Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. Rev. Sylvanus Cobb thus writes in the Boston Christian Freeman:—We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good—particularly for infants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colle pains, quiet sleep, and its parents unknown rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless; for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." And during the process of teething, its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say they would not be without it from the birth of the child till it had finished with the teething slege, on any consideration whatever. is one compound that proves and does all tad-vertises to do, and more. Four years ago I had a slight shock of pa'sy, which unnerved me to such an extent that the least excitement would make me shake like the ague. Last May I was induced to try Hop Bitters. I used one bottle, but did no see any change; another did so change my nerves that they are now as steady as they ever were. It used to take both hands to write, but now my good right hand writes this. Now, if you continue to manufacture as honest and good an article as you do, you will accumulate an honest fortune, and confer the greatest blessing on your fellow-men that was ever conferred on mankind. ATLANTA'S EPPOSITION.

Which is Boing for the South More than her Press, her Literature, and her Labor have been Able to do,

A representative of THE OBSERVER returned vesterday from a visit of a week to Atlanta and the Exposition, where is presented in miniature the present and future interests of the South. The miniature is not unworthy of the greatness of the original.

Atlanta itself is the capital of the new South. From it proceeds, through its press and through its people more of that new energy with which we are clothing ourselves, than from any city within our borders. It is the main orifice through which the fresh blood of progress and material development is being transfused, and however much may be said as to its empty noise and boasting, its extravagance in carrying out the new ideas-e. g. the Sherman cordialities-and its many unsubstantial and evanescent business projects, yet that it leads in the new departure it is foolish to deny.

The most striking illustration of this is to be found in the preponderance of young men in business and in office. The whole South has yielded and is daily yielding to this young but irrepressible city of her best youthful blood, talent and energy. Young men are at the head of everything, and everything exhibits the impulse of a new generation, and however much the Bourbon tra dition may prevail in politics or Bourbon sentiment in private intercourse, they are not sufficiently active to check the nervous activity which impels Atlanta toward the fulfilment of the modern mission of leading in the regeneration of the South. The exposition is the exponent of this truth. That no other city in the South could have successfully brought it to its present greatness may not be true, but that no other Southern city would have done it within the present decade is very probably true. That Atlanta has done it at all is at least a stupendous fact, and although everybody may not be prepared to go the length of the enthusiastic Atlanta man who points out the world's fair and says with a magnificent wave of his hand "None but your H. I. Kimball's and your God Almighty's could do this sort of thing," yet the credit for so collecting that the world admits her greatness, and is in wonder that it knew so little of it before, must be given to the capital of Georgia.

It is proven within the limited space of Ogelthorpe Park that we have positively every natural source of wealth, and are capable of converting within our own borders that limitless munificence of nature into utile form. Never before in this or any other country has there been such a display of undeveloped wealth, while the industrial exhibits from the South are sufficiently large and various to prove satisfactorily that Southern manufactures are paying and growing. No intelligent man can visit the cotton exposition and not receive an impressive conviction that the greatness of the South has no limit, but in the energies of her people, and of these he is again assured by the spirit which pervades the industrious and substantial Southerners whom he meets on the grounds To the reflective and speculative visitor there is an almost fascinating interest; to the patriotic visitor there is just satisfaction; to the curious and idle visitor there is an infinitely various and inexhaustible array of attractions; and to the business man there is the best field of information or the widest medium of advertising. The truth of this latter assertion canand Danville being behind, and lays not be better proved than by the single over in the city until the afternoon illustration to be found in the fact that train to-day. The Judge is looking re- the Messrs. Liddell & Co., of this city, who have an exhibit there of machinery, have sold in several instances to exposition visitors almost from their

If all that comes from this State were in one exhibit and that exhibit were more artistically and attractively arranged it would be the exhibit of the exposition and would so impress the casual visitor as well as the careful inspector. Among the latter our State has already attracted a very general and flattering attention.

