THE OHIO ELECTION.

A Large Vote and Much Scratching. CINCINNATI, October 10.—The weather is pleasant and the election proceeding quietly. Returns already in show the vote to be very large. So much scratching is being done that counting the votes which begins after 6 p m, will be very tedious. The sky at noon is overcast and there is a prospect of rain. The vote continues heavy. The Republicans claim that the disaffection among the Germans is much less than was supposed, and that it will chiefly affect only the State ticket.

Railroad Collision. FULTON, KY., Oct. 10.-The north bound 2 o'clock passenger train on the Chesapeake & Ohio and South Western Railroad ran into the north bound passenger train on the Chicago, St Louis & New Orleans railway at this place yesterday afternoon, smashing one coach and one Pullman sleeper. The Chesa-peake & Ohio and South Western engine was thrown from the track and completely wrecked; no one killed. The engineer of the first named train claims that his flagman was on the crossing first, and the accident was no fault of

The Postoffice Department Self-Sup-

Baltimore Sun. The net income of the postoffice department for the year ended June 30, 1882. was about $1,500,000, the receipts exceeding expenditures by that amount. Excess of expenditure over income was rare from 1790 to 1838. After the latter date the wider extension of the mail service over sparsely-settled territory made deficiencies not uncommon, and the reduction from time to time of the rates of postage had the effect at length of making a deficiency the rule rather than the exception. From 1816 to 1845 a letter carried not over 30 miles paid 614 cents; carried over 80 and under 150 miles it paid 121/2 cents, and if the letter weighed as much as an ounce four times these rates were charged. The rates, it will be observed, were closely proportioned to the weight of the mail matter and the distance it was carried, the idea of a uniform rate not being approved at that time as a practicable one. In 1851 the 3 cent rate was reached for distances less than 3,000 miles, and in 1803 the limitation for distance was abolished, and the rate was made uniform. Under this system deficiencies were a matter of course that of 1860 amounting to $10,500,000. Owing to the restriction of the service during the civil war to the densely populated Northern States, it became again self-supporting, and in 1863 there was a surplus of $2,800,000. After the war deficiencies again became the rule, and have continued up to the present year, diminishing, however, from year to year as the country became more thickly settled. The immediate cause of the surplus reported was the detection of the famous star-route knaveries. It was estimated that the service needed for the year just past $8,200,000; its actual cost was $5,900,000. Now that the department is making money, it no longer has any tolerable reason to offer for the bad state of the service in Virginia and other sections of the South.

The Sun has often had occasion to complain, in the first place, that for want of sufficiently liberal compensation to the railroads out of Baltimore, as well as from the lack of local interest on their part in arranging schedules this city's mails are unreasonably delayed; in the second place, that such persons are in many cases employed for postmasters and post agents in parts of the South that the ordinary duties of the postoffices are not decently per-

It is understood here that nothing more will ever be heard of the Morey letter business, and that the recent boom on that subject sent out from New York is Mr. Dayenport's last effort. It is said he has expended of other people's money about $30,000 investigating the Morey letter mystery, and that it is more of a mystery now than when he began to unravel it. Finding that no one would advance any more money to continue the investigation, the whole thing is ended with a flourish of trumpets and insinuations in regard to the bottom facts and what they will show if further developed. The best politicians of the Republican party in both branches of Congress took even stronger grounds on the Chinese question when that subject was under debate in Congress last spring than were taken in the Morey letter. This was notably the case in the speech of Judge Taylor, Garfield's successor in the House. The general tenor of the speech of the advanced Republicans was that if Garfield did not write the Morey letter he should have written it. There were few in the debate who endeavored to show that Garfield did not write the letter in question, Page, of California, being the only Republican who spoke of the Morey letter as a forgery. There are a great many more persons who now believe that Garfield wrote the letter than there were during the excitement on the subject. All are well satisfied in regard to one thing. however, and that is that investigations do not always investigate, and that if an investigation was made into the expenditure of the money in connection with the Davenport investigation, it would be even more interesting than the Morey letter business itself, which was so full of sensation in a political

THE IRISH LAND-LEAGUE.

Patrick Ford Says it Does Not Exist ... The Skirmish Fund Disbursements. New York, October 8.- Mr. Patrick Ford, editor of the Irish World, New York, on Friday last sent by cable a draft to Patrick Egan, treasurer of the land-league, at Paris, for $17,42481.

Mr. Ford says this is the last remittance and the fund has closed because "there is no longer a land-league in existence." This declaration has caused much commotion in land-league circles. Dr. Wallace, president of the national league, says he does not think this action of Mr. Ford will cause the dissolution of the land league organizations of which he (Wallace) is president. The matter was discussed at the meeting of branch No. 1 of the league at Buffalo to-night. A motion of confidence in the league was proposed, but it was withdrawn to await advices from Ireland. Mr. A. M. Sullivan is expected to deliver an address in Buffalo on Satura deliver an address in Buffalo on Saturday, and his views as to the status of the land league will be solicited. Branch No. 1 resolved to send $1,000 to Father Walsh, the treasurer of the national league.

