It is probably not generally known in this country that the great city of London, the pivot of a trade amounting to $5,000,000,000 annually, and whose exports and imports foot up $3,500,000,-000, has never had a chamber of commerce until very recently. A country must be pretty well-to-do that can buy between eight and nine millions worth of diamonds and precious stones per annum. The importation into the United States has now reached that magnitude, against less than two millions and a half per annum ten years ago. We would not exaggerate its excellence, but reading it as a whole we were charmed with it. To us at least it is a great speech.

GRANT RETIRED.

Senator Logan's bill to retire Gen. Grant has passed the Senate, and will also pass the House. Among the amendments offered was one by Bayard providing that when a President was elected and served a second time that the proposed life pension of one-fourth the salary of the office should not be extended to him. This was a move evidently in the direction of a one-term. but it didn't seem to take, as it fell through without much ceremony or discussion. It seems to us that there is scrambling enough now over the presidency without offering the additional inducement of a life pension of $12,500 per annum to every man who is lucky enough to be elected to that position.

THE SENATE APPROPRIATES $100,000 TO THE RELIEF OF THE MISSISSIPPI FLOOD VIC-TIMS AND PASSES THE BILL TO RETIRE GEN. GRANT.

The House Discusses Amendments to the Postoffice Appropriation Bill, to Prevent Subletting of Contracts, and Passes the Senate Bill to Appropriating $100,000 to the Relief of the Flood

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.-SENATE.-Allison, from the appropriation committee reported with amendments the immediate deficiency bill and gave notice he would call up the same at 1.-30 o'clock to-morrow.

Harris presented a memorial of the Memphis Cotton Exchange upon dan-ger to the river front of Memphis from the encroachments of the Mississippi. George introduced a joint resolution authorizing the secretary of war to issue rations for the relief of the laboring classes in the district overflowed by the Mississippi river which was read as, also, a telegram from Governor Lowery of Mississippi, urging immediate measures of relief, and representing the destruction of property and stock as immense, and starvation imminent, as the overflowed district comprises the best portion of Mississippi and white and black are suffering alike.

George as explanatory of the magni-tude of the disaster said the district inundated embraced all of the Mississippi belt between Memphis and Vicksburg, about 150 miles in length and 40 in breadth. This entire area was now under water, or would be in a short time. Four-fifths of its population is composed of colored laborers who have not the means of support during the period for which this overflow will interrupt la-

Ingalls inquired as to the estimated number of laborers rendered destitute. George thought it would rauge from 50,000 to 75,000. He added that the overflow in that section of the Mississippi bottom generally continued from four to six weeks, and pending the subsidence of the water, there is a total suspension of labor. He had confined his remarks to the desolation in Missis sippi. Contiguous districts of the western banks of the rivers in Arkansas were also suffering.

Garland spoke of the widespread desolation in Arkansas by the overflow as absolutely appalling and unprecedented. It had swept away the barns, granaries and stock of the farmers. He urged prompt action in extending relief, though he was not prepared to say what form or measures of relief should

Hampton explained that a part of the valley under water was the most productive and the finest cotton growing country in Mississippi. If the water extended from the Yazoo hills on one "Not quite, but he tore my coat half | side and the Arkansas bluffs on the off my back, and you've got to pay for other, and if the river was as high as despatches this morning reported there "How much?"
"Well, it will cost as much as $2 to strip of 150 miles in width above overget it repaired. You'll either pay it or low. The destruction, not only of stock, but of incoming crops would be so great, in his opinion, that he had no hesitation in saying that the despatch from the Governor of Mississippi gave sight before he jumped a foot high and but a faint idea of the destitution and starvation that would follow.

Alli-on (Iowa) suggested in view of the desirableness of prompt action reference of the subject to the military committee which should consult with the Secretary of War upon the provisions for issuing and transporting rations to the points at which they are most needed. If the sufferers were to be relieved by the United States, the Government relief could only be extended through the Secretary of War, and he thought it would be found that this relief was demanded not only as to the Mississippi valley, but those of several of its tributaries.

