PRESIDENTIAL INABILITY.

SUNDAY, DEC. 11, 1881.

The following is the text of the bill introduced in the Senate last Thursday to provide for the performance of the duties of the Presidential office in the event of the removal, death, resignation or inability of the President:

Be it enacted, etc., That section 146, title 3, of the Revised Statutes is hereby repealed.

Section 2. In case of the removal, death, resignation or inability of both the President and Vice-President of the United States the Secretary of State for the time being, or if there be no Secretary of State then the Secretary of the Treasury for the time being, or if neither Secretary of State nor Secretary of the Treasury then the Secretary of War for the time being shall there were only a few persons in the act as President until the disability be stalls and boxes. The persons responremoved or a President be elected in sible for the safety of the theatre negthe manner and at the time provided in the constitution and laws, or, in case there be no occasion under the law for an election, until the existing term of office of the President so removed, resigned, dead or disabled shall have expired.

This is very well, as far as it goes, but it only partially meets the case, for it leaves the question of inability an sickness of President Garfield the question of what constituted inability was considerably discussed, some taking one view, others another, and all this time, from the shooting till the death of the President, the country was practically without a President, Mr. Garfield not being able to perform the duties of the have been conveyed to the hospital.

The loss of life is now estimated at his right to administer in his place. Some insisted that according to the letter and spirit of the constitutional provision in the premises, Mr. Arthur should at once have entered upon the duties of the office when President Garfield was shot, and so incapacitated from the performance of the duties devolving upon him, while others held that the stricken President was not legally in a condition of inability, as contemplated by the act. There was no authority to decide, and consequently the government ran along without any President, practically speaking.

This should not be so. The law geverning the case ought to be so defined that there could be no dispute as to what is meant by inability, and no doubt as to when, in a case of this kind, the Vice-President may rightfully assume the duties of the office of Presi-

INFORMING HIS SISTER. A telegram has been sent from St.

Paul, Minnesota, to District Attorney Corkhill, detailing the statement of a servant girl who lived in Mr. Scoville's family at Chicago, that the family knew of Guiteau's contemplated assassination of the President. She had heard it talked about in the family. The story goes that Guiteau wrote to his sister, Mrs. Scoville, announcing his purpose, and that she telegraphed to her husband who was absent at the time, and some distance from railroad, so that the telegrams were somewhat delayed in reaching him. He returned to Chicago and arrived there about the time the news of the assassination sped over the country. Without going home he started immediately for Washington, but did not anticipate being confronted with such a calamity. Had he been at home when his wife received the letter announcing the intention to assassinate on the 2nd of July he could have telegraphed for the arrest of his brotherin-law and defeated his purpose.

TAKING A GLOOMY VIEW OF IT.

The Norfolk Landmark. referring to the defeat of Daniels in Virginia and the apprehension of similar results in other Southern States, discourses thus:

The revolution foreshadowed at Appomattox really began with the defeat of John W. Daniel, and from all quarters we see evidences of the truth of this opinion. In the Carolinas, Tennessee, and Mississippi the elements of disintegration are at work, and in Georgia the struggle is already beginning. Mr. Gartrell intends to head the negroes and wrest the State-if he can-from those now in power. All this means commotion, trouble, loss of money, and loss of tranquility, and the immediate future for the South is by no means cheering. A good deal of history is to be made and unmade, and the more the tumult the less the profit.

This is a gloomy forecast, considerably too gloomy. All these political combinations mean simply an effort of certain politicians to get on top, and are not likely to result in any very serious consequences to the South. Under the mortification of defeat some of the Virginia Democrats are prone to view the situation with a dispondent eye, and magnify a little squall into a cyclone.

So rapid was of the North Carolina Midland railroad which was followed with a brief speech from Governor Vance, who accompanied him to Boston, in which he expressed the opinion that the Best-Boston syndicate might ultimately succeed in gaining possession of the Western North Carolina road, but did not state exactly how it was to be done.

