A cold or sore throat may not seem to amount to much, and if promptly attended to can easily be cured; but neglect is often followed by consumption or diphtheria. No medicine has ever been discovered which nets so quickly and surely in such cases as PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER. The prompt use of this invaluable remedy has saved thousands of lives.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is not an experiment. It has been before the public for forty years, and is most valued where it is best known.

A few extracts from voluntary testimonials read as follows: PAIN KILLER has been my household remedy for colds for the past twenty-seven years, and have never known it to fail in effecting a cure—L. S. CROCKER, Williamsville, N. Y.
For thirty years I have used PAIN KILLER, and found it a never-failing remedy for colds and sore throat—BARTON SEAMAN.

Have received immediate relief from colds and sore throat, and consider your PAIN KILLER an invaluable remedy.—GEO. B. EVERETT, Dickinson, N. Y. N. Y.

I have just recovered from a very severe cold, which I have had for some time. I could get no relief until I tried your Pain Killer, which relieved me immediately. I will never again be without it.—C. O. Forge, Lowndes, Ga.

Have used Pain Killer in my family for forty years, and have never known it to fail.—Ransom Lewis, Waynesboro, Ga.

I began using Pain Killer in my family twenty-five years ago and have used it ever since, and have found no medicine to take its place.—B. W. Dyer, Druggist, Oneida, N. Y.

For whooping-couch and croup it is the best preparation made. We would not be without it.—A. P. Routs, Liberty Mills, Va.

For twenty-five years I have used Pain Killer for colds and chapped lips, and consider it the best medicine ever oilered.—Geo.Hooper, Wilmington, N. C.

Medicine ever offered.—Geo.Hooper, Wilmington, N. C.

I was suffering severely with bronchitis, and my throat was so inflamed I could scarcely swallow any food. I was advised to try your Pain Killer, and after taking a few doses was completely cured.—T. Wilkinson.

Dr. Walton writes from Coshocton: Your Pain Killer cures diphtheria and sore throat, so alarmingly prevalent here, and has not been known to fail in a single instance. This fact you should make known to the world.

Mrs. Ellen B. Mason writes: My son was taken violently sick with diphtheria, high fever, and cold chills. So many children have died here, I was afraid to eall a physician, and tried your Pain Killer. He was taken on Sunday, and on Wednesday his throat was clear. It was a wonderful cure, and I wish it could be known to the poor mothers who are losing so many children.

For Chills and Fever PAIN KILLER has no equal. It cures when everything else fails. no equal. It cures when everything else fails.

Delays are often dangerous. A bottle of PAIN KILLER in the house is a safeguard that no family should be without.

NEW BOOKS.

JUST FROM THE PRESS.

A Valuable Treatise on Quinine-New and Interesting Book for Married Women -- Noted Magazines for October.

The Action of Sulphate of Quinine. We are indebted to the author, Dr. Otis F. Manson, Professor of Physiology and Pathology in the Medical College of Virginia, for a copy of "A Treatise on the Physiological and Theraputic Action of the Sulphate of Quinine," just published by Messrs. J. B. Lippincott & Co., of Philadelphia. Running through its neatly printed pages with an unprofessional eye we decide at once that Dr. Manson is master of his subject, and that he has given ter of his subject, and that he has given to his profession a work that is both attractive and valuable. In regard to the subject treated, the Doctor says:

