TUESDAY, DEC. 6, 1881. Bob Toombs thinks "Guiteau ought to be kicked to death by a mule." St. Louis and Cincinnati are suffering from a coal famine caused by a "cor-

We don't know whether Guiteau was possessed of a devil or not, but he has certainly raised the devil.

GUITEAU'S FIFTH WEEK THE SIDEWALKS CROWDED.

He Begs to be Taken to the Back Entrance, and Moves with Fear and

Trembling-He Wants to Know the Opinion of Experts-- A Chicago Doctor has no Doubt of his insanity-Would Rather be Hung as a Man Than Acquitted as a Fool. WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.-Guiteau was brought to the court house a little later than usual, and court was not opened until eleven o'clock. An immense crowd had gathered on the side walk and when Guiteau alighted from the van he evinced unusual trepidation and begged the officers to take him around to the back entrance. He was assured that the escort was ample for his safety and with trembling steps and cringing gait he quickly shuffled through the angry crowd. Abject fear was depicted upon his sallow countenance, and it was several minutes after he reached his room before he regained his usual composure.

Ex-Speaker Randall appeared in answer to a subpœna but was at a loss to know why he had been summoned. Immediately after the opening of court Scoville called to the stand Dr. James Kennon of Chicago.

Before any questions could be asked. the witness, Guiteau, desired to address the court, and without waiting the assent, or dissent of the court, said in a quick, nervous way, "I want these expert witnesses to pass upon this point. Where a man is impelled to do an unlawful act by a power which he can not possibly control, or overrule and by which his moral agency is domi nated, is he to be considered sane or insane?"

.Jndge Cox. "We will have that quesstion discussed."

The witness said he was managing editor of the Chicago Medical Review and a lecturer upon mental diseases at the Chicago medical schools. He delivered his first lecture last April. The witness replied to a hypothetical question predicated upon the trustworthiness of evidence to which he had listened, that he had no doubt of the prisoner's insanity. The witness admitted that when a man committed a crime while acting under the direction of Divine inspiration and then conducted himself precisely as a criminal would do it would be presumptive evidence against his

Guiteau, who had been quietly, but intently, following the witness, here broke in rather excitedly saying, "Nothing of the kind in this case, Judge!"

Davidge-"Well, we will see." Guiteau, angrily-"You're going too fast in this matter, we want facts, not your judgment; the witness has stated one thing right-the Lord injects the inspiration and then lets man use his own judgment to work it out.' That's just my case; that's the way I got my inspiration. The Lord don't employ fools to do His works; he gets the best material." Davidge then put a still stronger hypothetical case, using the term, "Like a common vulgar criminal." Guiteau turned to Davidge and with an air of immense superiority said: "There's nothing vulgar about this case, it's all high-toned." [Laughter]—quickly suppressed by the court.

The witness thought an insane man in carrying out an inspiration would act according to his peculiarities of manner & temperament, although there were types of insanity where a man's general character became changed. He gave the scientific name.

Richard J. Hinton, editor of the Washington Gazette, had seen the prisoner at the Republican headquarters in New York and had formed opinion that he was exceedingly illbalanced, cranky and egotistic.

The witness was asked what he tem Davis is not likely to disturb his thought of the prisoner's speech, "Garfriend Shober as Secretary of the Sen- field vs. Hancock," and replied that in ate, and will hardly upturn anything his opinion it was a ridiculous disjointed affair.

Guiteau, who had smiled complacently when the witness came upon the thing in the way of patronage around the Senate, if so disposed. His whole nature is conservative, and unless good. ed into resentment, he will let well the endorsement of the best men in the country."

The witness resumed by saying the prisoner seemed to be a perfect nuisance about the rooms, but was interrupted by Guiteau, who stated: You were a nuisance yourself. I'd rather be hung as a man than acquitted as a fool, and I won't have any more of this kind of evidence.' The witness added, "He was talking stock so far as he could see."

Guitesu became greatly enraged, and turning to Scoville, shouted: "If you put any more of these crank fellows on the stand I'll score you again. It was a great piece of impudements. great piece of impudence on your part to put Judge Davis on the stand without consulting me."

Without a decision the Senate ad-House.-The House met at noon, rell-call showing four members absent. Keifer was elected Speaker and the swearing in of members was proceeded with. Considerable discussion has ensued over contested seats and it still continues.

A number of bills and resolutions were presented and laid over, among which was one by Beck to provide for the recall of the trade dollar and its recoinage into the standard dollar. By Logan, to place Gen. Grant on the

Moore. All objected to stood aside.

The remainder were sworn in, and Jones, of Texas, took the floor to state objections to Wheeler, and offered a resolution referring the matter to the committee on elections, when appointed: tabled on motion of Randall by almost unamious viva voce vote.

Objections were then withdrawn in all cases except those of Chalmers and Dibble, and all but these two were sworn. Chalmers was also sworn after some further skirmishing. Calkins then called up the case of Dibble, of S. C., and offered a resolution referring the matter to the committee on elections when appointed. He gave a statement of the circumstances under which Dibble was elected, and contended that there was no vacancy, inasmuch as it might be that Mackey bad originally been elected.

Increase in Locomotive Building. Fifty years ago not a single locomotive engine had been built in this country. The number now in use is 16,445 all made in America, valued at $164,-450,000. Railroad cars of all kinds humber 498,000, costing at a low estimate $600,000,000. The total value of lecomotives and cars, therefore, is $764,450, 000. Locomotives have also been built for export to all parts of the world, as the superiority of the American locomotive is everywhere recognized. Can-ada, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward's Island, Mexico, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Ecuador, Central America, Chili, Peru. Argentine Re-public, Brazil, Cuba, Porta Bico, Ja-maica, Norway, Finland, Russia, New Zealand, New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia and the Sandwich Islands, are some of the countries where the American iron horse is the favorite.
