"MORE LIGHT."

Something About the Electric Light and the Plans Proposed for Illuminating the City.

A day or two ago we had a notice of the effort now being made to introduce the Brush electric light for the purpose of illuminating the city. In an interview with Mr. Lederle yesterday he explained some of the plans proposed, and believing some of them to be news to many of our readers, we take pleasure in describing them. Using this gentleman as authority, it has been found by experience that the best system of lighting cities and public grounds by electric light comprises the use of powerful lamps suspended at great heights, to permit the rays being thrown over the greatest possible space. The nature of the electric light is to cast nearly 75 per cent. of its rays downward, and these rays falling at an angle, it can readily be seen that the higher the altitude, the greater the space illuminated. To accomplish the purpose of elevating the light it has been found practical to construct iron or steel towers from too or three hundred feet in height, the first tower of this description being erected in Akron, Ohio, in April last.

. To light our city in the most perfect manner, it is proposed to erect at the intersection of Tryon and Trade streets (Independence Square) an iron mast he gave to all his friends as long as they | 200 feet high, about 3 feet in diameter ed of boiler plate and made in tubular sections about 50 inches in length. Six iron guys are screwed at the top, and also fastened in the earth. The lamps are to be suspended near the top from a moveable frame. Directly over the lamps and near the top is a copper reflector, which will serve as a protection to them. Underneath the reflector is the device for raising or lowering the carriage to which the lamps are attached. The carriage traverses two iron guides on either eide of the mast, which are also to be so constructed as disarrangement of the apparatus. The entire structure will rest in a foundation 12 feet deep by 15 feet in diameter, with a cast iron plate in the boy, has just returned from Baltimore, bottom 2 inches thick, on which will rest the tower. Six wrought iron rods are to be extended from the bottom plate to a similar plate a little underneath the surface of the ground. The space between the upper and lower plates to be filled with concrete.

Dr. Mayo's Educational Addresses.

interested in education and in the success of our public schools, has written to the Rev. A. D. Mayo, LL. D., now in South Carolina, asking him if he will not visit our city and give us the privilege of hearing some of the addresses he has been delivering to the citizens of South Carolina. Dr. Mayo passed through Charlotte a month or so ago, but the inclement weather, the condition of our streets and other circumstances discouraged his remaining long enough to address us. He came with letters of introduction to some of our first citizens, from our Senators in Washington, Dr. Curry and President Arthur. Carrying such letters also to the citizens of South Carolina from Senators Hampton and Butler, he was at once commended to their esteem, and has been making the tour of the State in company with Superintendent Thompson. He has been everywhere received with demonstrations of the highest respect, and his addresses attended and appreciated by the first and most intelligent citizens of the State from Greenville to Charleston.

Dr. Mayo replies that it will be possible for him to visit this city on the 27th of this month, and address us if there should be sufficient interest in the matter among us to warrant his doing so. Cannot the city council take such steps as to tender him a formal invitation to address us in the opera house. or some other hall, as has been done in other places? It would no doubt do much to excite an intelligent interest in our public schools, which are behind those of almost every other city of the Madison Square Theatre Company, same size in the State.

Andrew Jackson's Birthday.

The Wilmington Review of Friday says the anniversary of the birthday of Andrew Jackson, "which will occur on the 16th instant, is to be observed with considerable eclat in several of the cities of the country. There has been some slight dispute in times past, as to where was his birtheplace—whether in North Carolina or in South Carolinabut it is now generally accepted as a fact that he was born in this State, Gen. Jackson, himself, claimed this State as his birth place and, while President of the United States, in speaking of the matter to a gentleman now living in this city, stated that North Carolina was the land of his birth. He was born in Union county, near the South Carolina line."

If there is to be any "centennial" about the matter Charlotte should by all means take part, as it is nearer Jackson's birth place than any other town of its size. But is the Review certain that a dispute may not arise if it insists on having the anniversary of his birth on the 16th?

Death of an Old Citizen.

-The Cheraw (S. C.) Sun, of last week, in speaking of the newly-elected minister of the Baptist church in this recently elected Sunday school missionary by the Mission Board for the State at a salary of $1,200, has declined the same and accepted a unanimous call from the Baptist church at Charlotte, N. C. Mr. Gregory has tendered his resignation to his congregation here and will leave for his new field about the 20th inst. Cheraw will lose one of its most valuable citizens, for he has made many devoted friends here and is universally admired by the entire community as a preacher of the Gospel and pastor. The young men of the town have become attached to him, and as a friend to this class he is unequalled. We can assure the good people of Charlotte that a valuable acquisition awaits them and while Cheraw regrets its coming loss, it rejoices that Mr. G. is to fall into such good hands as those of our neighbors in the up-country."
