DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC.

Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic is recommended by the medical profession, for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, Nervous Prostration, and Convalescence from Fevers, &c.

Gentlemen: I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome. A brother of mine, to whom your Iron Tonic had given much relief, was on the point of leaving for Texas, but was induced to try your Iron Tonic, from which I received almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not entirely abated. I have used three bottles of the Tonic. Since using it I have done twice the labor I ever did in the same time during my illness, and with less fatigue. Your Tonic has not only done this for my body, but seems to have cleansed my blood of all impurities. Your Tonic has also done this work, I know not what. I give it the credit.

J. F. WATSON, Pastor Christian Church, Troy, O.

Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic is a combination of Iron, Peruvian Bark, and Phosphorus, and is unequaled as a blood purifier and appetizer. It serves every purpose where a tonic is necessary.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 11, 1881.

STATE NEWS.

Kernersville News: Forsyth county has a man who taught school 5 months last winter and walked to and from his school, a distance of 10 miles, every day.

Statesville Examiner: The graded school opened on Monday the 5th inst. Seven teachers, including the Superintendent, and three hudred and twenty-five pupils have reported.

There is now a lively demand for competent school teachers in this section of country. This is a good sign. We go in for competent teachers, better teachers, but not cheaper teachers. They are cheap enough already.

Winston Republican: Only one bicycle in town, and that one succeeded in crippling four boys, running over six dogs, and scaring a horse badly one day this week, and it was not a very good day for the bicycle either.

Work has not been stopped on the North Carolina Midland Railroad, near town, notwithstanding a transfer of the ownership of the road has taken place.

W. A. Lemly, of Salem, has a fish pond with over 30 German carp. He had occasion to draw it off some weeks since and was surprised to see the size of this fish, many of them were over a foot in length. He is so well pleased with his experiment that he intends enlarging his pond.

Anderson Pledger, colored, shot a negro girl by the name of Sides, near the old Paper Mill last Saturday. It seems that Anderson had been courting the girl, but she "loved another," and discarded Anderson. Whereupon he determined to have vengeance, and waylaid her as she was returning from work, and shot her, as it is thought, fatally.

Statesville Landmark: Thousands of little worms, probably of the species of caterpillars and yet smaller and without the caterpillar's fuz, have made their appearance in different parts of town, covering the ground and in places occupying the pavements so that pedestrians cannot pass without stepping on them.

Since the above was written we understand that these worms have appeared in great hosts in Alexander county, and that they are stripping all of the fodder from the corn stalks. The people call them the "army worm."

Newton Enterprise: A Mr. Mull, of this county the other day ploughed up a veritable Indian skull.

The water has failed in many wells in town.

There was a conference of some of the officials of the Narrow Gauge Railroad at Lincolnton Tuesday night, Maj. Finger on his return reporting the road as booming. The company will put a force to work, with the gravel train, on the unfinished part of the road through the town of Lincolnton in about ten days, and will be ready to begin laying the track of the first five mile section from that place in about four weeks. They will push on to this place as rapidly as possible. The earnings of the road have been much greater this summer than they were during the three corresponding months of last year.

The Forests of the South.

New Orleans Democrat.

There are in rough figures, 760,000 square miles of timbered lands in this country, of which 460,000, or nearly two-thirds, are situated in the Southern States, with the exception of portions of Western Texas; nearly all the South is heavily wooded. There is more timber in this section to-day than there was twenty years ago, notwithstanding the ruthless destruction of forests by farmers and frontiersmen. When the Shennandoah Valley was first settled it was, to a certain extent, a prairie, almost treeless. It was only in the past century that the immense forests which now cover this valley and the sides of the Blue Ridge, have sprung up.

