The Charlotte Observer. TUESDAY, MAY 2, 1881. STATE NEWS.

Wilmington Star: A correspondent informs us of the marriage, on the morning of the 17th inst., in Pender county...

Winston Sentinel: J. C. Burton Esq. was bitten by a poisonous spider on last Thursday, from the effects of which he suffered severely.

The foundations of the burnt block above the post-office are being excavated preparatory to the erection of large and handsome business stands.

The building boom in our town, notwithstanding the talk of a hard winter in no way abated. Seven stores, hotels and two factories, besides dwelling houses are in course of construction.

Wilmington Star: A correspondent informs us of the marriage, on the morning of the 17th inst., in Pender county...

A barn belonging to the Messrs. Westbrook Bros. near Rocky Point, Pender county, was destroyed by fire on the 20th inst., together with its contents, consisting of fifteen bushels of peanuts.

The loss is estimated at $2,500, to cover which there was insurance on the barn to the extent of $500 and on the peanuts 1,500. The origin of the fire is a mystery; but it is the general impression we hear that the barn was first robbed and then set on fire.

Chinese Funeral. The emaciated remains of Cha Afuch, a middle-aged Chinaman, lay in a simple pine coffin yesterday at his home in Division street, and the friends of the dead man had assembled to pay the last tokens of respect to his memory and perform the mortuary rites of the Buddhist creed.

Full twenty-five bare-headed and fearful Mongols sat in the room in strangely embroidered and black pantaloons and shoes of marvelous design. At the foot of the coffin a roasted pig savored the air, and all around it were strewn fragments of food.

A few minutes of complete silence passed and a third Chinaman entered the room. They were assuming the duties belonging to the Buddhist priests, and each wore a soft black felt hat bound with a strip of white crepe.

The centric of the ceremony, a man in prayer in the guttural Cantonese dialect and at every pause he made his two assistants chanted a response. Sometimes they reverently knelt, but they never for a moment did the mourners remove their eyes from the dead.

After the prayers to Joss had been duly rendered and the prayer sticks were lighted, the coffin was borne out of the house and deposited in a hearse. The deceased was a member of the Loon Ye Tong, or United Chinese Brethren, and the hearse was driven to the rooms of the society at No. 18 Mot street, where a German brass band was drawn up on the sidewalk.

And at every pause he made his two assistants chanted a response. Sometimes they reverently knelt, but they never for a moment did the mourners remove their eyes from the dead.

Pipes by the Million. The red clay pipe is made in this city at the rate of about two million a year...

The red clay pipe is made in this city at the rate of about two million a year. It is worth five or ten cents apiece, or ten or twenty thousand dollars.

The clay comes from Martha's vineyard, Governor's Island, N. Y., and Lake Michigan. Three hundred tons are used in a year. The three kinds of clay are mixed or ground together.

A workman with a pile of clay beside him makes from it single rolls of clay, each large enough to make a pipe. The next worker places the clay in a pipe mould, runs a wire into the stem part, puts under a lever and makes the bowl. Fifteen hundred a day are made by one man.

The moulds may be of various designs to form the decorated bowl. The latest is the "Land League," representing a victor on one side and a prison life on the other.

In pipes, as in other things, novelties must be given the smoking public, and as those interested in land leagues are fair smokers this pipe will be bought for use and patriotism.

After the moulding process the pipes are laid away to dry or drain until the water is well out of them. They are then put in fire-clay receivers, one hundred in each set, and are fired in the fire or furnace to be burnt. The oven holds seventy thousand pipes. They are then heated to a white heat.

The red clay pipe has a wooden stem and a silver band. The stems are made from maple by machinery designed for the purpose. They are made black by the process of enameling.

The band is made from a circular piece of brass, that is to say, a circular piece of brass, without break or seam is turned into a cylinder about an inch in length.

Some of the pipes are stained, while others are left in the color of the clay to be stained or colored by the smoker.

Milling of a Convict. Yesterday morning about 10 o'clock, Nat Hill and Rufus Holeslaw colored, members of a gang of convicts employed at the Cooks in the yard on Walnut Creek, near the North Carolina Railroad bridge, south of the city, attempted to make their escape.

When called on by the warden, Hill and Holeslaw stopped, but Hill ran at his best speed. A guard, whose name is Johnston, fired on him and killed him at the first shot, the ball passing entirely through his body.

Hill was a negro, aged 27 years and was from New Hanover county. His sentence was for six years, his crime being larceny. He was placed in the penitentiary in February last. It was learned yesterday by the authorities that Hill had told some of the other convicts his plan to escape.

Friday Mr. William G. Upchurch sold from his stable to Mr. J. T. Reddon, a prominent and progressive farmer of Bennettsville, South Carolina, a number of fine cattle from his herd of Jerseys.

There was a bull, "Duke of Jersey," five years old, three cows, aged 7 and 9 years, each with a calf, besides the price paid for the lot being $735. We regret to see such splendid stock leave the State, but it shows that Wake farmers can do when they try to raise fine cattle.
