Neuralgia, Sprains, Pain in the Back and Side. There is nothing more painful than these diseases; but the pain can be removed and the disease cured by use of Perry Davis'

Pain Killer. This remedy is not a cheap Benzine or Petroleum product that must be kept away from fire or heat to avoid danger of explosion, nor is it an untried experiment that may do more harm than good.

Pain Killer has been in constant use for forty years, and the universal testimony from all parts of the world is, it never falls. It not only effects a permanent cure, but it relieves pain almost instantaneously. Being a purely vegetable remedy, it is safe in the hands of the most inexperienced. The record of cures by the use of PAIN KILLER would fill volumes. The following extracts from letters received show what those who have tried it think:

Edgar Cady, Owatonna, Minn., says:

About a year since my wife became subject to severe suffering from rheumatism. Our resort was to the PAIN KILLER, which speedily

Charles Powell writes from the Sailors' Home, London:

I had been afflicted three years with neuralgia and violent spasms of the stomach. The doctors at Westminster Hospital gave up my case in despair. I tried your PAIN KILLER, and it gave me immediate relief. I have regained my strength, and am now able to follow my usual occupation.

E. York says:

I have used your Pain Killer for rheumatism, and have received great benefit.

Barton Seaman says:

Have used Pain Killer for thirty years, and have found it s never-fulling remedy for rheumatism and lameness.

Mr. Burditt writes:

It never fails to give relief in cases of rheumatism.

Phil. Gilbert, Somerset, Pa., writes:

A Pawtucket (R. I.) lawyer was trying to make a witness tell why he knew that a certain saloon had the reputation of being a "rum shop." The witness had never heard any one say that it was a rum shop, and the lawyer berated him for giving the place a reputation without ever hearing any body say a word about it. "Well." said the witness, "you have the reputation of being a very smart lawyer, but I never heard any one say so." The witness was allowed to go.

TO OUR FARMERS.

Some Suggestions About Commercial Fertilizers which it may be Worth While to Consider.

favor of abandoning the use of manipulated fertilizers on our crops, and subto the extravagance and waste of economy and equal effectiveness in the use of the other. Mecklenburg county used last year. according to the estimate of some of the largest dealers in the article in these manipulated fertilizers, and which at an average price of $37.50 per ton, cost $150,000. Had the farmers of that county used the ground South Carolina

The writer having occasion to write to a Phosphate Company, of Charleston, S. C., expressed some views in favor of the use of ground phosphate by our farmers instead of the high priced superphosphates, received the following in reply: "We agree with you entirely that our people had much better use crude products, composted with farm materials; and they will get better results at less cost. And besides, it will stimulate them to greater industry The writer having occasion to write will stimulate them to greater industry in procuring and saving all such home materials; and they will then feel greater interest in the results, and will consequently work the crops better and from various causes not only will the crops be larger, but the lands will undergo continuous improvement." How true; and coming from such a source is the advice not very suggestive?

It is a principle of social science that the producer and consumer must be brought together to enable man to obtain the largest loans from mother earth; for we are mere borrowers of the earth, and she demands payment in full, expelling us from our holdings if we fail in payment. That we generally have failed in the past to make adequate returns to the earth for what she has lent us from time to time, is seen in the exhaustion of our lands, and in the fact that many have been expelled from their homes and compelled to seek new homes in distant States, the result of a disregard of this law of nature. Besides this natural law of compensation, there is a moral law of obligation; for man is as morally bound to do no wrong to the earth, as he is to do no wrong to his fellow man. Robbing the soil is wronging man in the aggre-gate, because the power of the soil to yield food is the measure of the power of men to live together-to increase in numbers. And the nearer the producer and consumer can be brought together the greater their ability to observe these essential laws of the natural and moral world.

It is also a well-established fact of the same science that of all the needs of man manure is the greatest and the one that least bears the tax of transpor-tation, manipulation, handling, &c. Therefore to enable us to utilize to the best advantage the material nature has provided as manure in the phosphate beds of South Carolina, it is necessary that the taxes imposed on the use of this natural manure should be reduced to the minimum. This tax consists: First, in the cost of digging it out of the ground; second, in the cost of reducing it to a powder; third, in the cost we have hitherto paid for its treatment with mineral acids; fourth, in the cost of transportation; and fifth, in the cost of the services of the middleman, who does nothing but effect the exchanges, and who must be paid largely for his services and who at best is no more than a necessary evil. All of beds of South Carolina, it is necessary no more than a necessary evil. All of these costs are a tax upon the land, and must be paid by your labors. Our true interests, therefore, demand the bringing together of the producer and consumer, in this instance, to enable us to increase the productive capacity of our soil at the least cost of production. And as the treatment of these phosphates with sulphuric acid, as we have conclusively shown, is useless to prepare it for plant food, it needing only to be finely ground for that purpose, and to avoid all of the above enumerated taxes absolutely unnecessary, we would urge the establishment in our midst by ourselves and for ourselves of a phosphate mill to be conducted upon the co-operative plan. Such an estab-lishment would furnish us at the lowest fertility of our lands—to repay the debt we owe mother earth and receive from her larger loans in the future.

Then let us unite in building such a mill in Charlotte. The raw material costs at the beds, near Charleston, about $7 per ton; the railroad company offers to bring it to Charlotte for $2.60 per ton, and the cost of grinding it will not exceed $3 per ton. It therefore can be sold at $16 to $20 per ton and allow a handsome profit to those investing their money in the enterprise. The price asked in Charleston is $18, with $1 added for drayage in less than car load orders, making it cost to the farmer in this vicinity about $24 per ton. C. McDonald.

The Cotton Goods Trade of the World.

The department of State has issued an exhaustive statement of the cotton goods trade of the world, giving the report of forty-six consuls and other in-teresting information. The raw cotton product of the several counties is estimated at about 3,500,000,000 pounds, viz: United States, 2,770,000,000; East Indies, 407,000,000; Egypt, Smyrna, etc., 269,000,000; Brazil, 44,000, and West Indies, 16,000,000. These figures show that the United States produces nearly four-fifths of the cotton crop of the world, and that it is beyond the productive power of any other country to compete power of any other country to compete with the United States in this direc-

This estimate does not include the goods manufactured by the older nations on the primitive hand older nations on the primitive hand looms; which in China alone amounts to 7,300,000,000 yards annually. The number of operatives in European cotton mills is estimated at 1,250,000, with 59,100,000 spindles; in the United States, 181,000, with 10,920,000 spindles. But the United States with about one-fourth the number of spindles running in the United Kingdom and with 181,000 operatives against 500.000 British operatives, is credited with a production the We think that in our last communi-cation we made out a strong case in that of the United Kingdom, although in piece goods the American output was only as one yard to about two and stituting therefor the ground bone or a half yards of British. From these returns it is seen that every American spindle consumes sixty-six pounds of raw cotton, Charlotte, not less than 4,000 tons of while each British spindle consumes only thirty-two pounds, or less than one-half the American consumption

The Fryer Ship. New York Banker and Broker. The 22-foot model of this vessel steamed up the Harlem on Monday and crossed over the half-mile of land from King's Bridge to the iron works, thence into the Hudson river, up which it proceeded to Hastings where preparations for building the large vessel on this plan are in progress. The Fryer ship is really a wagon or tricycle, running on three hollow globes which act as buoys and propellors in the water and wheels on lands-practically as wheels on both land and water. In point of speed and slippage this marine carriage appears much superior to the ordinary ship, and vastly superior as to comfort and safety for passengers.