Robert Bloskie, who has recently died in Indiana, was so fond of dog meat that it was about the only meat he ate for nine years. His family like it, too. If an abundance of dog meat be any inducement we could supply a very large colony of Bloskies in North out of the lot, took roocks and chips Carolina, and still have curs enough left to eat up thousands of sheep annu-

Frightful Loss of Life in the Rearing Furnace - Searching for the Remains-Over Six Hundred Persons

VIENNA, Dec. 9.—The audience at the theatre last night was larger than usual owing to the fact that the day was a holiday. The cast consisted of Actors Ferenzi, Lindorf, Wilke, Rudolph and Leindau, and Actresses Stabl, Ficher and Jona. There were about 200 parsons on the stage and in about 200 persons on the stage and in the adjoining dressing-room at the time of the outbreak of the fire. The ballad corps were mostly only half dressed.
On the extinction of the lights all rushed for the stage door and many were knocked down and trampled upon but most of them reached the street without serious injury. The galleries were crowded while the pit was fairly filled, but owing to the earliness of the hour lected to use the means for telegraphing the fire engine stations, which they had at their disposal. The audience were consequently left for ten minutes struggling wildly in the darkness for means of exit. The life-saving brigments of exit. ade then arrived with ladders and torches and jumping-sheets. The persons saved with the aid of the sheets jumped from the windows by the dozen at a time. In an hour and a half open one, and undefined. During the the whole building was a roaring furnace. Persons whose bodies were first recovered seemed to have died mostly from suffocation, but other bodies presented a shocking spectacle. Many have heads or feet burned off. At this hour, 9 a. m., the fire is still burning, and it is not expected that it will be extinguished for some time. Up to 2 o'clock this a.m. 150 charred corpses

VIENNA, Evening—The building is still on fire to-night. The funeral of the victims is fixed for Sunday. The Imperial family have contributed largely to the relief fund. The managers of all the theatres here announce special performances for the benefit of the sufferers.

The number of persons actually reputed to be missing is 609. In regard to the origin of the fire the superintendent of machinery states that the scenery was ignited, as the lamps were lit by the electric current. Searches show that the upper gallery must have fallen into the pit where the only remains found small fragments of bone. Beyond doubt 900 gallery tickets had been issued. One hundred holders of these are known to have jumped from the windows. Competent judges fear that the loss of life will be found to be fully 700. Nothing has been heard of the members of the orchestra. The subscriptions raised on the bourse now amount to 28,000 pounds. All newspapers have opened subscription lists. The Emperor has given a large sum. The officials of the theatre state that it was absolutely impossible to lower the iron curtain, owing to the frightful rapidity with which the flames spread. LONDON, Dec. 10.-Additional details from the Vienna fire have been received as follows: On the arrival of the fire brigade it was found impossible to penetrate beyond the first tier of the theatre, the rush of suffocating smoke and air extinguishing the lamps and torches. The firemen retired under the mementary impression, because their shouts were not answered, that there were no more people in the theatre. Those who escaped on the first alarm, however, soon undeceived them and another effort was made to penetrate the parts of the theatre not actually blazing. In the narrow passage between the second and third galleries a mass of corpses was discovered, some so closely interlocked that it was hardly possible to part them. The first man discovered was got out alive, but all the rest were dead. Those persons had lost their way in consequence of the turning off of the gas, which it is now ascertained, was done by some irresponsible person, with a view to prevent an explosion. Some of the men were found with their hands grappling each other's throats. Subsequent investigations showed that in some cases persons finding escape hopeless had committed suicide. It is stated by survivors that women were seen to throw their children from the galleries into the pit. At the time of the outbreak of the flames the galleries especially alloted to the ladies were full. Among the missing are young Count Sigismund Festititis and several other students from the Private Millitary College. About 10 o'clock the gasometer exploded, the roof fell and the whole place was reduced to a wreck.

Shocking Work of a Fire Near Pittsburg --- Twenty-Five Lives Lost in a Burning Building.

