A cold or sore throat may not seem to amount to much, and if promptly attended to can easily be cured; but neglect is often PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER. The prompt use of this invaluable remedy has saved thousands of lives.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is not an experiment. It has been before the public for forty years, and is most valued where it is best known.

A few satracts from voluntary testimonials read a follows:

I was suffering severely with bronchitis, and my throat was so inflamed I could scarcely swallow any food. I was advised to try your Pain Killer, and after taking a few doses was completely cured.—T. WILKINSON.

Dr. Walton writes from Coshocton: Your Pain Killer cures diphtheria and sore throat, so alarmingly prevalent here, and has not been known to fall in a single instance. This fact you should make known to the world.

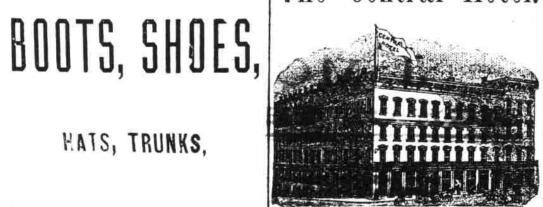

Mrs. Ellen B. Mason writes: My son was taken violently sick with diphtheria, high fever, and cold chills. So many children have died here, I was afraid to eall a physician, and tried your Pain Killer. He was taken on Sunday, and on Wednesday his throat was clear. It was a wonderful cure, and I wish it could be known to the poor mothers who are losing so many children.

CLINGMAN ANSWFRED. Gen. Vance Replies to the Charges of Despotic Legislation, &c., by the Coalition Leaders. Gen. Vance publishes a letter in the Asheville Citizen, in reply to a published letter of Gen. Clingman, in which it was charged that Gen. Vance, at Henderson, refused to answer certain questions in reference to revenue laws enacted, when the Democrats had a majority in Congress, We quote as much of the letter as bears upon the case in point, as follows:

case in point, as follows:

At Hendersonville I told Gen. Clingman shat the act of the Forty-fifth Congress was only amendatory of the Revised Statutes, section 3,332. That section provides for the destruction of "a stills, doubler, worm, worm tub, all mash tubs and fermenting tubs," so as to prevent the use of the same for purposes of distilling, the same "baying a poses of distilling, the same "having a registered producing capacity of less than one hundred and fifty gallons per

See Revised Statutes, section 3,332. The act of 1st March, 1879, provides

"And in case of seizure" (as above provided for under the old law) "where said apparatus shall be of less value than $500, and where it is impracticable to remove the same to a place of safe storage, the seizing officer is authorized to destroy the same only so far as to prevent the use thereof, or any part thereof for purposes of distilling. See supplement to the Revised Statutes, page 436, Act March, 1879, Forty-fifth Congress.

