Morsford's Acid Phosphate, Valuable Medicine.

Dr. W. H. PARMELEE, Toledo, O., says: "I have prescribed the 'acid' in a large variety of dise ses, all addition to our list of medicinal agents."

FREEMAN'S MILLS. Gullford county, N. C., May 9th, 1879.

MRS. JOE PERSON: -Madam - My son, 20 years o'd, has had the Scrotula eight years tried going to the Springs, and treatment under several doctors, but is no betand treatment under several doctors, but is no better. Now, if you can cure him, send me some medicine, if not, do not send any. I do not wish to kill the boy giving him everything that is advertised, but am withing to pay for what will do good. You have no idea how many different things we have tried, fully, fully, none did any good is the reason I write so plainly. I am Yery truly,

Of course the Remedy was sent.

FREEMAN'S MILLS, Gullford county, N. C., May 2d, 1882.

MRS. JOE PERSON:-Madam - I commenced using your Remedy two years ago on my son. He was twenty years old, had been afflicted with Scrofula eight years, had been treated by several physicians, and si ent one season at the Alum Springs in Virginia. Nothing did him much good. He was very much reduced in flesh and looked badly, with poor appetite, and seven frightful running sores on his neck. After ising your remedy awhile his strength increased his appetite, complexion and general health were his appetite, complexion and general health were much improved, but the flow of corruption continued for some time. First the swelling legan to decrease until it nearly reached the sores, then they began to heal, and have not discharged in eighteen months, and are entirely well. As a blood Parlier and Tonic it is the best lever tried. It has been worth its weight in gold to my son. He is looking well, and his health is good. I know it to be all you claim for it. Wishing you great success, and with many thanks for the benefit we have received from your remedy, I am, Very truly, J. W. FREEMAN. Very truly. I am prepared to PROVE that I have discovered the vegetable antidote for Scrofulous taint or impurity of the bood—an antidote which will expel the disease from the system, thus rendering it the best blood purifier known As a Tonic and Alter-ative it is highly recommended. Infalible for Scrotula, Eruptions, and all diseases arising from impurity of the blood. I have sold 4,000 bottles, and never received one unfavorable report. For sale and indo sed by the Druggists of North Carolina Send for circular containing testimonials of wonderful cures—these testimonials come, not from the far West or the Territories, but from well known citizens of this state. Ask your Druggists for my remedy, and for further information address Mrs. JOK PERSON, may 19 tf Franklinton, N. C.

Who is Mrs. Winslow? As this question is frequently asked, we will simply say that she is a lady who for upwards of forby say that she is a lady who for apwards of forty years, has untiringly devoted her time and talents as a Female Physician and nurse, principally among children, she has especially studied the constitution and wants of this numerous class, and, as a result of this effort, and practical knowledge. and, as a result of this chor, and phacted edge, obtained in a lifetime spent as nurse and physician, she has compounded a Soothing Syrup, for children teething. It operates like magic-giving rest and health, and is moreover, sure to regulate the bowels. In consequence of this ar-ticle, Mrs. Winslow is becoming world-renowned as a benefactor of her race; children certainly do rise up and bless her; especially is this the case in this city. Vast quantities of the Soothing Byrup are daily sold and used here. We think Mrs. Winslow has immertalized her name by this invaluable article, and we sincerely believe thousands of children have been saved from an early grave by its timely use, and that millions yet unborn will share its benefits, and unite in calling her blessed. No mother has discharged her duty her blessed. No mother has discharged her duty to her suffering little one, in our opinion, until she has given it the benefit of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. Try it, mothers—try it now.—Ladies' Visi-tor. New York City. Sold by all druggists. 25

Rheumatic Diseases.

These allments follows from torpid liver and ostive bowels; the skin, bowels and kidneys failing in their proper work, an acrid poison is formed in the blood, which is the occasion of these acute diseases. Kidney-Wort produces healthy action of all secretive organs, and throws off the rheumatic poison. Equally efficient in liquid or dry form—Inter-Ocean.

No Whiskey!

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whiskey, thus becoming a fruitful source of intemperance by promoting a desire for rum.

Brown's Iron Brtters is guaranteed to be a nonintoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case, take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whiskey and other intoxicating beverages.

Rev. G.W. RICE, editor of the American Christian Review, says of Brown's Iron Bitters:

Cin., O., Nov. 16, 1881. Gents :- The foolish wasting of vital force in business, pleasure, and vicious indulgence of our people, makes your preparation a necessity; and if applied, will save hundreds who resort to saloons for temporary recuperation.