A. M. E. CONFERENCE

Fourth Day's Proceedings. Conference met persuant to adjourn-

Bishop J. W. Hood, in opening the conference read the 30th chapter of Jeremiah, and Rev. Sharper J. Adams lined the hymn, "How beauteous are their feet," &c. After singing, he fer-vently addressed the throne of grace. J. W. Smith, of Fayetteville, read the journal of yesterday, and on approval several corrections were made, and finally a second reading was called for and the secretary re-read the journal.

Just here T. F. H. Blackman brought forward Rev. Henry Williams, who severed his connection two years ago, and recommended his return to the

After reading the recommendation, J. A. Tyler, who knew the circumstances, said he was willing to vote for his reception if would confess his wrongs done to Bishop J. W. Hood and several of the brethren and churches, on leaving; the Church two years ago.

Brother Williams arose, by request, and said: "I have discovered my errors and returned to the conference to confess all my wrongs against the bishop and the several brethren, whom I offended." He then came forward and gave his hand to J. A. Tyler, David Williams, Bishop J. W. Hood, H. L. Simmons and J. P. Holmes, asking their pardon, and there seemed to be a true willingness on the part of the entire conference to forgive and receive

Brother Reeves thought the church at Manchaster, Cumberland county, ought to be satisfied before the conference received him.

Bishop J. W. Hood thought that "our receiving him on his spirit of contrition, should satisfy that church. Furthermore, that he did not care what a man might say about him (the bishop) if he love Zion; and if any man among us wanted to go to Bethel he would lend him to that church long enough to convince himself as Brother Williams had been convinced.

Brother A. F. Goslin thought the Quarterly Conference in the Statesville district had acted illegally in drawing up the recommendation, but the bishop ruled that the action was

This question being settled, Willis Williams, A. A. Williams, W. M. Johnston, J. W. Whitsides, John Miller, W. D. Smith, H. L. Simmons, John W. Smith and H. Williams were examined on reading and writing, and also, on the Discipline of the Church, habits, and the doctrine of Steadfestness in Grace and Sanctification. Rev. C. R. Harris moved that A. N.

Nicholson be returned to the quarterly conference for further studies. Rev. R. S. Reeves amended the motion, that all deficient in grammar be

Rev. R. H. Simmons offered a substitute, that all of them be received, but he withdrew the substitute, and they were voted on separately. On motion, John W. Smith, H. L. Simmons. Cyrus White, J. A. Miller, W. D. Smith, —— Hauser, John W. Whitesides, N. M. Johnson, A. A. Williams and Willis Williams were received on trial.

A. N. Nicholson was not received. Bishop Hood read a statement concerning Brother Felix Thompson's moral standing in the Presbyterian Church, as he wished to withdraw from that Church. The bishop said he did not regard the letter, as read from Rev. S. Mattoon, D. D., recommendation such as we require. On motion, he was not admitted into conference on the recommendation. committee for examination in various studies as required in our discipline. Prof. Richardson, editor of the Star of Zion, offered a resolution thanking Bishop Hood for the interest he manifested for the Church while in Europe Rev. S. Mattoon, D. D. came in and was introduced to the conference, and took a seat among the members.

Prof. A. Richardson wished to know whether or not the course of the Star of Zion in the temperance movement last summer, met the approval of the conference. Its course was unanimously endorsed by a standing vote.

The hour for adjournment arrived. but Rev. S. Mattoon, D. D., was asked to make any remarks that he might wish to make.

He said he appreciated the action of thec onference just taken, in endorsing the course of our church organ last summer. That temperance is the hand-maid of virtue. That he was pleased to see the corress the conterent his acquaintance with it, and he then referred to his work in Biddle University, and the advantages offered all persons who wish to avail themselves of an education. He closed his remarks by bidding the conference God speed in its noble work. Conference then adjourned until Monday morning, with benediction by Rev. S. Mattoon, D. D.
