A considerable portion of the State press has devoted no little space of late to commenting on the course of the OBSERVER and its editor, some of them dealing in a spirit of fairness which we appreciate and others in a narrowminded, proscriptive, bulldozing spirit which we defy and despise. Candid, legitimate criticism we respect, let it come from what source it may, but we claim the right to do our own thinking without dictation from any source whatever. The OBSERVER has been, and is to day, notwithstanding the anathemas that have been hurled against it by the self-constituted tribunals that have presumed to sit in judgment upon it, a Democratic paper, in the full sense of the word, as we understand it, and as solicitous for the triumph of Democratic principles as the most blatant of its abusers. What the OBSERVER has had to say that has subjected it to such harsh and unfair criticism has not been in denunciation of the Democratic party, but of the conduct and management of the so-called self-constituted leaders of the Democratic party, who sit back, cross their legs, look wise. and do nothing but find fault with those who refuse to bow to them as magnates of an omnipotent order. Twelve months ago we warned the party of the dangers that threatened it for want of direction, and of a leadership capable of comprehending and grasping coming complications. We were considered by some of the wisacres who have eyes, but see not, and ears, but hear not, as an alarmist, and were told that our warnings were inspired by unfounded fears. The element, opposed to the Democracy were shaping themselves for common action, were mapping the lines of march and planning the field of operations, while the so-called leaders of the Democracy. with a stupid persistence, sat still and permitted the opposition to make the issues and place it upon the defensive. Prohibition and county government, the two most vital issues, and upon which the opposition mainly rely, might have been eliminated from the

CONGRESS YESTERDAY. THE SENATE ON THE NAVAL AP-PROPRIATION BILL.

> The House Disposes of Considerable Business of Minor Interest and Proceeds with the Consideration of Indian Affairs.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—SENATE.— The Senate soon after being called to order resumed the consideration of the naval appropriation bill.

The question was upon the motion of Cameron, of Pennsylvania, to recommit the bill with instructions to eliminate all general legislation changing the existing laws in regard to the navy. During the debate which followed, Mr. Williams interrupted and offered an amendment to be proposed to the sundry civil bill directing the attorney general to ascertain what would be just and reasonable compensation for ser-vices rendered by Charles H. Reed, in the defense of Charles J. Guiteau, and to make an allowance therefor not exceeding $5,000. Referred to the committee on appropriations. The debate on the naval bill was then resumed.

Davis, of West Virginia, a member of the appropriations committee, said the reduction on the item for miscellaneous pay of the navy under the new arrangement was $186,525, and similar savings occurred in other items. If the pending motion prevailed the appropriations committee would have to draft a bill upon the basis of the one of last year, which appropriated $947,000 more than the one now pending. He therefore opposed recommital in the interest of economy. The motion to recommit the naval bill to the appropriations committee, with instructions to eliminate all features of general legislation was debated until 5 p.m., a vote was then taken and it was lost—yeas 29, nays 34.

The Senate then went into executive session and when the doors were reopened adjourned.

The House disposed of considerable business of minor interest, after which the floor was accorded to the committee on Indian Affairs, which called up the Senate bill granting the right of way for railroad and telegraphic purposes to the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad company through the lands of the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations of Indians, which was passed after some debate.

Williams, chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, reported back a reso-lution calling upon the secretary of the navy for copies of all correspondence with or instructions to Rear Admiral Nicholson relative to the extraordinary

"Four years." "Ah, my son, I have lived seventy years, and never yet learned to smoke tobacco."

Drawing himself up to his full height, the polite youth replied: "You darned old fool, nobody's to blame but yerself; you might have learnt!" Owen declares that he shall never try to reform the youth of his country

A New Cure for Consumption. From the Livenia Gazette.

