The very best medicine I know of for dysentery, choicers morphis, and cramps in the stomach. Have mad it for years, and it is sure cure every time.

MOINGONA, IOWA, March 12, 1881.

I have used your PAIN KILLER in sever cases of cramp, colic, and choicers morphis, and it gave almost instant relief.

CARNESVILLE, GA., Feb. 28, 1881.

For twenty years I have used your PAIN KILLER in my family. Have used it many times for bowel complaints, and it always cures. Would not feel safe without a bottle in the house.

J. B. IVIE.

SACO, ME., Jan. 22, 1881.

Have used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER for twelve years. It is safe, sure, and reliable. No mother should allow it to be out of the family.

We began using it over thirty years ago, and it always gives immediate relief. Would hardly dare to go to bed without a bottle in the house.

CONWAYBORO, S. C., Feb. 22, 1881.

Nearly every family in this section keeps a bottle in the house.

PARSON MASSEY'S FIGHT.

Lively Incidents of His Lynchburg Visit -- The Train Waiting for His Acquit-

LYNCHBURG, VA. August 8th.—The campaign speech of Mr. John E. Massey at Franklin Courthouse yesterday, was attended by some disorderly and was attended by some disorderly and disgraceful scenes. It became apparent at an early hour that the Mahone party were determined to interrupt. Col. Waddell James, a Mahone member of the Legislature, had been circulating reports that Massey when a candidate for the United States Senate had tried to buy his vote. Without mentioning James's name, Massey denounced these reports as false and standerous. James asked if he was referred to. Massey replied that the authority for the report was the man he referred to, whoever he was the man he referred to, whoever he was. James then said he was the author of the report. "The report is a lie," said Massey. James said he would swear to it. "Then you swear to a lie," said Massey. There was great confusion, and Col. James, attempted to speak from the stand Massey occupied, interrupting the latter. The crowd took Massey up in their arms and carried him into the court house, but as it would not hold one-tenth of the immense crowd present, he was again taken up and carried to the portico of Early House, where he delivered a tremendous invective against the Mahone-

This morning Col. James, attended by Judge Clayborne, made an attack on Massey at the depot, which led to another disorderly scene, in which James was rather roughly handled. Massey was arrested on a charge of assault, and he would have been prevented from keeping his next appointment had not the passengers on the train all voted it should wait till after Massey was heard. The train waited. The mayor acquitted Massey and fined James $20. The citizens cheered Massey, and he made a speech from the car platform.

Loose and Ignorant Methods.

New York Evening Post.

It would not be surprising if an outside observer should make a mistake in a comparative estimate of the amounts of the various appropiation slovenliness and final haste which mark the passage of these measures. But when two members of Congress differ nearly $30,000,000 in their statement of the total, one or the other is convicted of gross ignorance of a subject with which he ought to be familiar. On Saturday Senator Allison, of Iowa, said the sum appropriated this year was $294,243,097.36, an increase over last year of $77,500,000. Representative Hiscock, of New York, said on the same day that the total was $265,469,000 and the increase $48,297,000. Here is a disagreement, in precise ligures, of $29,-203,000 as to the annual growth of congressional extravagance. Either comparison is sufficiently shameful, but when members do not know even how much money is wasted the waste is partly explained by the incapacity or negligence of those whose duty it is to prevent it. There is a like variance as to details-Mr. Allison putting the increased payments for pensions at $47, 719,693, and Mr. Hiscock at $34,000,000 -a difference of $13,719,693.

The disagreement as to the total may be accounted for in part by the fact that Mr. Hiscock included in his estimate only the regular appropriation bills, while Mr. Allison added the amount, more than $24,000,000, embraced in other bills authorizing expenditure of money—as it was entirely proper for him to do in a financial comparison, because, whatever the bill may be called, the draft upon the Treasury is the same. But even upon this theory there is still a difference of $4,634,225.70—Mr. Allison making the total of the regular bills $270,100,225.70 and Mr. Hiscock making it $265,460,000. As to pensions, white nebody has been able to tell precisely what expenditure the reckless Arrearages act will in the end involve, it ought to be easy to ascertain what sums, are appropriated under it from year to year. Yet the Iowa Senater and the New York Representative are nearly fourteen millions apart. Another member, Representative Atkins, of Tennessee, agreed with neither of the others, but said that the total excess for the year was $78,247,000.

