The immigration to the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1872, was 789,003. This is the largest immigration in one year in the history of the country, the next largest being last year, when it reached 669,431, and the third largest was in 1873, when it was 459,803. The average monthly immigration last year was 65,750, but the arrivals in the single month of June were 99,971. The labor trouble has had its influence in checking immigration, and July showed a considerable falling off in our foreign arrivals.

Philadeldhia Record: Senator Z. B. Vance, of North Carolina, is one of those strict constructionists who can find no warrant in the Constitution for a protective tariff, but he can find ample warrant in that instrument for appropriations to "improve" the mountain streams of the State under pretense of promoting great national and commercial interests. The principles of a strict constructionist can rarely resist the seduction of an appropriation from the public treasury." While the North was enjoying the benefit of the so-called "steals,' there was but little complaint, but when the South derives some benefit the howl begins. Senator Vance did just what Northern Senators have been doing all along-voted for a bill which appropriated needed sums to carry on certain improvements on the water highways for the benefit of the State of which he is one of the Senators, State of which he is one of the Senators, and one that has industry enough and brains enough to look after her interests

Persons recovering from wasting diseases, such as malaria, fevers, etc., will be greatly benefitted by the use of Brown's Iron Bitters, a true tonic. THE REPORT OF THE PARTY OF THE

ELECTION OF COUNTY COMMIS-

SIONERS. The magistrates met in this city yeserday, and proceeded to the election of county commissioners with the result as stated elsewhere in these columns. We refer to the matter thus editorially to remark that the action of the magistrates is a complete vindication and endorsement of the course of THE OBSER-VER on the county government question; it is more, it is a concession of truth of the charges made by anti-prohibitionists who accused the commissioners of ignoring the voice of the people, in refusing to grant license after the emphatic verdict at the polls. The concession is carried even further in the removal of four of the old board, retaining the only license advocate on it and electing three anti-prohibitionists out of the four new ones elect. The board is a good one, and will give entire satisfaction to the people of the county as far as we know. And yet for taking precisely the same position that the magistrates have now taken, this paper was criticized and its party fidelity was called in question by over zealous partisans whose limited powers of vision prevented them seeing beyond the little ring in which they move. We deplored the inconsiderate action of the commissioners for adhering so arbitrarily to the line which they had marked out, and for their utter indifference to the expression of the popular will, and warned against the injurious effect such action would have upon the Democratic party in this county. Our remonstrance was unheeded and our warnings treated as the unfounded fears of an alarmist, who was getting scared before the danger came. But the rumbling was in the air, the restiveness of the people was becoming daily more and more apparent, the indignation of the ignored majority took shape

Turkey declines complying with the request of England and refuses to prothe veto; in the Senate, the vote stood | in public meetings and voice in public de clarations that finally demanded attention and obedience too, but too late to undo the mischief that had been done, or restore the harmony that had been broken. We take it for granted that the radical change that has been made ties are 1,140 of the former and only in the personnel of the board has been dictated by a desire to placate the antiprohibition element in the county, and restore as far as possible the harmony last fiscal year. Passed. that prevailed in the Democratic ranks before prohibition became a distracting issue. Had this spirit prevailed after the result of the election had been recorded; had the commissioners shown any respect for the voice of the people, or had they whose straight-laced notions prevented them from obeying the popular will resigned, and permitted the election of men of different views, much of the discontent and wellfounded dissatisfaction might have been avoided and one of the main arguments used in the organization of the new party would have been swept away. Now in the eleventh hour is done what should have been done at first. In the eleventh hour the warning of THE OB-SERVER is heeded, and its counsel, indirectly if not directly, followed, and the following endorsed by the very men who have sat in judgment upon THE OBSERVER for daring to give it, for daring to think for itself and speak without permission. We are not egotistic enough to allege that THE OBSERVER is any further instrumental in producing this result than in simply being the channel for the expression of popular opinion, which found vent through its columns, and showed how the people stood upon this question. But THE OBSERVER was the organ of the people in this matter and spoke for them.

It has done its duty, and only its duty, and even at this late day congratulates the magistrates in making such a selection as will meet with popular endorsement, while it commands popular re-

It is an endorsement also of the course of THE OBSERVER, in answer to the unjust criticism to which it has been subjected for the freedom with which it expressed its views on this and kindred questions.

