BUSINESS NOTICES.

Who is Mrs. Winslow? As this question is frequently asked, we will simply say that she is a lady who for upwards of forty years, has untiringly devoted her time and talents as a Female Physician and nurse, principally among children, she has especially studied the constitution and wants of this numerous class, and as a result of this effort, and practical knowledge, obtained in a lifetime spent as nurse and physician, she has compounded a Soothing Syrup for children's teething, it operates like magic, giving rest and health, and is moreover, sure to regulate the bowels, in consequence of this article, Mrs. Winslow is becoming world-renowned as a benefactor of her race; children certainly do rise up and bless her especially in this case in this city. Vast quantities of the Soothing Syrup are daily sold and used here. We think Mrs. Winslow has immortalized her name by this invaluable article, and we sincerely believe thousands of children have been saved from an early grave by its timely use, and that millions yet unborn will share its benefits, and unite in calling her blessed. No mother has discharged her duty to her suffering little one, in our opinion, until she has given it the benefit of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. Try it, mothers—try it now.—Ladies' Visitor, New York City, sold by all druggists, 25 cents a bottle.

HOME CHIFFETS.

Mr. Street Superintendent Hunter: Couldn't you build up the sidewalk just a little on Sixth street, below the old jail? The walk along Wadsworth's lower lot is extremely sloppy when it rains.

Has the aldermanic appropriation to repair the sidewalks between the railroad crossing and College street, on Trade, given out? Work seems to have been suddenly suspended.

Some half dozen men are at work blasting out rock to pave the city streets, on the outskirts of the city. This may allay the alarm of residents in the neighborhood, who have heard the reports and trembled in fear of an earthquake.

Railroad Notes.—They do say that "Bunch" McBee makes one of the best officers ever connected with the Western North Carolina Railroad. Things must just go as he says, but he always "says" just what is right.

The people living along the line of the Atlantic, Tennessee & Ohio Railroad are much pleased with the running of trains since the new management took charge. The arrival and departure of the trains are much more regular than they used to be, and a better class of service is rendered the public at cheaper rates, as both passenger fares and freight rates have been reduced.

A bill entitled "An act to incorporate the Virginia & North Carolina Railroad company" is now before the Virginia Legislature. It passed both houses at the last session and was vetoed by the governor, but its friends are still endeavoring to carry it through. It contemplates the construction of a railroad from Richmond direct to Raleigh, there to connect with the Raleigh and Augusta Air Line. At Raleigh it strikes what is now known as the Robinson roads (the Raleigh & Augusta Air Line and the Carolina Central). These roads now reach as far west as Shelby, and it is contemplated to extend the line to the southwest from this point to reach the "Wadeley" system at Greenwood. On the whole it is quite an important proposition, but much of it is still in the womb of the future.

The Tourists. Wednesday evening, April 5th, Smith & Mestayer have an engagement at the Charlotte opera house in "The Tourists." The New Orleans Times-Democrat, of March 13th, says the exhibition on that occasion was one of the finest that had been witnessed there in some time. Commenting upon the performance it says:

The play abounds with comical situations, songs, and, owing to the fact that the jokes were fresh, the audience were kept in continual rous of laughter from the beginning to the end of the performance. Miss Theresa Vaughn, as Vernie Campbell, captured the house by the neat manner in which she sang several pretty German airs, as did Miss Maggie Chambers in her Irish sketch, her acting proving that she was an artist of considerable merit.

Mr. W. H. Mestayer, in the roles of Faro Jack and Frank Bluster, ably sustained the reputation he bears as being one of the best comedians on the stage. His "make up" as a Bowery rough elicited much applause, and his interpretation of the character was favorably commented on by the oldest theatre-goers.

Among others of the troupe who shared the honors of the evening were Messrs. J. M. Long and Wm. and Thos. Daly, whose excellent character acting added much to the pleasure of the entertainment.

Mr. Long's dialect, in the role of the French valet, attracted considerable attention, and, as it was perfect, afforded a great deal of amusement. Mr. Wm. Daly, as the conductor of a palace car, gave a very laughable portrayal of the character. Thos. Daly, as the porter, also contributed his full quota of fun, and the acrobatic efforts of the two brothers, together with their songs and dances, meeting with numerous successes.

Another feature of the evening's entertainment, which is so deserving of mention, was the violin solo of Prof. Muller, entitled the "Barneyard" during which he successfully imitated the crowing of cocks, grunting of hogs and the barking of dogs.