When six years ago the agricultural bureau made an estimate of the woodarea of this State, it was fixed at 15,-000,000 acres; to-day it is estimated at 17,400,000, an increase of 15 [illegible] Much of this increase is [illegible] to the development of [illegible] are [illegible] ber; but in the same time the timber of this State more than keeps pace with that cut for lumber and fuel. It is estimated that even if timber is cut nown unless the land is used for the purpose of planting, a new growth will spring up at the rate of one cord per acre a year. This would give us one hundred million cords of timber grown during the past six years—at least quadruple our consumption during that period. Nowhere in the world is the timber growth ranker and more rapid than in our State. The newer growths of timber can be studied along the banks of the river. An instance is also to be seen in the southeastern portion of the perish of East Baton Rouge. When first settled that portion of the parish contained scarcely any pine country. The pines, within the memory of man, have crossed the Amite, and now there are several thousand acres of pine land on the western side of that river.

In point of wooded area North Carolina, with its immense mountain region in the western portion of the State, holds the first position in the South and in the country. Louisiana and Florida dispute for the second place, with the chances in favor of the latter, as it contains less sea marsh than our State. Then come Tennessee, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and West Virginia, in the order named, with from 58 to 66 per cent. of their whole area well wooded; whereas the greatest lumber States of the North, Maine and Michigan, which produce one-half the lumber used in the country, contain only 47 and 40 per cent. respectively of their area wooded.

Effects of the Protracted Drought in Kentucky.

"We learn from a gentleman who came up yesterday from La Grange, Ky.," says the Chicago Tribune of Thursday, "that the drought in that part of the State is unprecedented. The older inhabitants remember a severe season in 1854, but in that case the cessation of rainfalls began a month later than now. Our informant declares that there has not been a good rain for nearly two months. The consequence is that most of the corn ceased growing and topped at two or three feet high, producing nothing, or at best but worthless nubbins. All sorts of garden truck have failed. For the first time in the history of man, blackberries have been a failure. But the water famine is operating in other ways. Springs, creeks and artificial ponds are dry. It has become a problem how to procure stock water. It is safe to say that corn and potatoes prodications will be cut down two-thirds as compared with last year.

FORTUNE FAVORS AN IRISH LAD.

The wheel of fortune turned most favorably for a poor Irish lad, James O'Gorman, who came to Philadelphia two years ago in search of a fortune. He had seen an advertisement of the Louisiana State Lottery, and [illegible] occurred to him that he had better give it a trial. Accordingly, on the 5th of July he sent $1 to M. A. Dauphin, [illegible] New Orleans, for the drawing of July 12th. In a few days he received the ticket No. 39,547. He received a telegram at No. 36 N. Delaware ave., where he is a barkeeper, that the ticket had drawn $6,000, and on [illegible] that he [illegible] $2,000 [illegible] Sunday Morning, July 24.

Water is sold for 25 cents a barrel at Frackville, Schuylkill county, Pa. The prolonged drought has dried up the wells and streams.

The house passed by a large vote a bill to devote the net proceeds of the tax arising from the insurection of ten cents to the public schools. This would add to the school fund about $400,000, bringing the sum total of about $415,000.—Atlanta Constitution.

Up in Vermont some of the newspapers are censuring a member of the Governor's council just because he says pie with a knife. The same papers had nothing to say when a parcel of broodlums rode an unprotected woman on a rail and tarred and feathered her.

The Queen married Dean Stanley to Lady Augusta Bruce in order to keep him near herself. He was once in love with Jenny Lind. When he entered Balliol College he was generally called "that pretty boy." His wife was the sister of Lady Charlotte Locker.

DETROIT, MICH., Sept. 8.—The loss of life and property by the fires is immense. Dead bodies are being brought in from all directions. It is estimated that 500 human beings have perished and five thousand are homeless and in want of immediate assistance.

It is impossible to get ahead of the average Western paper. The Boiso (Idaho) Statesman published a glowing obituary of one J. B. Foster, who it alleged was "shot dead at Wood river. Mr. Foster immediately wrote to the paper correcting the error. His letter is given in the Statesman, but the editor heads it "A Card from a Corpse."