Brown's Iron BITTERS has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy and permanent relief.

HOME CHIPLETS.

Blackberry time draweth nigh. Tax payers are attending to the returning pretty well.

The United States Court is not largely attended. Not sufficiently interesting to draw.

day yesterday, just to keep things straingt while it was filling up. Two cases were continued by the Mayor yesterday for want of witnesses.

Both will be heard this morning. A handsome white pillow-sham unfinished, with the initial letter Lembroidered in the centre, was found on the street the other day. See advertisement.

A large number of people, young tadies predominating, passed through the city yesterday on their way to Davidson College.

During the thunder storm of Sunday night a fine horse and a hog, the property of Mr. Allen Cruse, were killed by lightning on his plantation below the old fair grounds.

A Good Time.

A small but most select party of ladies and gentleman from the vicinity of Mt. Holly had a delightful fishing party at Tuckasege Ford, on Tuesday last, and were rewarded with as many fish as they could get home, besides a good time.

-The many friends of Rev. Mr. Bagwell will be pleased to hear that he is able to be upon the streets.

-Captain V. Q. Johnson was in the city yesterday. - Captain W. H. James, engineer in charge of the Cape Fear river improvements, let his countenance illumine our sanctum yesterday.

The commencement exercises of Asheville Female College will take place on the 18th, 19th and 20th of this month. Rev. W. W. Bays will deliver the annual sermon.

The commencement exercises of the Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va., will open on the 18th, and close with the final ball on the night of the 21st. Rev. J. B. Hawthorne, D. D., will deliver the baccalaureate sermon, and the address will be delivered by Hon. Robt. Oul.

The commencement at Salem Female Academy closes to day.

A Burglary and a Capture. Tuesday night about 12 o'clock the police were informed that a burglary had been committed at the house of Lila Blackwood, a colored woman living in the lower end of the third ward, by some person, while the occupants of the house were absent at church, and a purse with $1.60 stolen. Messrs. Carter, Hill and Blackwelder at once gave the matter their attention, and on arriving at the place were told that the suspected party was then lying in an adjoining house. The officers entered and found one Bill Colvin, a burly negro lying on the floor, apparently asleep. Colvin expressed much surprise on being disturbed, and protested his innocence, saying he had been off cutting wheat all day, and hadn't a cent of money about him. One of the officers concluded to search Colvin, and when an exploration of his pantaloons was begun he was seen to thrust his hand into one of his pockets and quickly transfer something to his hip pocket which the officer at once seized, and which was found to be the purse described by the Blackwood woman as having been stolen. An examination of the contents proved Colvin's guilt beyond a doubt, as the money answered exactly in amount and description to that stolen. Colvin was placed in the lock-up, and will have a preliminary hearing this morning, when he will no doubt be sent to jail,

His offense is a serious one, being punishable with no less a penalty than death, though perhaps he is ignorant of the gravity of his crime.

United States Court.

Considerable business was disposed of by the United States court yesterday, the most important of which was the case of the State of North Carolina against Case and Loftis. This case has been several times reported in these columns, and most of our readers are familiar with it. The indictment was brought in the Superior court of Henderson county several years ago, and removed to the Federal court at Asheville, thence to this city. Case and Loftis, while in the discharge of their duties as revenue officers, killed J. B. Justice, on the 14th day of February, 1880, for which they were indicted. The case was taken up yesterday, the State solicitor for this district being present, and no objection being raised, a jury was empanelled and a verdict of not guilty rendered. The case has been an exceedingly expensive one, quite a number of witnesses coming to each court for several terms before a trial

Other cases were disposed of as fol

DAVIDSON COLLEGE COMMENCE-MENT.

A Large Audience Present--Alumni Address by Mr. J. S. Verner, of S. C. An Eloquent Oration by Hon. Thos.