Then follows a proviso: 'Provided, That such destruction shall be in the presence of at least one credible witness, who shall unite with the officer in an oath or duly sworn report of said seizure and destruction, in which they shall set forth the grounds upon which such seizure and destruction were made, the value, &c., and that from facts within their own knowledge they had no doubt but that the distillery was set up for use, and not registered, or that it had been unlawfully used for distilling purposes, and that it was impracticable to remove the same to a place of safe storage." Then follows a provision that the owner of said distillery may apply for reimbursement of the value of the still and apparatus destroyed, and if he can show that the destruction was unjust, and had not been unlawfully used as set forth, the value was to be refunded to the owner, or if the still was used without his knowledge he was to be reimbursed. Then was added: "And in case of wrongful seizure and destruction of property," as set forth, "the owner shall have right of action on the official bond of the officer who occasioned the destruction, for all the damages caused thereby." See supplement to the Revised Statutes, page 435-7, Act 1, March, 1879, 45th Congress. Now if this act had not been passed, under the 3,332 section of the Revised Statutes, a still could be destroyed without remedy by night or day, as the law authorized the officer to break the locks. doors and walls of a distillery at any hour of the night. Nobody knows all this better than Gen. Clingman. If he does not, he ought to be careful in making charges. As to spies and informers. will state that the law required the Congress to appropriate money to aid the Secretary in executing the internal revenue laws, and in pursuance of law. the Democratic committee on appropriations of the 46th Congress, put in the appropriation bill the sum of $75, 000 (not $300,000 as stated by General Clingman) not for spies and informers as stated by him,) but as follows: "For detecting, and bringing to trial and punishment, persons guilty of vio-lating the internal revenue laws, or accessory to the same, including payments for information and detection. seventy five thousand dollars, and the commissioner of internal revenue shall make a detailed statement to Congress once in each year as to how he has expended this sum; and also a detailed statement of all miscellaneous expenditures in the division of internal revenue for which appropriation is made in this act." See Acts, 46th Congress, page I suppose that the General has in his mind the old law beginning with 1868 under Grant's wild extravagant reign and when informers were paid $300 in case of conviction in these liquor cases. Such was the infamous practice for a time in this district. But never under Democratic rule has this thing been sanctioned. The uprising of the people in 1865 was so great that this practice was abandoned, knowing that a Democratic House would never pay such an expenditure, if discovered. But at a previous Congress the Democrats led by the lamented B. H. Hill, of Georgia, made a vigorous attack on the appropriation bill which sought to give authority for the use of money in this way. Mr. Hill and myself, and I believe Mr. W. M. Robbins, fought this provision with all possible zeal. I made a speech against this identical item of which General C. speaks, and my remarks were copied with approval in several of the papers of the State. To all this argument the Republicans replied that the secretary of the treasury had estimated for it and could not do without it. I voted of course for the act of 1st of March, 1879, as the bill contained a clause reducing the tax on tobacco and other reductions amounting to a great relief to the people. But if the General means that I voted for a law authorizing spies and informers I pronounce it absolutely Sec. 9 of the act of March 1st, 1879, (45th Congress) provided that the officer might arrest the party caught in the very act of running an illicit distilery, and then take him before a United States Commissioner for trial. Believing, however, that it might be abused I voted against it. Yet, Gen'l. Clingofficers whose duty is to enforce any same as before. criminal law, that if the offense is being committed in the presence of the officer that it is his duty to arrest the party and have the matter investigated before the proper committing court. quarters that officers were authorized to arrest without warrant, is calculated to made a false impression. No such law was ever passed, not even by the Republicans except at the very time of the act in the officers presence This is done every day by Sheriffs, Constables and Town Marshalls.

A man who violates the law in the presence and hearing of the officers in Asheville and other incorporated town is taken before the Mayor without war-

I have too much confidence in the judgment and integrity of the people to believe that such "stuff" as this will influence them. General Clingman knows that the Democrats in the 44th Congress actually forced an extra session of Congress in their repeated efforts to modify the laws, especially in reference to the payment of marshals for services in meddling in the elections? Does he not know that this ex-tra session probably lost the house to the Democrats, yet they did it in the effort to repeal the very laws substantially, of which he complains?

Why my countrymen the Democratic party for doing this was denounced by the Republican leaders as obstructing legislation-and that it was actual rebellion. Does he not know that Hayes vetoed these bills? The idea of my voto make the law more stringent sounds strange to me, when I remember the struggles for years to modify and at least make these laws less despotic. The very act of which Gen. C. complains in reference to the destruction | plaints." (Take no other.) Of druggists.

of stills was an amendment great favor to the unfortunate offender. Under the old law the property was absolutely forfeited by the owner and no provision for compensation: by this amendment he is entitled to pay for his property if wrongfully destroyed; his property if wrongfully destroyed; then the officer has no right to destroy the still except when impractical to remove to some place of safety for storage; then again this destruction must be in the presence of a credible witness, who must make oath to the facts justifying the destruction; and still again the officer is liable with his securities on his official bond for all damage. Then again the Revenue Law was amended giving the Judge discretion to fine as in small misdemeanors instead of the original bloody law making imprisonment imperative on the court. Does not Gen. Clingman know that after a terrible struggle the Democratic Congress reduced the tax on Manufac-tured tobacco? Does he not know that almost every Democrat from the South has continuously and persistingly advocated and urged amendments and absolute repeal of the Internal Revenue Law? The country knows what a short time the Democrats had both Houses, and then the President standing with his veto as Hayes did time and again?