As a further endorsement of the course of THE OBSERVER on this question, a telegram received since the above was written, informs us that the magistrates of Cabarrus county elected a straight out anti-prohibition board yesterday, and we venture the remark that in a majority of counties in the State similar action was taken. Thus the ball rolls and thus THE OBSERVER is endorsed.

It would seem that the rice of baptism is being generally neglected in England by the Presbyterian denomination. There's a discrepancy between the membership and the babies somewhere, and the church people are figuring to find it.

Sparring Over The Tax Bill The Principal Business in The Senate --- The House Without a Quorum and The Members Mad at The "Royal" Senate For Refusing to Consider The Motion to Adjourn.

WASHINGTON, August 7 .- SENATE -Immediately after assembling, the Senate dispensed with the reading of the journal and permitted the consideration of sundry measures by unanimous consent as follows: On motion of Hale the House bill pensioning the widow of the late Brigadier-General Ramsey, was passed. On motion of Morril, the House bill repealing the section of the Revised Statutes which imposes an export tax on tobacco, was passed. On motion of Butler the Senate joint resolution allowing per diem to employes of the Senate for extra month's pay, was passed. The House bill granting the right of way to the Jacksonville and Augustine railroad company and referring the claims of the captors of the Albemarle to the court of claims were considered

Mr. Plumb charged that the responsibility for the extension of the present session was chargeable solely the dilatoriness of the House in maturing appropriation bills and reviewed the acof the House on these bills and said if any detriment had come to the business interests of the country-by fears of unwise legislation-the responsibility belonged to the House.

Morrill objected to the present consideration of the resolution, and moved that the tax bill be proceeded with and appealed to the Democrats to proceed

Plumb offered a concurrent resolution for adjournment sine die to-day at o'clock, without disposing of the resolution the senate went into executive session. Beck and Blair opposed, when the matter was dropped.

The amendment offered in the Senate to-night by Cameron, of Wisconsin, for the final adjournment at 11 o'clock tonight was defeated through the inability of the clerk to hear the response of Senator Bayard. Senator Bayard voted in the affirmative and had his vote been so reco; ded the amendment would hav been edopted.

Rollins, from the naval committee, reported the house resolution instructng the Secretary of the navy to convene the court of inquiry to investigate as to the loss of the steamer Jeannette and the death of Lieutenant-Commander DeLong. Passed. Miller, of New York, from the commerce committee, reported back the House joint resolution for a joint select committee upon American shipbuilding and ship owning interests. Passed.

Blair, chairman of the committee on ducation and labor, called up a resolution directing an investigation during the recess into the labor strikes. Senate proceeded to the consideration of the House concurrent resolution for final adjournment on Saturday, August 5th.

Cameron, of Wisconsin, moved an amendment by fixing the hour of adjournment at 11 o'clock, p. m., to-day, Monday, August 7th. Saulsbury inquired of Morrill whether he intended to call up the tax bil'

and received an affirmative answer. Sherman said he would never vote for adjournment until the tax bill was voted upon. Beck said the endeavor to pass the tax bill as proposed was only a mean attempt to take the bill from the Senate, when it was well known that the House had not a quorum. The amendment was lost by a tie vote. The Senate then at 6.50 adjourned until to-mor-House The House met at 10 o'clock

The sundry civil bill was announced as duly enrolled and received the signature of the speaker. At 10:55 the House adjourned, the vote on adjournment showing the presence of only 109 members, and at eleven clock the session of Monday was brought to a close. Bills were introduced to appoint a select committee of nine to report to the next session on the improvement of the Mississippi river; by Robeson a bill reducing taxation similar to that in the Senate. This was opposed by the Democrats who pointed to the fact that there was not a quorum present, and led to a cross fire between the Republicans and Democrats, the latter of whom seemed to enjoy the sport. This continued till 1:50 when the House took a recess for two hours. After the recess the select committee to report on the Missis sippi river was announced by the speaker, when the House took a recess until 8 p. m. At the evening session a motion was made to adjourn to three o'clock tomorrow afternoon, to await the concurrence of the "royal Senators" who could sit at night and as House had noth ing to do in the meantime, Blackburn moved to adjourn till Friday, to which Hiscock said he would make no objection if the Senate took up the tax bill, when the House adjourned till to-mor-

The members are very indignant at the manner in which the Senate has treated its motions to adjourn, and some of them were talking about introducing a resolution, asking the President to exercise his constitutional right to declare both houses adjourned.