Hardeman, of Georgia. The commencement at Davidson College was opened yesterday, at 10 o'clock a. m., with the alumni address by Mr. Griffy sat by the stand pipe all J. S. Verner, of Walhalla, S. C. The large chapel was well filled and the address was listened to throughout with the greatest interest. About an hour was occupied in its delivery, when a recess of thirty minutes was had, the band adjourning to the campus and playing several pieces of music. At 12 m. the procession, headed by the orator and distinguished visitors, entered the college, which was crowded to almost its fullest capacity,

After a stirring piece by the band, Rev. Dr. Hepburn, walked to the front of the platform and in a brief, but appropriate manner, introduced the distinguished orator from Georgia, Hon. Thomas Hardeman. As Mr. Hardeman came forward he was greeted most enthusiastically. His personal appearance is strikingly handsome. His eyes are almost the exact counterpart of Zeb Vance's, and his iron grey hair carries out the resemblance to a remarkable degree. But for the snowy beard which covers his chin, he might, perhaps, be taken for our Zeb. Beginning his address, Mr. Hardeman said: "Motley, the historian, affirmed that many of the literary histories of the age furnish a kind of Barmecide feast, in which the reader has to play the part of Shacabac and believe in the excellence of the lamb, the flavor of the wines and the perfume of the roses, upon the assertion of the entertainer. I am apprehensive a similar conclusion will be reached by sensitive literati about commencement addresses and the hearer must imagine finished periods, studied oratory and enchaining eloquence in unpretentious speech. Should he so conclude," said Mr. Hardeman, "I will congratulate myself, if, more fortunate than was Timotheus, the Milesian, who was punished by the sage of Sparta for adding another string to the harp, I shall escape the censure of this refined audience, who like them, ignoring the influence of the luxury of sound, may conclude that, like Burrowdale's bulls, I have gone mad at my own bellowing, and therefore permit me to go unpunished, little dreaming in their antipathy to noise, that music which now thrills the world with sweetest harmonies, owes its origin to the clangorous sounds of a smith's hammer, which attracted the attention of the philosophical Pythagoras. If mad you judge me, I plead in extenuation that from the cradle to the grave, man lives in noise and tumult and revolution. His whole existence is an 'amazing counteraction of adverse elements.' Life at war with dissolution, the Is struggling with the To Be and the no more. Nature herself is an apparent contrariety. The mountains and the valley, the sea and the land, the lakes and the cataract, the darkness and the light, the living and the dying, the summer's warmth the winter's snow, the springtime green, the autumn sear, the one the antithesis of the other, opposing elements controlled and regulated by a creative power in a harmonious organism despite of antagonistic formations and conflicting natures. So it is with man; endowed with a divinity within, as immortal as its source, yet incarcerated in a nature debased by the fall, he is a compound of hopes and fears, of anticipations and disappointments, of ambitious promptings and unwilling sloth, of brilliant victories and disastrous defeats, of exalting virtues and debasing vices-each an opposing element and struggling for supremacy. Entrusted with his own destiny, he may, of his ter, he may sway the empire of the heavens and rule among the stars." With this introductory the orator launched out in a beautiful peroration on man, speaking of the many excellent qualities with which he was endowed, and in the manner in which he should use them. The giant asleep is as powerless as the man of ordinary strength. The sword sheathed is as harmless as the broken wedge. Action must make own accord, be chained with Prometheus to an ignoble rock, or, with Jupi-

the man and his destiny. Adverting to education he stated that the proper education of the people should command the serious consideration and endorsement of the public sentiment. He did not allude to education as taught in schools and colleges, but a thorough, practical, productive moral education, adapted to the necessities of the people and the progressive spirit of the age. An education that will utilize the energies and develop the industries of the country-for I am satisfied that educated industry is the keynote in the song of progress. It is the lever of Archimedes, the trident of Neptune, the lamp of Aladdin. It is the key that unlocks the golden gate to progress, to all elevation, to all honor. Power walks in its path, wealth glitters in its coffers, honor crowns its labors, while glory wreathes it with the fade- 6. Oration-"Public opinion," T. S. less flowers of immortality. This is an age of intellectual advancement and I would have our colleges, our great headlights of education, to extend their | C. sphere of usefulness by establishing chairs of technical, experimental education, where the young man can be educated in the branches peculiarly adapted to his profession and inclinations. Wouldlyou build an ærie for the singing housebird and a wire cage for the eagle? The one lives among the flowers, the other is most at home when he sails before the winds and follows the path of the cloud and the tempest. There must child.; The speaker dwelt at considerable length upon this question of education and his remarks were frequently applauded. He warned the young men against the false delusion that distinction is only found in political vocations and professional pursuits, and then went on to give instances showing the fallacy of this idea.

His remarks addressed to the young men who are inclined to leave the State and seek homes elsewhere, had a telling effect upon the audience. In handling this question his language was magnificent, his eloquence sublime.