FANCY, PREMININE FANCIES.

A List of the Latest Novelties, and How the Ladies Adorn Themselves. What to Wear, How to Trim and How to Wear It.

Business men read THE OBSERVER for its market reports, and frequently growl and look surly when the figures don't suit them; politicians and news-mongers search out for the political and news items, while still another class read largely all the accounts of hair-breadth escapes, fires, hangings, murders, etc. Here we might stop but for the fact that we have still a large class, mostly feminine readers, who are interested in the fashions and caprices of date fashion. To these we desire to submit a few suggestions as to the fashions this spring: New Suitings.

In this class of goods the designs of last season prevail with a few exceptions. The checks, visible and invisible, are seen in all combinations of subdued color combined with brilliant colored stripes of satin or bourette, plain or wavy line stripes of nearly the same tints as the body of the material. In some of the more fanciful designs lace-patterns are seen on a portion of the goods to be used for founcing and waist trimmings. The silk and wool check or mixed goods with bourette stripes is one of the handsomest of the spring suitings. Camel's hair carreaux in gray and brown is also a beautiful fabric, fine and soft to the touch. Scotch tweeds in fine checks and mixtures, plain head checks, with satin stripes, illuminated beiges, forty-five inches, from 70 cents to $1.40 a yard. Foulle cloth, Melbourne suiting, that are between a bunting and camel's hair, with carpet-like texture and cordure in all the new tints, from 90 cents up, will be the leading fabrics for suitings through the spring months. With these are the standard plain cashmeres, camel's hair and goods of this class that will be combined with silks or made entirely of the same material.

The new satines are very fine in texture and beautiful in design. They are to be had in piece and also in boxes with prepared platings and shirring of plain material to be combined with the figured.

In the cotton canteens the pattern generally covers the ground. The plain colors match the ground, and polka dots with lace borders are among the new ones in light and dark blue, brown, wine, green, black and ecru. Lace striped zephyr is a new and pretty fabric.

Trimmings and Linings. Self trimmings are the rule for street costumes, and laces of all kinds, with silk cord and beaded passermenteries and embroideries, will enrich reception dresses. The new Marguerite lace, Spanish lace and guipure passermenterie will be worn as trimmings for black costumes with jetted lace in as great quantity as ever before.

On the plain materials braids will be used as trimming, several rows being stitched around a plain skirt and graduated up the entire front of the skirt and basque in military style.

Buttons will be extensively used as trimmings, especially in the very small sizes less than half an inch in diameter. Cup and flat designs and most of all of the round ball shape will be used, as many as a gross being put upon a single costume, in double rows on the basque, cuffs and where the sash and skirt trimmings will admit of their being placed, as in fastening back the silk faced sides of palmer side draperies. Gold, silver, bronze and light tints are to be had in the ball and some styles of flat shapes. In the cup shapes and flower designs, such as butter cups, are the prettiest.

A navy blue cloth costume has the inside of the kilt plaits of the skirt lined with cardinal satin. The apron drapey is gathered at the back, and arranged in sash loops and the ends lined with the satin. The basque is cut in a sort of cutaway coat style. The cuffs are turned back from the lap seam, showing the satin beneath.

A cadet blue chevrot cloth has the shoulders and waist shirred all around, the fitting being done by the graduation of the gathers over a tight-fitting lining. The waist is shirred from the top of the darts to two inches below the belt, where the skirt is laid in kilt plaits, forming the flounce. Two other deep-plaited flounces from the rest of the skirt at the front and sides, and a shawl drapey finishes the back.

Milinery, Flowers and Feathers. The new hats are to be very large and the bonnets small. Plumes will adorn the hats and the bonnets will either be made entirely of flowers or will be trimmed with them. Horseshoes of flowers are branched ready to place around the crown of straw, or are supplied with a star or disk of small flowers to be fastened over a frame or upon crape for evening wear.

When the bonnet is not covered with flowers, the vacant places are filled in with lace. Many of the coarse laces are used for the composition of the entire bonnet, or for trimming. Straw, or silk lace, with those of linen, are dyed in all colors to match the straw, for hats and bonnets are to match the costumes when not of black. For the latter jet trimmings are mixed with gay flowers.

Bewitching Bonnets. Among the fancy crowns of bonnets velvet will hold a conspicuous place. Folds and puffs will be fastened with as many silver, gold or pearl-headed pins as can be used.

