Cutting Affair in Monroe.

None of the party had more than one hook; yet they seem to havehad excellent sport, for when they came to count up their spoils as night drew on, they had secured a total of 703 fishes, having among them nothing smaller than a good-sized perch-one of the party alone having caught 167 with his single hook. The authorities here received information that some of the men concerned in the R. H. The men, named respectively John Williams and Lafayette Williams, were accordingly arrested and brought before Justice Davidson, who, after a preto jail until next Tuesday, when they will again be brought before him.

The Supposed Infanticide.

The jury in this case met yesterday and examined a number of witnesses-They appear indefatigable in their efforts to sift the matter to the bottom, and from the numbers of people spending their valuable time peering about the windows of the mayor's court room during the day, it would appear that their efforts create considerable interest among many of the public. Are the people who so act personally interested in the matter? or is it merely a morbid curiosity that prompts them to annoy the jury by projecting their faces in at the windows of the room where the jury assemble, rendering it necessary for one of the jury to stand as sentinel there continually?

Early Closing.

The early closing of stores is now a subject of consideration in several of the cities in this State. The Wilmington Star speaks thus of the action taken by the leading grocerymen of that city: All the leading grocerymen of this city have agreed to an arrangement to close their places of business at 7 o'clock in the evening, commencing with Monday next, the 1st day of May, and continuing until the 1st of September. We suppose the dry goods men will also move in the matter of early closing pretty soon, in order that themselves and clerks may be enabled to indulge in needful recreation. Early closing ought to be generally Hotel Affricats.

Order from the Adjutant-General. In preparation for the 20th of May celebration in this city, Adjutant-General Johnstone Jones has issued order No. 61, in substance as follows, which we clip from the Raleigh News and Observer: "The 20th of May this year is to be honored at Charlotte with imposing and attractive ceremonies befitting the occasion. The celebration is to take place under the auspices of the Hornet's Nest Riflemen, the fire department and the chamber of commerce of that city, and all necessary arrangements therefor are being perfected." The programme is then outlined, showing that there are to be prizes for rifle shooting, drills, etc. The order then continues: The various companies constituting the 1st, 2d and 3d regiments, and the 2d battalion of the State Guard, it is understood, have been invited to attend the celebration. It is earnestly hoped that the organizations will respond in large numbers, and unite with the Mecklenburg militia in again commemorating an event which constitutes so bright a gem in North Carolina's diadem of honor.

Rates of transportation on the various railway lines approaching Charlotte will be announced hereafter. Quarters will be provided for all visiting troops, should tents not be obtained. Further information as to quarters, subsistence, transportation, the ceremonies at a may be held upon applicamonies, etc., may be had upon applica-tion to Captain E. F. Young, chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Troops attending the celebration will hold themselves in readiness for in-spection and review by His Excellency, the Governor and Commander-in-

The 20th of May Celebration.

-The air is full of the 20th, and the proposed doings on that auspicious day; and the various committees having charge of the arrangements for its celebration are busily at work.

-Great preparations are being made by the merchants and residents for the decoration of their stores and residences on the line of march of the grand procession.

-The committee soliciting subscriptions to defray the expenses of the celebration are meeting with good success as was expected from the well known liberality of our citizens. The list of contributors we understand is to be published as soon as the committee has completed its labors.

-The Pioneers were out practicing night before last preparing for the firemen's tournament.

-The committee having the firemen's tournament in charge, have decided to have the racing on Tryon, runliminary examination, committed them | ning from the Metropolitan Hotel to the hydrant on the corner of Tryon and Fifth streets.

-The bicycle racing at the fair grounds by the Charlotte Bicycle Club, during the celebration, will be quite an attraction. -The fire department have extended invitations to upwards of twenty companies in Virginia, Georgia and the two Carolinas to participate in the celebration, and there will undoubtedly be on the 20th the grandest display of fire companies ever seen in the State.

-The Governors of Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia have been invited to meet Senator Bayard here at the

-And, taking all the preparations into consideration, it is said that the celebration will be on a grander scale than on any former occasion, and will probably attract a larger number of visitors to the city than have ever been gathered here before—the centennial of 1875 not excepted.

THREE INCENDIARIES PAY THE LIFE PENALTY AT GREEN-

They Frotest their Innocence to the Last and Die Game.

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 28.-Bates, Burton and Adams, three of the five negroes who robbed and fired the Opera House building here on the 7th of December. 1879, were hanged here to-day. Of the other two one, Fletcher Maddox, was pardoned to constitute him a competent witness against the others, and the other, Bill Dodson, had his sentence commuted. The priseners have had two trials, both resulting in conviction. Their case has been to the Supreme Court twice, and death sentence passed on them three times. The execution was private, only about sixty or seventy persons witnessing it, the streets being kept clear by a strong guard of State volunteers. The prisoners died game, and protested their innocence to the last, each making a brief speech from the gallows platform. Colored ministers prayed and sangl hymns, in which the condemned joined. They expressed confidence in going straight to heaven. The gallows worked well, and each of the three had his neck broken and struggled very little; but after death the faces of Bates and Adams were found to be much distorted. The general feeling here was that of satisfaction over the vindication of the law, after a long and obstinate fight of counsel. Some colored people organized a movement to obtain a commutation of sentence, but failed.