"Early in the present century the attention of practical chemists was directed to the analysis of several vegetable remedies, and among these the various species of cinchona were the subject of investigation. Already morphine, strychnine, and veratrine had been discovered, but no satisfactory analysis of cinchona had been made until the year 1820, when MM. Pelletier and Caventou, Parisian chemists, succeeded, after protracted and laborious experiments, in discovering the sali-fiable base, which they termed kinine. Experiments were immediately made with it on animals by M. Magendie, and by MM. Double, Villerme, and Chomel, on patients affected with intermittent fever, and by M. Renauldin in remittents. Its employment became rapidly extended throughout Italy, England, and Germany. "In 1822, Professor Mathias, in thirty-one cases of simple and double-tertian intermittents, effected cures by giving the sulphate of quinine, in quantities of from fifteen to thirty-five grains, in two or three days. This gentleman also reported two cases of remittent; the one cured by bark and the other by the sul-phate of quinine. M. Rossi treated sixty-four persons laboring under intermittents, of different types and species, by means of sulphate of quinine; eight tertians, twenty-nine double-tertians, two quartans, twenty-seven sub-con-tinued, and eight remittents were cured. Fifty patients had no attack istered varied from twelve to seventywas not necessary to go beyond twentyfour grains. M. Tonelli also relates that sixty-five cases of intermittent were cured, with the exception of one, which was in a hopeless state when the remedy was resorted to. Of these, four were quotidian, twenty-two tertian, thirty-one double-tertian, three quartans, two double quartans, two subcontinued, and one remittent. Fortytwo patients never had a return of the paroxysm after the first dose. The quantity given to each varied from twelve to eighteen grains. In 1823, Dr. Giacomazzi, of Brescia, Tommassini, and others also employed it, and found its effects to correspond with those of he bark. In the July number of the Philadelphia Journal of Foreign Medical Science and Literature, (vol. ii. p. 198, 1822) appeared a review of the 'Analyse Chimique des Quinquinas, par MM. Pelletier et Caventou (a Paris. 1821,") and the "Formulaire pour la Preparation et l'Emploi de plusieurs Nouveaux Medicamens, par F. Magendie (a Paris, 1821,") in which the prin-

employment, and effects of the sulphate of quinine were stated. Soon after articles from different sources appeared in the American medical journals, and its use rapidly became general. "The discovery of quinine was hailed by the profession in both hemispheres with enthusiastic delight. The objections to the bark, on account of its bulk, its bitter, nauseous taste, and its liability to produce vomiting and diarrhæa, were now obviated by the substitution of a light powder, which could be administered with facility, and whose ordinary dose at that period could be given in a pill. The distinguished chemists, to whom the profession and humanity itself became so signally indebted, received the plaudits of the civilized world, and must forever be entitled to the gratitude of mankind." Then follows a long dissertation on the action of Quinine, by investigating: 1st. Its action on animals; 2nd. Its effects on man in health, and 3rd. Its effects on the human organism in disease, the book concluding with its "mode of administration."

cipal facts in regard to the discovery,

We cannot conclude better than by saying the book should be in the hands of every well read physician.

The October Century. The Century, which is the new name for Scribner's popular magazine, seems to grow more interesting as it grows in age. The number before us closes the first year of this publication under its new name. Its contents are varied and interesting.

Most noteworthy, perhaps, are the two portraits of Abraham Lincoln, which have never before been published. The larger of these, the frontispiece of the magazine, engraved by Cole, is a fine copy of an ambrotype which was made two days after Lincoln was nominated in 1860. The smaller one is a copy of the last photograph for which Lincoln sat, and was taken on the balcony of the White House six weeks before the President's death. These remarkable portraits enable us to see the great change which was wrought in the features of Lincoln between 1860 and 1865. With the portraits are published letters giving the history of the originals, and a paper entitled "How Lincoln was Nominated," by Frank B. Carpenter, who throws new light on the inside history of that memorable contest.

Other articles of practical or timely country between the Rockies and the Cascade Ranges, including the new wheat-fields of Idaho and Washington; an admirable statement of "The Growth of the United States," by Francis A. Walker, the superintendent of the last census; and an account by Judge Farman, late consul-general at Cairo, of his "Negotiations for the Obelisk," with much that bears on the troubles in Egypt of which the present rebellion is the grand sequel.

The last mentioned paper is illustrated, as also are Robert H. Lamborn's interesting description of "Life in a Mexican Street;" S. G. W. Benjamin's paper on "The Corcoran Gallery of Art;" Charles H. Farnham's description of Quebec, or "The Gibraltar of America;" David C. Barrow, Jr.'s, lively account of "A Georgia Corn-Shucking;" and Charles G. Leland's useful and suggestive paper on "Handwork in Public Schools," a new departure in education which, here, for the first time finds record in the magazine. time, finds record in the magazines.

Short papers of literary interest are, "Some (hitherto unpublished) Letters of Charles Lamb to John Howard Payne," with an introduction by R. S. Chilton, and William P. Andrews's account of "An Inspired Life"—that of Jones Very, the New England poet.

