The Decline of Our Shipping.

New York Times. The special joint committee has a somewhat extensive task upon its hands, but is perhaps not so difficult hands, but is perhaps not so difficult as at first sight it appears to be. Every-body who has taken pains even imper-fectly to obtain the knowledge which the members of the committee are ex-pected to a uire by their three months' study has been brought irresistibly to certain rather obvious conclusions. The decline of ur shipping interests and their failure to recover is no mystery at all. It is imply the inevitable result of certain very definite causes. Leaving aside the well understood events con-nected with the civil war and the cuper-cedure of wood by iron and steel is the c: durs of wood by iron and steel is the chief material in the construction of sea going v sels, the situation is sim-ply this: We have ample supplies of the best material of the kind that enters most largely into ship-building; we have skilled abor equal to the best in the world; we use more and better ma-chinery in the processes of construction than is used elsewhere, and we have, or can have, as much for sea-going vessels to do as any country under the sun; and yet wel put such duties upon the material, that are imported, and such burdens and exactions upon shipping in actual use, and so restrict our commerce by exorbitant tariff charges, that we can neither build ships hor use them in competition with countries whose legislation is more literal. without power to give credit on the sale; a special agent authorized to sell property cannot dispose of it in pay-ment of his own debts, in the opinion of the Sapreme Court of Alabama, in Burks vs. Hubbard, decided at the present term.

Certain fixtures in a store which were necessary to the carrying on of the trade were removed by the tenant, and the landlord brought an action of replevin to recover them. In this case, Kirch vs. Davis, the Supreme Court of Wisconsin, in March, decided that the lixtures could be recovered by an action of replevin.

The partial payment of an undisputed debt after it is due, though it is accepted as a payment in full, is not an accord and satisfaction of the demand; but the acceptance of the promissory note of the debtor, or any other collateral thing, without regard to its value, will be a settlement of the debt, and the recovery thereof will thereby be stopped, in the opinion of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in Mechanics' Bank of Harrisburg vs. Huston, decided in February.

In crossing a railroad track a traveler must be as careful as a prudent man, and in approaching it be must exercise the caution which is ordinarily used by careful men for the protection of their lives; but the mere fact that a traveler on stepping on the track does not look to ascertain if a train is approaching is not conclusive evidence of a want of due caution on his part, in the opinion of the Supreme Judicial Court of Maine, in Plummer vs. Eastern Railroad Company, decided on June 12.

A borrowed money from a firm of bankers doing business as B & Co., and he paid usurious interest upon it. To pay his note he got the money from other persons who had formed a new partnership under the same name, B & Co., and when he was sued upon the note he asked that the usury paid be allowed on the note. In this case, Shafer's Appeal, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in January, decided that A could not set up any equity arising in the first transaction, for the second borrowing was from different parties.

A mortgaged to B his unplanted crop, and when it was grown be converted it to his own use. B sued him for this conversion, Collier vs. Frank, and was defeated. The Supreme Court of Alabama, at the present session, in reviewing the judgment, said: An equitable lien only was in A, and against any one who has notice of it and who has converted the crop to nis own use, he may maintain an action for the injury he has suffered and recover damages, or he may sue for the proceeds of the crop if it has been sold, as for money had and received for him.

The importation of foreign fruits into the United States is a capal; grow-ing business. It is an extensive one already, as shown by the returns of imports. Thus the value of the total quantity received at United States ports for the year ending June 30, 1881, was $12,-344,929. Of this New York received $9,429,969. A large portion of this fruit is green, consisting largely of oranges, lemons, pineapples, bananas, mangoes and grapes. Besides these there are imported shaddocks, sapodillas, avoca-da pears, plantains, etc. The duty on fruits is heavy, in cases ranging as high as 20 per cent. During the year named New York imported about $5,000,000 worth of the varieties of fruit mentioned, and paid $750,000 in duty. The fruit importing business is growing at this port, atthough the risks taken on carcoes decaying are very heavy. West India fruits have generally arrived at New York with 60 or 65 per cent in good order, while Mediterraneau port fruits ave arrived in from 5 to 10 per cent. atter condition. This, the Commercial Bulletin finds, has been due to the extra care taken in packing at the latter points together with more extensive use of steamships, instead of sailing vessels, thus reducing the length of the voyages. Both these advantages, however, are said to be understood by West India shippers, who are gradually availing themselves thereof.

Apply instantly, with a soft rag, mest freely, spirits of hartshorn. The venom of stings being an acid, the alkali nullifies it. Fresh wood ashes, moistened with water and made into a poultice, frequently renewed, is an excellent substitute, or soda or salaratus, all being alkalies. To be on the safe side in case of snake or mad dog bites, drink brandy, whisky, rum or other spirits as free as water, a teacupful or a pint or more, according to the aggravation of the circumstances.

For it. Brunswick county, Va., Nov. 5, 1881. I have been entirely cured of a most textful looking and painful sore on my ankie, by the use of M s. Joe Person's valuable Remedy. It came more than twelve months ago, very mith like a ring worm. I painted it with unc. lodins. It be-came a very paintul and bad looking place, then I commenced to try everything I could think or hear of, until it became so very painful that I could caregely walk. Then I went to the best doc-tor in the whole country for advice, who told me he could care me if I would take to my bed and there remain tor four or five weeks, and if I did not do this pretty soon it could not be cured at all; there reveals for four or nye weeks, and if I did not do this pretty soon it could not be cured at all; the bone would become diseased, and my foot would have to be taken off. Imagine how I feit to be teld that I would have to lose my foot, or to give up all business? Fither of the remedies, wou's have runned me. It is not generally known that the nervous system has a wonderful influence over the skin, but this is a fact known to medical men who have given much of their time to the study of diseases of the skin. No one can have a clear and fair complexion unmixed wih blotches or pimples who is very nervous.

Whatever tends to a healthful condition of the nervous system always beautifies the complexion and removes roughness and dryness of the skin. Some skin diseases are not attended by visible signs on the surface, but an intolerable itching that renders life miserable.

We copy the following deserving and interesting compliment i om the Tribune, which says: "Dr. C. W. Benso New Remedy, 'Skin CURE,' is received by the public with great confidence, and it is regarded as a very generous act on the Doctor's part to make known and prepare for general use his valuable and favorite prescription for the treatment of skin diseases, aiter having devoted almost his onlire life to the study and treatment of nervous and skin di eases, in which he took great delight. He was for a number of years Physician in charge of the Mary and Infirmary on Dermatology and anything from his hands is at once accepted as authority and valuable. The remedy is fully the article to attack the disease, both internally, through the blood, and externally through the absorbents, and is the only reliable and rational mode of treatment. These preparations are only put up for general use after having been used by the Doctor in his private practice for years, with the greatest success, and they fully merit the confidence of all classes of sufferers from skin diseases." This is for sale by all drug-glsts Two bottles, internal and external treat-ment, in one package. Don't be persuaded to take al other. It costs of e dollar.