Loose and ignorant methods, such as this defective official information implies, unavoidably promote extravagance. The dishonest member takes advantage of them to push through schemes of plunder, and the honest member, while he may generally urge economy, is without full means for making his opposition specifically effec-

"Ain't I a Animal ?"

Detroit Bree Press.

"Is this the society for the promoshun of cruelty to animals b" asked a tall gaunt woman as she strode into room No. 4. Merrill block, one day last week. "Yes'm," answered a small, peryouslooking man behind a high counter, "but the Secretary is not in at present.

Do you wish to make a complaint?"

"Do I?" inquired the woman, advancing to the front and brandishing an umbrella. "Well, don't I look like it?

Take a look at me; black and blue from head to foot, every bang in my head pulled out by that brute of a — "Oh," said the gentleman, retreating in alarm, "the society is for the prevention of cruelty to animals!"

"Well, ain't I a animal?" she asked fiercely. "What else am I Do you want me to be a cross-eyed cat with a big head and a hump back in order tosave me from being persecuted? Where's the boss of this institooshun?" "I-I think he is out of town," stam ered the perplexed man. "You might see the Treasurer about your case," he added artfully to get her off. "You'l find him in the Custom House." "Hum! What's he been doin' to get in there? Oh! you're a nice lot! Can't protect a poor woman against a misera-ble brute of a man, but if you saw an old horse drinking himself to death at the town pump you'd fine everybody that ever owned him. I'll go home and settle things myself, and I hope you'll send me a medal when I get through." She resumed her umbrella and her travels, and

We call attention to the advertisement in an other column of Mr. E. B. Whitman. The tendency of the manufacturing business for years has been towards making but one line of geeds in a factory, as work men become very skillful and can turn out better goods and more of them when kept at work apen one thing year in and year out. The success of this policy may be surmised from the internet factories and miorasots sales of the various concerns through the silles dec. de. Mr. Whitman represents three separates factories; one manufacturing plows and prove destings, and another, including the calebrated British Maxture. He is not in the general agricultural business, but for plows, grain utilis and certificara, glaims to be able to compete with any other manufacturer in the land. STATE NEWS,

EUSTON'S BENEVOLENCE.

A Donation of Half a Million for the Support of the Worthy Poor.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 8.—Mayor Courtenay announced to the city council to-night the settlement of the interest of the city in the estate of William Euston, who died here in 1860, leaving property valued at half a million dol Euston, was a native of Canterbury, England, and had contemplated throughout his life the endowment of a charitable institution similar to the well-known hospital for "poor brethren" in his native town.

By his will he gave the whole income of his estate to his widow, Hannah Euston, during her life, subject to the payment of certain bequests and annuities, and upon her death and that of the annuitants the whole estate to go to the city of Charleston to build a hospital for old and infirm persons, excluding lunatics. The necessary qualifications must be poverty, and good, honest character, the object being, in the words of the will, more to make old age comfortable than anything else. About 18 months ago Mayor Courtenay opened negetiations with Mrs. Euston, looking to a settlement that put the city in a position to erect and maintain the hospital at once. Under the settlement which has been made the city has just received two hundred thousand dollars in cash and real estate, which is availa ble at once, and a further sum of two hundred thousand dollars has been ves ted in trustees for the payment of certain annuities. The annual surplus, if any, going to the city, and the capital sum likewise when the last annuity falls in. The management of the whole fund is vested in twelve trustees who will hold office perpetually and serve without compensation, the hospital to be known as "The William Euston Home," and consist, under the terms of the will, of rows of substantial brick cottages.

The city has bought as a site, eight acres of land in the northern part of the city, and in the centre will be placed a bronze statue of Wm. Euston.

The great value of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all diseases of women is demonstrated by every day experience. The writer of this had occasion to step into the principal Pharmacy of a city of 149,000 inhabitants, and on inquiry as to which is the most popular preprietary medicine of the time, was answered, that Mrs Pinkham's Vegetable Compound eccuples a most conspicuous place in the front rank of all remedies of this class.-Journal.