The suggestion of Allison being acceptable to George, it was agreed to and reference to the military committee or-

The Senate then took up the calendar and bills were passed to authorize the Secretary of War to sell the military barracks and lands upon which they are located in Savannah, and permitting the United States treasurer to pay congressional salaries, etc., in a contingency such as that which arose in the death of the late Secretary of the Sen-

The Senate bill to amend section ,133 of the revised statutes relating to Indian traders, which prohibits any person other than an Indian from trading on any Indian reservation without a license, but specially excepts traders with the five civilized tribes in the Indian Territory, was laid aside as unfinished business.

The Grant retirement bill was taken up, and Bayard moved to amend by substituting therefor a provision to pay to every President of the United States who shall have served, or may hereafter serve in said office, and who shall have retired from the same, a sum annually during his life, equal to one-fourth part of the annual presidential salary, but this not to be paid in case of a second presidential term.

After a long debate, Bayard's amendment was rejected—yeas 5, nays 51. An amendment by Sherman prevailed without discussion making the proposed retirement additional to the number authorized by law,

The bill then passed—ayes 35, nays 17. Brown, Call, Davis, of Illinois, Jones, of Florida, and Ransom, voted yea with the Republicans. Otherwise the vote was a party one. The bill authorizes the President, in recognitian of the eminent public services of Ulysses S. Grant, late general of the army, to nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to appoint him to the army with the rank and grade of general, to be placed on the retired list with pay accordingly. Logan reported back from the military committee a joint resolution introduced earlier in the day by George, to provide relief on account of the overflow of the Mississippi with amendments in the nature of a substitute. The joint resolution was at once taken up, the substitute adopted and at | Cotton, per sail 3-16d@ 14d; do. per steam 3-16d@nce passed without debate priates $100,000, to be used by the Sectribution of subsistence stores for the retary of War in the purchase and disrelief of destitute persons in the district overflowed by the Mississippi and its tributaries, and authorizes the secretary to co-operate with the authorities of the several States of which such disprovided this relief for the laboring classes, but upon the suggestions of Hoar and Sherman a change was made as stated.

The executive session. Adjourned. House.-Chalmers, of Mississippi, sent to the clerk's desk and had read a telegram from Whitman county, Miss., stating that the Mississippi river has overflown at that point and that thousands of colored persons are starving and asking for assistance. He then introduced and asked for the immediate consideration of a joint resolution authorizing the President to issue tem porary supplies of food and army clothing sufficient to prevent starvation and suffering of destitute persons living on or near the lower Mississippi River, who have been rendered so by reason of the present overflow of that river. Marsh, of Illinois, saw no reason why assistance should be confined to persons living on the lower Mississippi, and on suggestion of Kasson, of Iowa, the resolution was referred to the committee on military affairs with leave to report at any time.

The House then at 12:40 went into committee of the whole, Calkins, of Indiana, in the chair, on the postoffice appropriation bill. Holman's amendment, offered Tuesday, providing for the substitution of sub-contractor for the original bidder whenever it shall be ascertained that a contract is sublet at less than the original price was under consideration. Bland's substitute, providing for the subletting of contracts, was ruled out on a point of order.

Holman accepted Atkin's amendment offered Tuesday as part of his Several other amendments and substitutes were presented and rejected or ruled out. In the course of the long discussion which followed, Holman's amendment as amended by Atkins, was passed 99

Pending action on the bill the committeee rose. A number of petitions were presented by different members asking the re-

On motion of King, of Louisiana, the Senate joint resolution appropriating one hundred thousand dollars to enable the Secretary of War to issue rations for the relief of destitute persons in the district overflowed by the Mississippi River, was taken from the Speaker's table and passed.

The House then, at 5 o'clock, took a recess until 7:30, the evening session to be for the consideration of the District of Columbia code bill.
