

Death of Miss Amelia Miller.

Yesterday morning at 2 o'clock, Miss Amelia Miller, only daughter of Dr. A.

W. Miller, pastor of the First Presby-terian church of this city, died of con-sumption, complicated with malarial fever. Miss Miller was a young lady of those quiet Christian virtues which yield a rich harvest of friends among those whose friendship is most unself-ish and unworldly, but whose bitter grief at the death of their friend is only alleviated by the consciousness of her eternal welfare. The memory of Miss Amelia Miller will be to all who knew

The sympathies of Dr. Miller's con-gregation and of the community are extended to himself and his household in the death of his only and much loved daughter.

The Wonnded Burglar Captured.

Three gentlemen of York county, works was completed yesterday morn-ing, and the commissioners having pre-viously inspected the land assessed it at the rate of $112.50 per acre. This as-sessment covers 8.86 acres of the Tor-rence land. Enough to make up the ten acres will be purchased from Col. Myers, who ewns land adjoining. The water works contractors will deposit the money, $975, but will appeal from the assessment, which they say is ex-cessive. Signal Service Officer, Mr. S. A. Haney, arrived from Wilmington yes-terday to take the place of Dr. D. O'Denoghue who has been in charge lary of the house of Mr. Wm. Eller. It seems that Brown or White and Biggers or Partlow, are comrades in crime and that they both came from the same neighborhood in York county. When they met in jail they at once be-gan to accuse each other and a series of

was pledged to certain extensions, and it could never afford to permit itself to lose its entire independence. Finally parties holding a controlling interest proposed to me to secure the controlling interest in the Virginia Midland, these to interests to be held by the new association, so that they could never be separated; any sale of any part in this interest to carry with it an interest in both the Richmond and Danville syn-dicate and the Virginia Midland—an alliance in which neither should be sac-rificed to the other. When such a plan was proposed to me, I said that we had at least a basis for negotiation. As a at least a basis for negotiation. As a prerequisite for the opening of the plan, I had first to secure guarantees from them that the North Carolina Mid-land would be pushed to completion, and that the interest of Baltimore city, which ~Mr. Garret had so zealously guarded should not be injured in the guarded, should not be injured in the least, and, I may add, that it was understood that Baltimore was to be made the port of export for the enormous cotton traffic of the combined roads. could not go to Mr. Garrett, and, hold-ing the views that he did, he certainly could not entertain any proposition for the sale of the Baltimore and Ohio interest to which I was not a party. I went to him, assured him that all his projects should be carried out as agreed upon, and that there should be no discrimination againat Baltimore or the Baltimore and Ohio. When the cer-tainty of this was shown him, it took us a very little time to settle it." "When was the matter decided up on ?" "About a fortnight ago. Yes, exactly two weeks ago to-day.

"What do you think of the future of the allied corporation ?" "They can be made immensely profit-able to their stockholders and be of incalculable benefit in the region through which they run in proportion as they co-operate with the people and develop the country through which they run. I have never been a railroad speculator and have always thought local develop-ment the true policy to pursue. In fact it was about on that platform that I was elected to Congress. I told the peo-ple of my district that their prosperity could be reached only through the same means as in the North; that they must develop their industries and become calculable benefit in the region through means as in the North; that they must develop their industries and become self-supporting. There was no use in trying to raise grain against the West, but they had vast mineral wealth in the ground, and they could raise cotton and tobacco and establish manufac-tories. The war wiped out all our values swept away all our railroad values, swept away all our railroad stocks, our bank stocks and our bonds, and we must recover them, or civiliza-tion will fail of its object and the race will go backwards. There must be progress or retrogression, and everything is favorable now for the industries of the South." "Does your road fully occupy the field ?" "So fully that there can be no chance