The war is over and the sword has been beaten into the ploughshare, and with this and other implements of MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH peace I would work out Southern development and Southern independence. In this patriotic enterprise I would enlist the noble women of North Carolina whose patriotism is as pure as the waters of "Cindara's Fount," and whose purity is as sweet as the fruit of "Amrita tree," and with you, true sons, I would carry these daughters to the humble graves of your dead, and bid each and all listen to the exhortation which comes up from these graves-

"we died for our State; can you not live for it?" Live in her fields and her farms; live in her foundries and her mills; live in her workshops and her commercial marts; live in her valleys and her hills; live in her hopes and her memories, and your State, no longer crushed by losses and disheartened by misfortune, will loom up like some

BALTHORE—NIGHT—Oats, firmer; Southern 60.062; mixed 58.060; Pennsylvania 60.062; Pennsylv farms; live in her foundries and her misfortune, will loom up like some mountain height, upon whose top "sunshine will ever play." Refuse not, my fair countrywomen, your co-operation in this great work of State recuperation and State advancement, because you are the weaker element of society. As well might the star refuse to shine because it has not the splendor of the king of day, or the rivulet to gladden the valley with its waters because it flows not the volume of the ocean wave. Man is the chief agent, but woman is the lever of his actions and his power. Young men of the Eu and Phi societies-to yourselves, your country and your God, be true. Old men, be true to your State, whose mountains and hills, whose firesides and altars, whose temples and tombrs are associated with your hopes and memories, with your mother's prayers and your father's ashes. Be true one and all to those great principles which underlie good society and pure government, and you will no longer sit down by the "Rivers of Babylon" and weep as you remember your Zion-but upon the shores of a new deliverance, you will be able to sing a new song; "yea, upon a psaltery and instrument of ten strings" can you sing that deliverance song. Your sons, as "plants grown up in their youth," and "your daughters will be as corner stones polished after the similitude of a palace."

At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Hardeman was approached by throngs who shook his hand and congratulated him upon his most admirable effort.

-Hon. Thomas Hardeman left this evening on the 4:30 special train, on his return home, feeling too unwell to remain and see the commencement exercises concluded.

-There are 18 graduates this year with the degree of A. B., and three with the degree of B. S.

-The town is already crowded with visitors, but a general overflow is looked for to-morrow (Thursday), commencement day proper. The weather is cool and pleasant and all are having a delightful time.

Preliminary Exercises at the C. M. I. The preliminary exercises of the Carolina Military Institute came off last night in the chapel of the Institute, and were enjoyed by a highly appreciative and intelligent audience. The first part of the exercises consisted of declamations by members of the fourth class, as follows: Cadet K.G. Matheson, of South Carolina, recited 'Surrey's Dream;" Cadet L. S. Carson, of South Carolina, "Caractacus;" Cadet A. J. China, of South Carolina, "A Soldier of the Legion;" Cadet W. B. Bonham, of South Carolina, "Beuna Vista." All of the declaimers acquitted themselves well, and were rewarded with showers of boquets from their lady friends, in addition to the enthusiastic applause conferred by the male portion of the audience. The second part of the exercises consisted of original orations and essays by members of the third class. Cadet R. M. Loftin, of South Carolina, enforced the "Lesson of Bacons' Life" in an able oration on the subject. Cadet W. A. Graham, of North Carolina, in an essay on "John Milton," recited the prominent points in his life and character in a succinct manner. The character and works of Shakespeare were elucidated and adorned with new beauties by the elegant rhetoric of Cadet J. Wilson Gibbes, of South Carolina. "Literature in some of its uses," was treated in an able manner by Cadet C. H. Peake, of South Carolina; and Cadet B. G. Thomas, of North Carolina, brought the exercises to a close by a humorous essay on "Woman," leaving the audience in a pleasant humor by its frequent flashes of wit. The following is the programme to be carried out to-day, constituting the commencement proper:

10 O'CLOCK A. M. Prayer by Rev. O. F. Gregory. 1, Salutatory addresses by Cadet

Abe Levi, of S. C. Oration-"Longfellow," Cadet E. W. Evans, of Maryland. 3. Oration-"Fall of Wolsey," G. S.

Edmonston, of Ga. 4, Oration-"Party spirit," E. C. Hesse, of S. C.

5. Oration-"Dignity of Labor," Myer Levi, of SC. Lucas, of S. C.

7. Oration-"Advantages of military training," S. Dubose Boylston, of S. 8. Oration-"Development of Southern resources," Abe Levi. 9. Diplomas conferred.

10. Valedictory addresses, S. Dubose Boylston.

At the conclusion of these exercises Col. H. C. Jones, of this city, is expected to deliver the annual address before the cadets.
