What they need, and need right away, is new brick or more substantial material, and what they will need if the brick is again used is a more frequent renewal. Death of Rev. A. A. Boshamer. The sad intelligence was received in this city by private telegram of the death yesterday morning, of Rev. A. A. Boshamer, of typhoid fever. Mr. Pioshamer, although quite a young man, had already made for himself a repu tation as one of the most brilliant pulp it orators in the Methodist Church in the State. He was the pastor of the Tryo n Street church for the four years concluding with 1880, during which time he attached to himself a very large number of personal friends within and without his congregation to say nothing of many admirers of his talents who did not know him out of the pulpit. The announcement of his untimely death will be received with wide extended regret in Charlotte, and through out the State. He leaves a young wife to whom he had been married only since last spring.