The investigating committee of the Fenian skirmishing fund made its report to-day to the subscribers. They say they discovered that the alleged forged check given dy O'Donovan Rossa to Mr. Breslin was neither forged nor dishonored, and that when drawn there were sufficient funds in the bank to meet it, but these funds had been attached by the sheriff. On September 26, 1876, there was $1,200 in the Bowery National Bank, which on October 5th was attached by Kelly and McCrea. October 9th the bank paid Kelly & Mc-Crea's claim for $141.65, with costs, leaving over $1,000 from which the check would have been paid after Octo-

9th, as Rossa's account was good until July, 1877. In relation to the $2,030.90 expended on John Mahoney's funeral they find it was drawn by Rossa as president of the Brotherhood, on Breslin. Rossa said that when the Fenians sent delegates to Ireland with the remains, John Devoy asked that a similar honor be extended to the Clan-na-Gael. Each society asked for $1,000 from the skirmishing fund, the Fenian Brotherhood guaranteeing one loan and Devoy the other. Checks were given, but some members of the Brotherhood were ready to swear that the organization never received more than $150 of the amount. A member of the meeting said enough evidence had been produc ed to send the trustees to State prison and that threats had been made against him and others of the committee that they would be laid out if they attended to-day's meeting. The committee said further that they were in possession of an itemized account of all the alleged expenditures, five of which items purport to explain away $30,000. One of these was for the twelve thousand dollar Ford loan. The entire five were false. A resolution was adopted declaring that the Irish World had done a noble thing in closing its columns to that latest delusion, the land league"

The committee's investigation is not vet finished. Gen. Butler Accepts. Boston, Oct. 7.—Gen. Butler, in his letter to the Democratic committee. says that he had not desired to be a candidate, and continues: "After a conference with my friends and clients, and waiving all considerations of personal sacrifice, I think it my duty to accept the very high honor and the opportunity to do great service which the convention has tendered me. I fully concur in the declaration of principles and measures in the resolutions of the convention. They seem to me to enunciate the principles of the Democracy of Jefferson, Madison and Jackson. While I do sometimes change relations with those with whom I act politically. am not conscious of ever having changed the principles upon which have acted, save as I have learned to discard errors by riper judgment and instructed conscience. All the issues of national politics of which the war was the result, or which grew out of it, and the adjustment of its consequences have now, or ought to have, passed

Gen. Butler discusses at length the leading issues before the people. Of the tariff and other taxation the General says: "Theoretically free trade-that is, buying what you need cheapest and selling what you have dearest every where-would be true statesmanship in a country so situated that it migh be carried out, but with the United States that is impossible. So large a sum for many years longer than man's life will be required to be raised by the customs revenue that all needed protection to American labor can be given to it within the limits of a tariff raised solely to meet the wants of the govern-ment. * * * In raising such a revenue there thould be no tax whatever upon the necessaries of life, including in that term everything used by our whole people for their support, comfort and necessities."

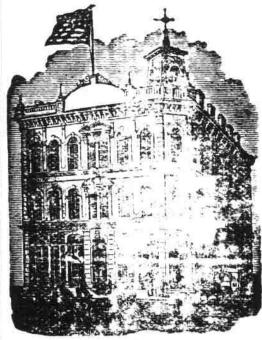

Gen. Butler says in accepting the labor nomination: "I can congratulate your convention that hereafter you may well lay aside the word 'greenback' as a designation of your party, unless you keep it in remembrance of the fact that you took it upon you when conferred by your enemies as a title of reproach. In behalf of the 'greenback' or legal-tender note your labors are done, and the mission of your party is as completely fulfilled as is the mission of the Republican party, which was the abolition of slav-ery. The 'greenback' is now the money of the United States, and is the equal of gold and silver."

Where to Get Intoxicated. Tom Corwin once advised a friend as follows: "Is it not singular that one never realizes the pernicious effect of hot rooms, wines and viands until one encounters the pure air of heaven? I left the room as sober as a Justice of the Supreme Court. I got a whiff of pure air, and I am affected by it. A man, my boy, never feels so much like moralizing as after an indulgence, when his stomach is full of good food and his veins are fired with generous wines. This drinking is a vile thing. It is an iudulgence that gives less pleasure and is followed by a heavier penalty than any other poor, fallen nature is subject. Take away the lights, the laughter, the flowers and the food, the flow of wit and flashes of thought, and what can we credit to the wine?-a sense of having made a beast of one's self, punctuated with a headache. Take my advice, my boy, and never get drunk. There is no good in it, but much evil It fills our jails, poor houses and shame-less graves. It feeds the gallows, and beggars wives and children. Never drink; but if you do-now mark my advice and take it to your memory as something precious from a friend-if you must get drunk, get drunk among gentlemen. You will have a headache all the same, but you will retain your self-respect.
