

LIFE FOR LIFE -- Concluded.

He then read in a loud tone and with direct and deliberative emphasis the following: "My dying prayer on the gallows:

Father, now I go to thee and the Savvior. I have finished the work thou gavest me to do and I am only too happy to go to thee. This world does not yet appreciate my mission, but thou knowest it, thou knoweet thou didst inspire Garfield's removal and only good has come from it. This is the best evidence that the inspiration came from thee and I have set it forth in my book that all men may read and know that thou, Father, didst inspire the act for which I am now murdered. This gov ernment and nation, by this act I know will incur thy eternal enmity as did the Jews by killing thy man, my Savior. The retribution in that case came quick and sharp and I know thy divine law of retribution will strike this nation and my murderers in the same way. The diabolical spirit of this nation, its government and its newspapers, toward me will justify thy cursing them, and I know that thy divine law of retribution is inexorable. therefore predict that this nation will go down in blood, and that my murderers from the executive to the hangman, will go to Hell. Thy laws are inexor-able, oh thou supreme judge. Wce unto the man that violates thy laws. Only weeping and gnashing of teeth awaits him. The American press has at large to settle with the righteous father for their vindictiveness in this matter. Nothing but blood will satisfy them and this nation, and its officials. Arthur, the President is a coward and an ingrate. His ingratitude to the man that made him and saved his party and land from overthrow has no parallel in history, but thou righteous father will judge him. Father, thou knowest me but the world hath known me and now I go to thee and the Savior without the slightest ill-will toward a human being. Farewell, ye men of earth!" At several points he half paused and endeavored to impart an increased emphasis to his words by a peculiar facial expression so often observed during his trial when he was angered at something which was said or done. This was peculiarly noticeable when he alladed to President Arthur, and when he declared this nation would go-down in blood. When he had finished reading his prayer, he again surveyed the crowd and said, still with a firm voice, "I am now going to read some verses which are intended to indicate my feelings at the moment of leaving this world. If set to music they may be rendered effective. The idea is thet of a child babbling to his mamma and pappa. I wrote it this morning about 10 o'clock." He then proceeded to chant these verses in a sad, doleful style : "1 am going to the Lordy, I am so glad; I am going to the Lordy, I am so glad I am going to the Lordy, Gory hallelujah! Gory hallelujah! I am going to the Lordy. I have the Lordy with all my soul. Giory hallelujah! and that is the reason Lam going to the Lord. I am going to the Lord, Glory hallelujah! Glory hallelujah! I am going to the Lord.' Here Guiteau's voice failed and he bowed his head and broke into sobs, but he rallied a little and went on with his chant: "I saved my party and my land, Glory hallelujan! But they have murdered me for it, And that is the reason I am going to the Lordy, Glory Hallelujah! Glory hallelujah. I am going to the Lordy." Here again his feelings overcame him and he leaned his head on the shoulder of Mr. Hicks and sobbed pitifully. Still he went on: "I wonder what I will do When I get to the Lordy? I guess I will weep no more When I get to the Lordr, Glory hallelujah?'

the manner and place of Guiteau's burial had not yet been determined upon. The body he said would remain in the jail to night. Dr. Hicks who left the jail soon after the hanging, will return in the morning, and then the question of interment will be settled.

John Guiteau, when asked if the rel-atives would not ultimately remove the body, said:

"I don't want to say what we will do, for if I do we will not be able to pro-tect it. If the body is taken away no-body will know it at the time at least." Charles H. Reed, Guiteau's counsel, did not witness the execution. He said he could not stand it and intended to leave the city. It is not known whether Scoville is in town or not.

John Guiteau says that he has not seen him, and he does not believe he is in town.

John Guiteau appeared to be in a very screne frame of mind after the execution. "I believe he was insane." said Guitean. "I predicted just what would happen; that he would go brave-ly to the gallows. The trial was a farce and to-day an insane man was executed. Whether he is insane before God I do not know; still I believe if he was to be tried again he would be convicted. It was not a question for the juhalf-past two o'clock Dr. At F. B. Loring concluded his ex-examination of the eyes of the dead man. Both eyes were so indistinct that no opinion could be formed of their condition or expression.

Here there was another interruption caused by sobs and emotion which he was unable to repress. He wept bitterly and then, with quivering lips and morraful tones, he went on to finish his fitty:

"I wonder what I will see When I get to the Lordy? I expect to see most spiendid things; Beyond all earthly conception, When I get to the Lordy, lory balleluiah!

(Raising his voice to the highest pitch that he could command)

"Glory hallelujah! I am with the Lord " This closed the chant, and then Rev. Mr. Hicks gave to Guiteau his final benediction and farewell, saying: "God, the Father, be with thee and give thee peace forever more.'