Mr. Howells brings "A Modern Instance" to a close, in chapters that have not been surpassed for dramatic power and interest in the previous chapters of this story, which is accepted as the best he has yet written. Mrs. Burnett fur-ther develops the aim of "Through One Administration," on the side of the lobby, and the short story of the number, entitled "Five Hundred Dollars," is by the author of those remarkable stories "Eli" and "The Village Con

The poems of the number are by the late Sidney Lanier, Mr. Boyesen, Frances Hodgson Burnett, H. C. Bunner, S. M. B. Piatt, Robertson Trowbridge, J P. Irvine, and in "Bric-a-Brac," by J. A. Macon and others. "Topics of the Time" discusses the rising generation at the South, burial reform, and other important questions, and the other editorial departments offer a great variety of interesting criticism and informa-

St. Nicholas for October.

This popular magazine is justly regarded as the ne plus ultra among publications of its class for young people.

The last number of the present volume, shows no diminution in the excellence that has distinguished the previous issues of the year, and is a better augury for the volume to dome than are pages of prospectus. The frontispiece is a faithful reproduction of a drawing by W. T. Smedley, and is called "When we were Boys."

The opening story is by Prof. H. H. Boyesen. It is a quaint Norwegian legend of "The Famine Among the Gnomes," beautifully illustrated by Birch. W. O. Stoddard contributes a short sketch of boy-life, with the old title "Radishville," and Mr. Birch's cleverage in play against a short sketch. er pencil comes in play again to illustrate Miss Burnham's verses "A Realized Hope." Maurice Thompson tells in an interesting way, of the Carolina Sap-sucker, and Charles Barnard has a capital paper descriptive of a New York Riding School, with six spirited pictures by Kelly.

Frank R. Stockton contributes one of his characteristic fairy tales, entitled "The Sisters Three and the Kilmaree," and also writes the Very Little Folks' story, for which Addie Ledyard has drawn four pretty illustrations. "A Story of a Very Naughty Girl; or, My Visit to Mary Law," Visit to Mary Jane," is a natural and amusing confession from the pen of 'Lisbeth Hall. "The Captain of the Orient Base-ball Nine" is a manly story for boys, by an author who shows that he not only knows how to write a good story, but can play ball as well.

"Donald and Dorothy," Mrs. Dodge's entertaining serial story, is brought to a happy conclusion; exactly what it is the girls and boys must find out for themselves.

Among the many other attractions, are: a bright play for young folks, by after the first dose; seven had them in a slight degree. The quantity admintwo grains, but in twenty-four cases it | kerchief," in which he shows that | great resources for home amusement lie concealed in the folds of those necessary luxuries; some more "Art and Artist Stories" beautiful pictures by F. H. Lungren; funny pictures by L. Hopkins, and a great deal else.

The North American Review. The North American Review for Oc tober opens with an article on "The Coming Revolution in England," by H. M. Hyndman, the English radical leader, giving an instructive account of the agitation now going on among the English working classes for a reconstruction of the whole politico-social fabric of that country. O. B. Frothingham writes of "The Objectionable in Literature," and endeavors to point out the distinction between literature which is per se corrupting, and that which is simply coarse. Dr. Henry Schliemann tells the interesting story of one year's "Discoveries at Troy." Senator John I. Mitchell, of Pensylvania, treats of the rise and progress of the rule of "Political Bosses." Prof. George L. Vose, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, contributes an article of excentional value on "Safety in Railway Travel;" and Prof. Charles S Sargent, of the Harvard College Arboretum, contributes an instructive essay on "The Protection of Forests." The Review is sold by booksellers and newsdealers generally. What Women Should Know. This is a new work just issued by the Fireside Publishing Company of Philadelphia, edited by Mrs. E. B. Duffey. It is "a woman's book about women, containing practical information for wives and mothers. It is dedicated to the "wives and mothers of America, in the hope that it may enlighten them when ignorant, cheer them when despondent, and encourage them to endure bravely and wisely the trials incident to their sex; and that it may especially aid and inspire them to become truer and nobler women, physically, mentally and morally, and more worthy representatives of the age in which we live." Mrs. Duffey, in the preface, and all modern books have a preface, says: "If any turn to this book with motives other than pure and honest ones, I hope they will not discover the mistake they have made in thinking to gratify an evil curiosity until they have read far enough to find something especially suited to them, the reading of which will do them good." In its pages are treated the "physical and mental differences in the sexes:" "Love in its physical and moral phases;" when and whom shall women marry;" "Courtship and engagement; "Marriage and the family:" "The moral responsibilities of motherhood," &c., "Courtship and engagement; with many suggestions and recommendations in regard to the "Sick room" and the general diseases peculiar to
