I was suffering severely with bronchitis, and my throat was so infiamed I could scarcely swallow any food. I was advised to try your Pain Killer, and after taking a few doses was completely cured.—T. Wilkinson.

Dr. Walton writes from Coshocton: Your Pain Killer, cured diphtheria and sore throat, so alarmingly prevalent here, and has not been known to fail in a single instance. This fact you should make known to the world.

Mrs. Ellen B. Mason writes: My son was taken violently sick with diphtheria, high fever, and cold chills. So many children have died here, I was afraid to call a physician, and tried your Pain Killer. He was taken on Sunday, and on Wednesday his throat was clear. It was a wonderful cure, and I wish it could be known to the poor mothers who are losing so many children.

A Mistake! Anson Times.

It has come to our ears that some persons think Col. Bennett "is opposed to the Homestead law." This is a mistake. And while, when elected to the the office of Congressman from the State at large, Col. Bennett will have nothing on earth to do with the Homestead and could not injure it, if he would, still we think it right and proper to correct an error like this, which may have been started by his enemies, to keep some from voting for him.

Col. Bennett was in the Legislature of the State in 1872 and '73 and while a member of that body introduced a bill to enlarge that Homestead. It will be remembered that originally the homestead was only good during the life of the debtor. The bill of Col. Bennett aimed at increasing this to a fee simple. But for some reason the Legislature failed to pass the bill, and the homestead stood as it was until the session of 1876 and "77, when a bill was introduced, (which embodied the main features of the one introduced previously by Col. Bennett,) which was passed, and the homestead became good for all

In view of these facts it is a little strange that Col. Bennett should be regarded as hostile to any body's homestead. He is the last man to excuse any one for failing to pay honest debts. At the same time he recognizes the wisdom of that law that often times protects the innocent wife and children from the consequences of a husband's extravagance, and that sometimes relieves against the pittiless storms of misfort-

Bichmond State. We are not a reading people by any means. A few evenings since a young man in company with a dozen persons of both sexes, and all intelligent people, happened to remark that the Christiancy divorce case was ended at last, when, to his surprise, several of them inquired what he meant, and said they had never heard of the matter at all. He then tried them with the Egyptian war, and found two or three who didn't know that there had been any war in Egypt; whereupon our informant very much doubted if some of them had ever heard of the Confederate war. No wonder the newspapers are not better supported.

Eddy was born a slave in Virginia on March 15, 1798, and came to Pennsylvania with his parents when a boy, and learned the tonsoral art at Cannonsville. When 20 years of age he embraced religion and became a member of the itinerancy of colored clergyman through the aid of Bishop Allen, a colored minister of some distinction in this city in those days. He became a Deacon and then an Elder over eight churches, traveling the circuit from Elizabeth to Mount Holly, N. J. He married Bishop Allen's daughter, and settled down to a local position in Columbia, Pa, where he preached and shaved for several years, and then drifted back to Philadelphia. The skeleton in his home was his wife's frailty, and, becoming convinced of her infidelity, Eddy sued for a divorce and obtained it.