A Neapolitan straw and pale rose Indian crape bonnet, of Marie Stuart shape, has a bunch of shaded roses at the side, half covered by the crape and crape strings.

The Hernani is a round hat frame, shaped by bending into a bonnet. It is covered with dark green Spanish lace, a shirring of the same color slanting across the top, and it is trimmed with rose-buds of different shades ranging from rose pink to garnet.

The time is a small, close shape, covered with ecru lace and strings of the same, with pearl netting over the crown, and a bunch of blue, yellow and orange flowers around the brim.

A Case of Misplaced Confidence.

A rather remarkable trial took place before Justice Davidson yesterday morning. Jennie Springs, colored, complained that a gentleman of color, named Berry Abel, had forged the name of Henry Donor to an order directing the said Jennie to deliver a certain value to the aforesaid Abel. The result of the trial was that Abel went to jail in default of $100 bail, to answer the charge at the next term of the court.

Presbyterian Mission School.

To the Editor of The Observer: This notice is applied equally to the school held every Sunday afternoon, in the Presbyterian chapel, under the superintendence of Mr. Henry Foust, and to the school conducted in the same building by Mrs. Martha Moore, during the week. The amount of good done by this institution, is incalculable. During the thirteen years of its continuance, five hundred pupils have received instruction. Some indeed for only a short time, others for years, in succession, and some of the children of the first pupils are now filling the vacated seats of those who have married off, and passed the age of pupilage. One of the most devoted and active lady members of our church, says "the good influences of this school reach a class of destitute children who could be reached in no other way."

Mrs. Moore's fervent piety, and intimate knowledge of the Bible makes her a most valuable teacher, and she makes it a part of the regular instruction to prepare the lessons for the Sunday school. Mr. Foust says the Sunday school would be a failure but for the instruction received in the week-day school.

For some four or five years Mrs. Isabella Adams was employed, in conjunction with Mrs. Moore, her department being to instruct the children in needlework and plain sewing. But the funds of the school not being sufficient for the employment of both ladies, the industrial feature had to be relinquished.

A good work operates in many directions, and in addition to the vast good accomplished by the school itself, the salary received by Mrs. Moore, small as it is, has enabled her to educate her son for the ministry. He is now fairly launched upon his great work of winning souls, and few ministers are more richly gifted than the Rev. Walter W. Moore.

During Gen. D. H. Hill's residence in Charlotte he threw his best energies into the Mission Sunday school, of which he was the superintendent. Col. Edwin A. Osborne (now a minister in the Episcopal church) was another superintendent, who was greatly beloved by the members of the school, and who was Capt. J. T. Colt filled the office for some years, and was, on his sad death, succeeded by the present incumbent.

The ladies who have been active in collecting means for conducting the week-day Mission school, have been the first, Mrs. Z. B. Vance, of blessed memory, Mrs. A. B. Andrews, (now of Raleigh) Miss Sue Johnston, Mrs. B. L. Dewey, Mrs. Sidney Reading, Mrs. Thos. McGeehee Smith, Mrs. T. J. (Stonewall) Jackson, and many others I cannot recall at this moment.

Of the lady teachers, scarcely too much can be said, so devoted and untiring many of them have been: Miss Mary W. Hill (now Mrs. Charles Johnston, of Raleigh) Miss Eugenia Hill, (now Mrs. T. J. Arnold, of San Diego, California) Miss Lutie Andrews, (now the wife of a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. McCorkle) Miss Sallie Yates, and Mrs. Maggie Morehead, so recently transferred to other scenes and other fields of labor in the Master's vineyard. To one and all of these and other dear christian women we say, God bless you and reward you, for the work you have done in the Presbyterian Mission school of Charlotte. H. M. I.

The Authorship of Beautiful Hymns.

To the Editor of The Observer. It will probably interest some of your readers to learn that the 66th hymn of the new Presbyterian Hymnal, recently introduced into your Second church, commencing "Lead Kindly Light," was composed by the present Cardinal Archbishop of England, at a time when he was seriously contemplating, if he had not already determined, to forsake the Church of England for the Church of Rome. With this act in view the words have a depth of meaning far beyond that which they would at first reading appear to convey.

Yours respectfully, J. F. E. Charlotte, N. C., March 27, 1882.

What is beautiful chiefest charm—Melting eyes or rosy-lipped lips, Flowing tresses, form of grace? No, for such these charms eclipse, And their sure preserver is SOZODONT, best dentifrice.