A prominent citizen of Geneseo, has been prolonging his own life at the ex-pense of the canine creation. Some two or three years ago the gentleman in question, who was pronounced by physicians to be in quite an advanced physicians to be in quite an advanced stage of consumption, began the habit of taking his pet dog to bed with him. The dog soon exhibited unmistakable signs of lung difficulty; coughed almost constantly, and finally died. The gen-tleman procured another dog, and slept with him for a time when this animal with him for a time, when this animal also fell a victim to the disease. Another dog was procured with which the man now sleeps, and though the third animal will probably die the same way the others did, the man is constantly improving and is better than before in years. He is a well known business man of Geneseo, and we would give his name if necessary.

The sub-committee of the House judiciary committee have discovered that the papers upon which they reported that Nebraska was entitled to an extra representative in Congres were fraudulent, but who is responsible for the fraud they can't say.

Dr. Sanford E. Chaille, one of the the most eminent physicians in New Orleans, predicts that there will be no yellow fever in that city this summer unless it should put in an appearance before the first of August, which is hardly probable.

In the Republican gerrymander of the nine Wisconsin Congressional districts it was thought that but one district was left for the Democrats. Recent elections have induced a revision of the estimates, and it is discovered that two districts are Democratic and three doubtful.

Judah P. Benjamin's practice at the bar in London yielded him the first year £300, the second £500 and the third £1000. During these years he partly made his support by writing for the papers. Now he has one half the practice from England, Ireland and Scotland before the House of Lords on appeal.

----A BOOMERANG. "O! many a shaft, at random sent, Finds mark the archer little meant!

Under the head of "Col. Chas. R. Jones and his Revilers." the Statesville American publishes an article which justice demands shall be published in these columns. In conducting this newspaper we have studiously avoided what may be termed "personal journalism," and yet there are times when a personal defence is absolutely necessary. We had no sooner begun to criticize the "bosses" in the Democratic party, than the whip crackers were set upon us by those who take safe positions, many of them out of the reach of danger, and a howl of personal abuse was raised. That we may have erred in the past, or that we may err in the future is only human frailty, but under any and all circumstances we have always tried to do what seemed to be our duty at the time, and claiming no immunity from responsibility, we have always been ready to abide by the consequences. But more of this anon. Our purpose this morning is to reproduce the article alluded to from this week's American, the paper that made the charge ten years ago. Here it is:

The personal abuse of Col. Charles R. Jones, by the Bourbon press, at the head of which is the News-Observer, the tail being all the small dogs of the party, amounts to a malignant persecution of unparalleled meanness. Col. Jones has worked long and faithfully for the Democratic party, and certainly no journal published in Charlotte, ever had met them in a candid, manly way. They were issues that could not be dodged, but had to be met and now we have got to meet them. If the Democratic party triumphs, it must be a positive, not a negative party, it must make its own issues, not permit them to be made by its opponents. its policy must be aggressive, not defensive simply. It must be the party of the people, for the people, not of the few and for the few. It must rise above cliques and dictators, and show that it is something more than a mere machine run by a handful of aspirants for position; a party of principle and not of expediency which adopts one course to-day and another to-morrow, at the whim or caprice of men who forget to day what they did yesterday. There must be consistency that will command respect. As a journal that dares to condemn the wrong while it defends the right, the OBSERVER wants to see the Democratic party loom up into the grand party of the people which it should be and not be dwarfed into a mere machine for the use and behoof of selfish aspirants whose aim is to live and fatten upon it That is not what the Democratic party is for, but unfortunately this thing has been growing of late until it has become a source of wide and just complaint, and bossism, a comparatively new thing in North Carolina, has become a feature in our politics as repulsive as it is arrogant. If the party is to succeed it must rise equal to the emergencies before it, throw off the rings, cliques and dead-weights, call the people in, recognize their sovereign power, and as the party of the people march on in the path of progress and reform. In such a mission the Democratic party will find no more ardent and devoted champion than THE OB-SERVER-let its nurrow-minded critics abuse and howl as they may.

