A VISIT TO GUITEAU.

The Assassin's Former Wife and He

Husband Call at the Jail. Washington, December 18.—A reporter of the Post, accompanied by Mr. Scoville and one or two other persons, visited Guiteau in the jail yesterday. While they were there a lady and gentleman, the former accompanied by a little girl, entered the door. At first Guiteau appeared to be oblivious of their presence, but, raising his eyes sud-denly, they fell upon the face of the lady, who to his surprise proved to be Mrs. Anna Dunmire, his divorced wife, together with her husband and their lit tle daughter. This unexpected visit rather unstrung the prisoner, and for an instant he hung his head, but brightening suddenly he walked forward, took the lady's hand, and said he was pleased to see her. The lady was visibly affectflowing the lids and rolling down her cheeks, as she said: "Charlie, I am sorry to find you in this condition." "Oh, never mind that," said the prison-er calmly, "I am sorry that the whelp (evidently referring to District Attorney (Orkhill) brought you here. But he was disappointed in his purpose. I did nothing, you see, to embarrass you."

"I have called to say good bye, Charlie," Mrs. Dunmire said, evidently desirous of ending the interview, "for I may never see you again;" and then, weeping, she held out her hand to the prisoner as if to say farewell. Guiteau was not satisfied, however, to stop the interview there, and, as if to prolong it, turned toward the lady's little girl and asked how old she was, adding, as a pe-culiar look passed over his face and his thin lips twitched nervously: "Anna, I can wish you no harm. I hope your life may be prosperous and happy.

Mr. Dunmire, who had been a silent spectator all that time, then walked over to Guiteau and said: "Guiteau, I must bid you farewell also. We may never meet again." Guiteau took the proffered hand, but turned his head away, and it was evident that he was impressed with the truth of his visitors'

Without waiting for Guiteau to reply Mr. Dunmire added: "We say good-bye now; for I hope we will be off to Leadville again by Monday. It's too close around here for me." "It is too close hereatouts for me, also," broke in the prisoner, with a ghastly smile. "I wish that I was a laborer out at Leadville." The Dunmires then departed. Guiteau shortly afterward went back to his cell, announcing that he would positively be engaged for the rest of the day.

A package received by Scoville for Guiteau, and consigned to his back yard under suspicion of containing some explosive, has been cautiously opened and found to contain a coil of rope with a noose on its end. It also contained a note saying: "With the compliments of the Garfield and Arthur Club of Meyersdale Par"

Mr. Scoville has received a postal card, dated Mauch Chunk, Pa., signed "Dale, ex-Molly," containing a warning of an intended attempt on Guiteau's life by members of the Mollie Maguire Or-

The police here have received a communication from Oriell City, Nebraska, stating that a "crank" named Utley had started for Washington for the purpose of killing Scoville. A photograph of Utley accompanied this communication. In regard to this communication the Star of yesterday says: "The police investigating the mysterious communication from Oriell City, Nebraska, to Mr. Scoville have discovered that it is a male form, cloaked and veiled, threw practical joke on the postmaster of that place, who is here, and that it is intended to injure his chances of reappoint-THE LIVER, THE BOWELS, Clark Mills, the sculptor, to-day took

WHY ARE WE SICK? Secking Places in Washington. Because we allow these great organs to become clogged or torpid, and poisonous humors are therefore forced into the blood that should be expelled naturally.

"Never in the history of the American Republic," remarked a veteran Senator, "was there gathered in Washington such a gang of political cormorants. For the Lord's sake, give me some sort of civil service reform!" The hotel corridors at night are crowded with strangers. The uninitiated spectator forms the conclusion that each one is an aspirant for a foreign mission, but the old-timer, distinguishing the gold from the tinsel, puts each one down as an earnest applicant for a House clerkship at from $720 to $2,200

The positions open to these political tramps number 325. The place of $3,000. Another reading clerk is wanted and two other $3,000 positions—those of the journal and tally clerks—are open. There are five $2,500 positions and twenty-two $2,000 places. The sergeant at arms, of course, gets $4,000. The average pay of the fifty messengers is $1,200 each. The assistant librarians get from $1,000 to $2,500 each. Thirty-two clerks of committees are paid $6 per day each; the twenty-nine pages get $2,50, and the thirty folders make from $720 to $1,200. The lowest pay is that of the laborers, who get from $400 to $820 a year. The sergeant at arms, by the way, is allowed $500 for horse hire. The capitol police men receive $1,100. men receive $1,100.

TWO LOVERS WHO LAUGH.

A Comedy of Errors, in which a Plotting Father is Outwitted.

The talk of the town is an elopement that proved to be a "Comedy of Errors." A rich old Creole opposed the marriage of his only daughter with a poor artist. One evening there was a carriage drawn cautiously up to the corner of the grand boulevard Esplande. There was an air of mystery in its movements. The driver looked around, and then, appaopen the casement, at the same moment bidding the driver to advance. He did so, and when the carriage stood immediately at the door, beneath the lighted window, a tall and handsome man jumped out of the vehicle and entered the house. Shortly after this two cloaked figures passed hurriedly down the steps of the principal entrance and hastily entered the carriage, closed the door and requested the driver to "speed like lightning." An old gentleman, the proprietor of the mansion and the father of the artist's inamorata, was a spectator of the whole affair, and, gliding softly from a private door, mounted the rumble of the carriage and found himself whirled on the road to Milneburg, the lake port of the Mobile packet. The old fellow had caught them. The lovers were in the carriage, but he was on the box. On rattled the carriage to the steamboat landing. Down jumped the father and opened the door. What did he see! Could it be! Yes, it was Clerk of the House, salary $4,500, is preempted, as are those of chief clerk, salary $3,000, and reading clerk, salary $3,000. Another reading clerk is wanted and two other $3,000 positions—those of the journal and tally clerks—could not refrain from smiling, fell on

A new liquor law goes into operation in Nebraska on January 1st, 1882, and under its provisions municipalities may impose very stringent regulations on the sale of intoxicating drinks. In Omaha the councils have fixed the license fee at one thousand dollars and the bond at five thousand dollars. There are one hundred and seventy retail liquor shops in the city, and the proprietors have been talking of an organization to fight the law, but the Mayor has recently issued a proclamation warning all dealers that unless they ACTES

The first bill alleges that one bill, if its constitutionality, is questioned it will be acted upon by the present Court of Appeals, and the other by the new court which comes in on January 1st, 1883. The first bill alle the law, and the intention is to enforce it strictly, believing that a thorough test will either make it popular or odious at once and will enable the people to make up their minds whether or not they wish it continued. After an ineffectual effort to unite in not taking out licenses the liquor men have broken up, and sixty have applied and deposited the money, leaving over a hundred to quit the business.

An Unlooked For Result. The vagaries of an invalld are illustrated in the case of a Long Island woman, who, being convinced that her end was near, and being unduly soliciyear old daughter of Mrs. Langden tous about the fate of her six children, implored her husband to marry her kins, United States army. To his wife younger sister. He promised to do so he leaves $20,000 a year income, also the after the funeral, and the sister was sum of $100,000. To his nieces and nephews, twelve in number, he leaves $1,000 each. For charitable purposes he leaves $7,000. $3,000 of which is to be devoted to the interests of the Woman's Hospital, of Boston. To his two sons, George W. and William G. Weld, he leaves $500,000 each. And, finally, $3,000.000 is to be paid, according to the will, to the residuary legatees. so much contentment from contem-plating the future of her little ones that she rapidly convalesced.