The attendants then pinioned his legs, placed the noose over his head and carefully adjusted it about his neck. Mr. Strong placed the black capover his head, and as he did so Guiteau called out in a loud tone: "Glory, glory, glory." Instantly the spring was touched, the drop fell at 12:40 p.m. and Gui-teau swung in the air. The body turned partly around, but there was not the slightest perceptible movement of the limbs or any evidence of conscious effort to move them. When the drop fell, a yell was sent up by some persons inside the jail. This was echoed outside by the voices of a thousand or more people, who hurrahed lustily. There was a general onslaught by the populace upon the door which was so powerful that the officers were unable to withstand it. Hundreds of people crowded into the office and there was a terrible crush at the doors. For at least 40 seconds after the drop fell the body hung motionless; then there was a slight motion of the shoulders and legs, due to muscular contraction. Three minutes after the drop fell the body was lowered to be examined by the physicians. There was a decided action of the heart for fully 14 minutes, and the pulse fluttered two minutes longer. When the body had hung with the feet just touching the ground for over half an hour, it was lowered into a coffin which was waiting for it under the scaffold. The physicians decided at once that the neck had been broken. When the body was lowered the black cap was removed and the face exposed. The features were pallid and composed. About the mouth there was considera-After the body had been arranged in the coffin, Warden Crocker ascended the steps of the scaffold and addressing the crowd, which was kept back from the scaffold by the line of officers, said that those who desired could pass along side of the scaffold and view the body. The crowd of spectators was formed into line, and passing between the scaffold and the wall of the jail, viewed the dead form. Some jail officers, two or three physicians and Dr. Hicks stood about the coffin. John W. Guiteau joined this company and fanned his dead brother's face to keep away the flies. John Guiteau did not go upon the scaffold, but stood during the scene just within the line of officers at the bottom of the steps. When liberty was given to the crowd to view the remains, the scaffold was at once filled with people who curiously examined every joint and bolt. At 1:40 p. m., the lid of the coffin was put in place, and the body was borne to the jail chapel where the physicians who were to make the autopsy were assembled. Guiteau, just before the trap was sprung, dropped a piece of paper from his hand. This paper was given him by Warden Crocker, to be dropped by the condemned man as a sign that he wrs ready. John W. Guiteau said to a reporter just after the execution that he "was glad that it was over." What will be done with the remains?" asked the reporter.

autopsy were Drs. Lamb, J. F. Hartigan and L. A. Savers. In addition to these physicians there were present Drs. Noble, Young, Robert Reyburn, A E. MacDonald, Johnson Elliott, S. A. McKim, P. J. Murphy, Chas H. Nichols, Surgeon-General Barnes, of the army, Surgeon-General Wales, of the navy, Drs. W. W. Gooding, A. H. Witmore and Clark Patterson, of St. Elizabeth asylum, Drs. D. C. Patterson, coroner of the District, C. F. Kleinschmidt, Dr. J. R. Hagner, and Drs. Budsell and Parrish. John W. Guiteau and Dr. Hicks were present for a short time but left the jail before the conclusion. Close examination of the body showed that Guiteau's neck was broken, and that the rope had cut deep into the flesh of his neck. There was a disposition on the part of some of those present to get mementos of the occasion at any cost. The jail officers took the rope from the gallows and secreted it as soon as the noose was removed from the dead man's neck. Dr. Hicks said, when asked about the burial, that he did not want to say where the body would be interred. The funeral, such as it will be, will take place to-morrow and will be as private as possible. At a quarter past three o'clock the military guard that has been on duty at the jail ever since the 2nd of July-last. marched away. They were loudly cheered as they left. Dr. Bliss and his son arrived at the jail at half past three o'clock and joined the physicians engaged in making the autopsy. A reporter of the associated press was the only newspaper man admitted to the Chapel where the body was being dissected. The operations of the three surgeons engaged in the autopsy were watched with the greatest interest by the others who crowded about the table. After the examination of the eyes, the brain was removed and inspected. Then the body was cut open and a thorough and complete examination made with the view of determining all physiological facts that could be of interest in connection with the case. The brain was found to be in a normal condition and weighed 49 ounces. The heart weighed a little, over 9 ounces and was in a healthy condition, as were all other internal organs. At 3:55 the autopsy was adjourned until this evening, when the brain will be taken to the government medical museum, on 10th street, where a more minute and critical examination will be made of it. The physicians were disinclined to go into details in regard to the results thus far reached. Dr. Hartigan left the jail soon after 4 o'clock, taking with him Guiteau's brain. Dr. Gooding, who has maintained that Guiteau was insane, said when asked what the result of the autopsy was, "I have nothing to say now." An other physician remarked, "We are all knownothings." A bystander replied, "so the uneducated, non-expert public thought at the time of the other autopsy." All the physicians agree that there were lymphae in the brain and hardening of the dura mater. None of them care to express a positive opinion until after the examination has been completed. Dr. Bliss said that there were many points showing good, healthy mental and physical development. - + 0 + --Death of an Illinois Congressman.