A Doubtful Story.

Several New York papers publish the following dispatch, dated Estillville, Va., October 16th: "This evening John Burns, of Scott county went to see Miss Rebecca Turner, with whom he was in love. He had been drinking, and it is supposed that he was slightly under the influence of liquor at the time. He had a revolver in his vest pocket. Miss Turner happened to let her handkerchief fall upon the floor and Burns gal-lantly stooped to pick it up. Being unsteady in his movements the pistol dropped from his pocket, and striking the floor exploded, The ball struck him just above the right nipple and passing in the region of the heart made a wound from which he died in a few minutes. Miss Turner hastily raised the bleeding form of her lover to the sofa and started to run for a physician, but he called her back, saying he was conscious, and that he could live but a few minutes only. He asked her to put her arms about his neck. The weeping girl did so, and Burns breathed his last in her arms, telling her that was the way he had wished to die. When the members of her family, attracted by a piercing shriek, hastened to the room they found Burns dead on the sofa and Miss Turner lying in a swoon over his body, her face and hands bathed in the blood which flowed from his wound.'

One of the Blessings of Civilization.

Pall Mall Gazette. The march of progress seems to tell terribly on the teeth, for what other cause there can be for the pre eminently disastrous condition of the molars of young America it is difficult to imagine. There are at present twelve large fac-tories for the production of artificial teeth in the United States, turning out 10,000,000 teeth a year, while the consumption of gold used in stopping cavities in the natural teeth of America amounts in value to $500,000, and is one of the chief facts that is alarming M. Cernuschi and the bimetalists, as it bears a very large proportion to the annual production of that metal. The present dearth of ivory may perhaps be traced partly to the American demand for molars and grinders, and the ships of Jonathan seem to be as busy in exporting gold and ivory from Europe as those of King Solomon were from Tarsnish, though history, which only narrates the toothaches of princes, is silent as to whether this evil was prevalent among his subjects about that time. It is an ill wind, however, that blows nobody good, and the American dentist, like the German oculist, flourishes on the physical failures of his country-

An Eventful Life-Story.

Seldom is there recorded a more eventful life-story than that of Sharbeck de Malczewski. whose death at the age of 100 years has just been announced in Warsaw. He entered the Prussian army in his youth and was made a prisoner by the French at Jena. when he at once changed his flag, joined Dombrowski's corps, and fought so well at Eylau as to receive a high decoration at the close of the battle. At Hanau he was badly wounded. He accompanied Bonaparte to Elba, and came away from there with him, going to Italy as orderly officer to King Joachim Murat. At Gaeta the English captured him and handed him over to the Austrians, from whom he escaped in time to join Bonaparte at Waterloo, where he was again seriously wounded. Under the Czar's proclamation of amnesty he went back to Poland, entered the Russian army and rose to a high rank, but when the Polish insurrection of 1830 broke out he joined it, fought desperately, was wounded, captured and sent to Siberia for life. After spending half a century in penal exile he was pardoned and returned to his native city to die.

----Southern Railroad Earnings.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—The Rich mond and Danville road will show gross earnings of about $3,650,000 for the year, and a net surplus, after paying all fixed charges, rentals, and interest of

The Virginia Midland had last year net revenue of $335,652. Please Let Us Stay in.

Democratic success in this country threatens the summary removal of 100. 000 employees who have had special preparation for the work in which they are engaged, and the substitution of 100,000 inexperienced persons who will bring no higher qualification to their responsibilities than the service they have performed in running primaries or packing conventions. The Republican party must needs make some very grave error to induce the American people to risk the consequences of such a change. If the civil service of the United States were established upon a permanent business basis, assuring tenure of office during good behavior, promotion for merit and the filling of vacancies upon a test of fitness, the pros-pect of Democratic triumph would be less alarming and more probable. Horsford's Acid Phosphate In Constipation. Dr. J. N. Bobinson, Medina, O., says: "I have used it in a case of indigestion and constipation, with good results. In nervous prostration its re-