For a young lady to hug a perfect stranger is not quite the proper thing to do. But Miss Tillie Timble, of Brooklyn, N. Y., didn't debate the queston when she discovered a burglar ransacking her bureau, but slipped down stairs, sent the servant girl for a policeman. and then slipped back, stole up behind the unsuspecting bureau explorer, threw her arms around his neck, hugged him with all her might, and screamed like a locomotive turned loose, till a policeman arrived, relieved her of her charge and took him in.

-----The Macon Telegraph ventures the following opinion: "A great want in Georgia now is a few score Democratic leaders possessed of a little genuine manhood. There are two or three men in the Democratic party, in the State, whom the most of our so-called leaders to such a course by self-interest and threat to open fire upon the city of Alexandria, Egypt, under certain contingencies, and also to inform the House whether he has been informed that American sailors and officers have been performing police duty in Alexandria under the British Admiral Williams, stating that the committee was in possession of all information on the subect, and asked that the resolution be tabled and the documents containing the information printed. So ordered. A proposition to adjourn over until Monday received but few votes, and then, at 4:15, the House adjourned until to-morrow.

Running a Newspaper.

The last issue of the Newspaper Reporter contains the following on the subject of "running a newspaper," which is peculiarly orthodox:

There is, perhaps, no vocation which tends to create so much ill-feeling, envy, rivalry, and uncharitableness among its members as the newspaber business. The competition is most severe; the net proceeds of the vast majority of publishers are exceedingly meagre when compared with the labor, and care, and capital required, and this tends to make publishers watch and prey, not with, but on each other. The patronage of the busines is at best limited, and difficult to increase, and politicians and place hunters take advantage of the rivalry between publishers to embitter them much more, and cause them to blackguard and defame each other, and in the most ridiculous and shameful manner.

Editors are used as the special champions of the office-seekers. And what reward do they give for their services? The crumbs that fall from tables, and the bones they have already picked. Of all employers, demagogues are the ones who exact the most service for the least compensation ...

Gold.

The gold-bearing region of North America, exclusive of Georgia, South Carolina and some other of the Southern States, extends from Costa Rica on the south to Alaska on the north, between parallels of eight degrees and seventy-one degrees of north latitude. and parallels of eighty-two degrees and one hundred and eighty-six degrees of west longitude, between the Rocky mountains and the Pacific ocean and Carrabian sea and Artic ocean. The total annual product of Central America amounts to $5,000,000. California, since the discovery of gold in 1848, has produced $1,500,000,

The total product of Nevada, Idaho, Montana, Colorado, Dakota, Oregon and Alaska, has amounted to $150,000,000. The annual product of the gold mines of North America is estimated at $45,-000,000, and since the discovery of America, $5,805,000,000, which is over one half of the whole production of the world. Of this amount $2,030,000 has been obtained since 1858.

Who is Mrs. Winslow ?

As this question is frequently asked, we will sim-ply say that she is a lady who for upwards of for-ty years, has untiringly devoted her time and tal-ents as a Female Physician and nurse, principally among children, She has especially studied the constitution and wants of this numerous class, and, as a result of this effort, and practical knowl-edge, obtained in a lifetime spent as nurse and physician, she has compounded a Soothing Syrup, for children teething. It operates like magic-giving rest and health, and is moreover, sure to regulate the bowels. In consequence of this ar-ticle, Mrs. Winslow is becoming world-renowned as a benefactor of her race; children certainly do rise up and bless her; especially is this the case in this city. Vast quantities of the Soothing Syrup are daily sold and used here. We think Mrs. Winslow has immortalized her name by this invaluable article, and we sincerely believe thous ands of children have been saved from an early ands of children have been saved from an early grave by its timely use, and that millions yet un-born will share its benefits, and unite in calling her blessed. No mother has discharged her duty to her suffering little one, in our opinion, until she has given it the benefit of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. Try it, mothers-try it now.-Ladies' Visi-tor.
