THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE. THE OBSERVER is being bombarded with letters from the people on the political situation, many of which we will take pleasure in laying before our readers as an index to popular opinion. We beg, however, to remind our friends that we want no anonymous communications. We must have the name of the writer of every communication, as a guarantee of good faith, and in order that we may be the judge of the character and standing of the writer, and the importance of the facts stated in the communication.

Out of many received we lay the fol-lowing before our readers to-day:

To the Editor of the Observer.

Now that the characters of certain prominent Democrats in the State, who have had the moral courage to think, speak and act in defiance of their unfortunate environments, are being assailed and belittled by those who know that they themselves "but see through a glass darkly as it were," it would not be out of place to refresh your many readers minds with the past "independent" eareer of some of these gentlemen over the spirit of whose dreams some miraculous change has suddenly come. Here are a few facts that have an interesting aspect about them, and no doubt will serve as profitable food for reflection between now and the election.

It has not been so long ago but that the readers of THE OBSERVER can recall the time-1872-when Hon. Augustus S, Merrimon "bolted" the caucus dictation of the Democratic party, and backed by the Republicans of that Legislature, ran against Senator Vance for the United States Senate. And "mirabile dietu," this same learned editor of the News and Observer, S. A. Ashe, who now is so loud-mouthed and bitter in his denunciations of gentlemen who dare to have the audacity to differ from him on certain political issues, was Merrimon's law partner at the time mentioned above, and supported him in the "bolt." Why is it any more of a crime to be an "independent" now than ten years ago?

But now it is a heinous political sin to even breathe "independence" let alone to act accordingly. The Wilmington Star that is laboriously exerting itself to out rival its colleague the News and Observer in abusing and excoriating "independents," bolted, worked and voted for independent Democrats in the Fourth Ward in Wilmington, in 1877, against the regular Democratic nominees; and Josh T. James, editor of the Review, an abridged edition of the Star and News and Observer, worked for years on a Republican paper against the Democratic party. Now let those who are so strenuous in their opposition to "independentism" put the above in their little pipes and smoke it. I believe it was Milton who said that "above all liberties, give me liberty to think, speak and act in accordance with the dictates of reason," and not till such liberty is accorded to every man in North Carolina, regardless of race, color, or past party affiliations, will she cease to remain in the rear of her sister States in their march towards the light of political freedom and independence. M. C. H.

Wilmington, N. C., July 13, 1882.

Another Jo Darte.

To the Editor of The Observer. I was enlightened and amused at your editorial comment on yesterday in regard to the once independent position of Judge Ruffin-the Judge bolted the party nomination in 1874, and not in 1876, as you stated-and seeing what the Raleigh News and Observer said of you I have penned a few thoughts which you are at liberty to publish.

Says the News and Observer: "Col. Jones cannot ride two horses." How can Judge Ruffin and ex-Judge Dillard do so? The News and Observer says: "Col. Johnston claims to be a Democrat, so does Col. Folk, Mr. Darby and Col. Jones," and so does Judge Dillard and Judge Ruffin, but both bolted the nomination, and rode an independent horse to beat Judge Kerr, after Tourgee, the carpet-bagger, was beaten off or bought off the track.

Tenbroeck never runs a horse the second time if he flies the track the first heat; then cease your pother Capt. Ashe about independents, or declare the race off and substitute for Judge Ruffin a horse that never bolted. The News and Observer calls you

"Cousin Charlie and begs to ask a few questions upon honor bright. Let me ask him one? Capt. Ashe is terribly opposed to the payment of the special tax bonds. Didn't his present partner Mr. John Gatlin vote for these same special tax bonds? Now, if one-half the News and Observer is responsible for the special tax bonds, why don't Mr. Ashe repudiate his partner, just as he does these much denounced special tax

A proper sense of copartnership deli-cacy should teach "Cousin" Sam to be silent on special tax bonds, or denounce and dissolve the copartnership in the News and Observer. If he acts upon my suggestion please publish and send him the following formula for dissolving the copartnership:

PROCLAMATION AND NOTICE OF DISSOLU-

Having denounced the special tax bonds as corrupt and traudulent and having learned from Cousin "Charies Jones," of the Charlotte OBSERVER, that my partner in the News and Observer as a member of the fegislature voted for them, I hereby proclaim the copartnership which binds me to the News and Observer dissolved, instanter, to the feet however them. Me Best the will me to the News and Observer dissolved, instanter, to take effect, however, when Mr. Best, the railroad king, completes his road to Ducktown, and reunns to the State Treasurer the million of dollars in stock he has in the Western North carolines. lina Bailroad corporation for which he paid noth-

My word for it, Mr. Editor, the country has suffered and does suffer from the despotism of party and the people who do the honest voting want to see more men like you who have the manliness and independence to speak their own sentiments witout fear of party dictation. They want a new party because they have been deceived, disappointed and betrayed by both parties. Many of us have suffered, bled and died for party instead of country and we want a change.

HORNET'S NEST.

Silver Words With a Gold Lining. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, Washington, D. C., July 13, 1882.

Charles R. Jones, Esq.: SIR:-You will pardon the liberty of a personal stranger in thus addressing you, but the extracts from your late address published in the National Republican of this date, furnish my apology. They seem so broad and national in their scope and are in such striking contrast with the narrow and contracted ideas contained in most political utterances from Bourbon Democrats in "the Old North State," that I can not restrain an impulse to congratulate your constituency upon your bold and patriotic announcement. It is not necessary for the good of North Carolina the Southern States or the nation, that every man should vote the Republican ticket; but it is a matter of great pith and moment to the country that such a policy as you generally outline in these extracts shall be fastened upon and fixed within the groundwork of the government. The whole people should be educated; a love of their nationality should be everywhere assiduously inculcated; local and sectional prejudices should be frowned upon, and the two great parties should vie in a generous rivalry each to out-do the other in enlarging the sweep of our patriotism, the love of our country, and the greatness, glory and permanency of its noble and free institutions.

If—as I have hopes that you may you shall be successful in impressing your announced policy ineradicably upon the people of your district and your State, stranger though I be, you will have few more glad to congratulate both them and you, than, wery respectfully, your ob't servant,

At ten feet deep the ore looks as well as Silver Valley. Six foot vein—only one foot of which is solid lead as yet, but lead is sprinkled all through the six feet of the lode. Old Montgomery is bound to shine."