PITTSBURG, PA., Dec. 10.—News is received of a terrible and shocking holocaust which occurred at Rock Cut, seven miles from this city this morning about 3 o'clock, by which 16 men were burned to death and a large number fatally injured. Lately horrors in Pittsburg follow close upon the heels of each other.

Last evening a terrible explosion occurred at the Keystone Rolling Mills, in the 14th ward, but this morning comes another which exceeds in horror anything which has occurred in this vicinity since the terrible destruction of life caused by collision at 28th street: Between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning a frame boarding house located on the line of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie R. R., some seven miles below the city, was set on fire by the explosion of a lamp. and of fifty persons known to be sleeping in it only 24 escaped alive. All the progress of the flames that some were literally roasted to death without possibility of any effort being made to rescue them.

A Rabid Sheep.

Statesville Landmark. The mad dog of Little Israel Sloan, which left its home on the Cove Gap road, about four weeds ago, and took the range of Concord township and part of Sharpesburg, biting everything in its way, and which was killed by Mr. C. M. Sharpe, as noted in these columns at the time, bit, among other objects, a pet sheep of Mr. J. T. Burgess, of Concord. Last Thursday the sheep quit eating and began acting suspiciously. It chased chickens and everything else into its mouth and chewed them, and otherwise behaved in such a manner as otherwise behaved in such a manner as to convince Mr. Burgess that it was affected with hyrophobia. Friday night it attacked the fence, butting the ends of the rails. It kept this up all night long, hitting the rails steadily upon the ends, and by Saturday morning had knocked two of them out. A Dog Which Was Hard to Kill.

Statesville Landmark. Wednesday morning about 8 o'clock a large brindle woolly dog appeared at the saw mill of Messrs. J. C. Steele & Bros., of Fallstown township, its mouth gapped open, tongue swelled up and giving evidences of having hydrophobia. It was shot twice, but was not killed. It took its departure but soon returned, and was shot six times. Still it was not killed, but left, some of the hands in pursuit. Presently it was back again and received five more shots and was knocked down with a stick, but after lying for half an hour got up and started off, when it was shot twice and finally killed. At best few dogs are "worth the powder and lead it takes to kill them," and none would be if all were as tenacious of life as this one.

[Sparta (Wis.) Herald.] BUNNING CLOSE TO THE BRINK.

Mr. O. W. Hubbard, of this town, recently narrated these particulars to our reporter: More than two years ago, my wife was attacked with Sciatic Rheumatism or pain in the right limb, and it became very severe. Pains would commence in the hip and extend to the knee, and down to the foot, Just as soon as she would retire for the night, it would become far more severe, breaking up her rest, inducing sleeplessness, and making her sick. We employed the best medical help in the city. In the course of medication, a severe attack of bleeding at the nose resulted, lasting about four hours, which nearly cost her life. Nothing produced any permanent benefit. Finally she was induced to try St. Jacobs Oil, and when she had used one fifty cent bottle of it, she was entirely relieved of the pains and rested quietly and easily. After three months, feeling slight symptoms of the complaint returning, she procured another bottie, using which occassionally, keeps her free from all pain. I would rather pay five dollars a bottle than have her suffer as formerly.

HOW DR. C. W. BENSON'S

CELERY AND CHAMOMILE PILLS Build up the nervous system and positively cure Sick Headache, Nervous Headache, Neuralgia, Nervousness. Sleeplessness and Dyspepsia. I has been proved that they successfully ward off al danger of Paralysis, Apoplexy and Sudden death. Their effect upon the Nervous System is something wonderful, and there is no wonder that thousands of people avail themselves of such a valuable remedy, while it may be found, in these days of Nervous Diseases. The simplicity and purity of these pills are at once in their favor, as they do not physic.

Paralytics that have not walked for two years have been fully restored by these pills, and thousands of cases of Nervous Weakness perfectly cured, while the cases of Sick and Nervous Headache and Neuralgia that they have cured are in-numerable each year and add to their popularity. Too much cannot be said in their favor, for while they cure these terrible Nervous Diseases, they also improve the general health, and especially the complexion and skin, and invariably improve the
