Marriage Last Night.

Last night at 9 o'clock, Mr. Ballard Blair and Miss Mattie Rowark, of this city, were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's father, Capt. Jc. Rowark, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. J. A. Hartman, of Chambetsburg, Pa., in the presence of a large number of the relations and friends of the contracting parties.

The couple were attended by Mr. Frank Blair and Miss Mollie Snider, and Mr. Henry Klueppelberg and Miss Emma Vogel.

Mr. Blair has been a resident of Charlotte for a number of years, and during his stay here has made many warm friends, while the bride has a large circle of friends here and in Salisbury, her former home, on whose behalf we take the liberty of extending best wishes for her future happiness in life.

His examination was of some length, and he alleged that the case of the testatrix was one of chronic, continued, incurable mania. There are quite a number of witnesses to be examined, and the case will doubtless occupy another two days of the court's attention.

the Superintendent.

A reporter yesterday, in company with county superintendent Waller, paid a visit to the white graded school and some notes were made which may be of interest to the patrons of the school and the public:

The sixth or primary grade was first visited, in which there are about 40 pupils, with Miss Annie Davidson as teacher. This and the fifth grade, taught by Mrs. Allen, are both in the same room, but kept separate. The fifth grade also has some 40 pupils, and the two have about an equal division between the sexes. On account of the limited room of the school building it was found necessary to throw these two grades together, but it is the design of the superintendent to separate them and remove the primary department to the public school house located in the first ward as soon as spring opens. With the exception of suitable desks for the primary department the two for contributions in money for the grades seem to be very comfortably needy quartered, and we have the assurance of the teachers that the progress being made by the scholars is of a very satisfactory character. The children are required to present a tidy appearance, and the health of the scholars has been first rate, while the discipline is such as to produce a most orderly and quiet deportment on the part of the scholars. As a means of recreation the little ones in the primary department are engaged once a day in singing and marching, as it is considered beneficial in a healthful point of view to allow some relaxation from studies. The fourth grade contains 33 pupils, who are taught by Mrs. Watson, while the third grade, with 23 pupils, mostly girls, is under the tutorship of Miss Miller. It is the intention to remove all the boys from this grade as soon as the system is perfected by which it is proposed to manage the different grades. The third is the highest grade in the female department of the school, and the pupils who are not sufficiently advanced to start in this, are transferred from the other grades in regular order on advancement until 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., with an intermission from 12 to 1 o'clock. Prof. J. S. Bell has charge of the second grade, male, and has on the roll 39 names. The first grade is in charge of Prof. J. I. McCain, a gentleman who evidently well understands the art of teaching. Some insubordination was manifested in these departments on the organization of the school, but the perfect order and decorum of the pupils at present show conclusively that the tutors have the school under the most tors have the school under the most perfect control. When the classes are perfect control. When the classes are called for recitation a regular order is pennsylvania 50@53; Western white 51@53; mixed 50@51; Pennsylvania 50@53. THE MAD STONE.

An Old Superstition Reviewed To the Editor of the Observer.

SERVER called on Dr. C. L. Hunter for information concerning the "mad stone." Dr. Hunter, who was ever ready to communicate useful information for the benefit of all, died suddenly without having, to our knowlege, answered the OBSERVER. We have seen in the OB-SEKVER, that rabid dogs were becoming more prevalent than usual in some portions of the State, and numerous dogs and animals were being bitten by them. For the benefit of those who take an interest in the matter, we will give your valuable paper such items as we have picked up on the subject in our reading. The mad stone is said to be a species of calculi, a concretion of phosphate of lime and the ammoniomagnesian phosphates, as a result of diseased action in the intestines of the deer and horse, and probably other graminiverous, ruminating animals. They are found of variable sizes and shapes, sometimes globular or ovoid, at other times assume irregular forms, being shaped to the irregularities of the surface on which they reposed while formsence in the South of several months, ing. The surface of the stone is smooth thtly roughened, and covered by a close membrane, which, being partly removed, discloses numerous interstices, the interior of the stone resembling somewhat a petrified sponge.

When the mad stone is applied to the wound made by a rabid animal, it is first dipped in warm milk or water, and the air in the cells and canaliculi or little canals running through the stone from perippery to center becomes rarified and causes it to adhere exactly on the principle of the cupping glass. When the air cells become filled with fluid, which they take up by the vacuum created and also by capillary attraction, the stone drops off. It has long been the popular belief that if the stone "sticks," the cure is certain, and it is this property of sticking, like a cupping glass that is watched for with so much anxiety and superstitious awe on the part of the ignorant. The madstone is of very ancient origin and was used in less enlightened times to cure other diseases such as the bite of venomous serpents, and no poison and no pestilential disease could resist its magic influence. Wonderful virtues were ascribed to the "Begoar" as it was then called It is easy for it to sustain its reputation in hydrophobia as all bitten by the mad dog do not contract the disease. Hunter states that of twenty persons bitten by the same dog only one developed hydrophobia. There are seven of these "madstones in existence that we have heard of

The Graded School-A Round with and men who do not hesitate to charge well for the privilege of using them. It has, however, the great advantage of being a harmless remedy, if the patient did not have to make a hard pilgrimage to get to the madstone, as in the case of Mr. Abernethy reported for the OBSERVER last fall, and paid well for it besides,-$25 being the customary fee for the use of one of the stones, of which we are speaking. The cupping glass, knife and caustics in the hands of a competent physician are within reach of every one cheaper and far more effectual. In this day of enlightenment and progress it is time for all superstitious belief and vagaries to be done away with, in medicine as well as the other arts and sciences. R. M.