The school fund of Texas will at no distant day be enormous. That State has yet unsold 40,000,000 acres of school land, which will probably bring to her public school fund $100,000,000, a sum equal to the combined school funds of all the other States of the Union. The University of Texas, soon to be established, has more than $500,000 with which to erect buildings and a permanent endowment of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

Gen. Joseph E. Johnston has written a letter expressing regret that pressing business engagements will prevent him from attending the re-union of the North Carolina ex-Confederate soldiers at Raleigh during the approaching State fair. He says he "could and few gratifications in the world equal to that of meeting again the North Carolinians with whom he served in the most trying times that this country has ever known."

Writing of a new play, the New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Times says: "One of the characters on Monday night was played by an actor named Davenport. Something was the matter. Was he drunk? Had he forgotten his lines? Was he stage struck? Oh, no. He had only lost his three-year-old baby. That was all. The news was flashed across the wires and reached him just before he went on the stage to be 'funny.'"

In the past eight months there were 87 failures in Georgia and Florida, their liabilities being $2,142,41 and their actual assets $1,291,6000. In South Carolina there were 79, in Tennesssee 129, in Alabama 49, and in Mississippi 90. Bradstreet's regards these failures as, on the whole "no more than the result of an ordinarily healthful movement of trade." The Southern States taken together compare favorably in the tables for the past eight months with other sections of the country.

How She Stopped "Hubby Dear" from "Cussin."

Exchange.

The husband of a certain Nashville lady was, before his marriage, a furious swearer. Through his wife's influence he left off this bad habit, except one favorite cuss word, which clung to him under all circumstances, and which to the great annoyance of good wife he would unsciously use everywhere—the word "damn." Several months since he rose one cold morning, before the servant came in to make the wood fire and after a long effort and fruitless burning of many matches turned and said: "Sallie, this damn fire won't burn." To this the good wife earnestly said, "Yes, the damn wood is too green, and the damn servant has forgotten to bring up any damn kindling to start the damn fire with." He looked at his wife in absolute dismay, but at once saw the point, and said nothing. A longer period than usual passed without the favorite expletive being used, but later on he wanted a basket, and said, after looking for it, "Sallie, where has the damn basket gone to?" The wife quietly, as if putting a child to sleep, said: "Ask the damn cook to get the damn basket—damn her, she keeps it." As before, he said nothing, but months have passed, and if he damns anything it is not where she is. She says it was like taking quinine, and she always went and washed her mouth afterward, but he is cured.

Men's Work and Women's.

New York Herald.

The finest looking specimen of manhood, in every class of life, may be found among men between 25 and 35 and 50, but how many women are found even among those who have passed only the smallest number mentioned above? Every woman, whether she be wife or servant, needs revision of her general [illegible] to enable a person to [illegible] time master and servant [illegible] and ruler, then genius in this direction, if there is any, should make itself known for the benefit of those who are fighting magnificently against overwhelming odds. With a slighter physique than man, a physique that is occasionally subject to peculiar duties which that of man can offer no parallel, woman is expected to daily endure a strain that no man would tolerate for any length of time. Until what is modestly called housekeeping is recognized as the noble science that it really is, and is carefully studied, the slaughter of women by overwork will continue, for at present it requires that every woman shall be a prodigy of sense, industry and endurance.

A Village Destroyed.

THERE IS NO AFFINITY between cheap and useless beef, wine and iron tonics and the Liebig Co's Coca Beef Tonic—a real restorant of strength and restorative of health.

"It is the best tonic there is," says a physician to whom I have recommended it, has found it so," says Prof. H. B. DRAKE, M. D., Detroit, Mich. It imparts new vigor to the liver, stomach, and bowels, and by its regulative action affords relief from headaches, neuralgia, constipation, and languor. Beware of cheap, worthless imitations.

Gen. R. T. WITHERS, the celebrated breeder of short horn and proprietor of Fair Lawn Stock Farm, Lexington, Ky., says the Liebig Company's Arnicated Extract of Witch Hazel "should be in every stable in the country."
