amount to much, and if promptly attended to can easily be cured; but neglect is often to can easily be cured; but neglect is often followed by consumption or diphtheria. No medicine has ever been discovered which acts so quickly and surely in such cases as PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER. The prompt use of this invaluable remedy has saved thousands of lives.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is not an experiment. It has been before the public for forty years, and is most valued where it is best known.

A few extracts from voluntary testimonials read as follows:

PAIN KILLER has been my household remedy for colds for the past twenty-seven years, and have never known it to fail in effecting a cure.—

For thirty years I have used PAIN KILLER, and found it a never-failing remedy for colds and sore throat.—BARTON SEAMAN.

I was suffering severely with bronchitis, and my throat was so inflamed I could scarcely swallow any food. I was advised to try your Pain Killer, and after taking a few doses was completely cured.—T, Wilkinson.

Dr. Walton writes from Coshocton: Your Pain Killer cures diphtheria and sore throat, so alarmingly prevalent here, and has not been known to fall in a single instance. This fact you should make known to the world.

Mrs. Ellen B. Mason writes: My son was taken violently sick with diphtheria, high fever, and cold chills. So many children have died here, I was afraid to call a physician, and tried your Pain Killer. He was taken on Sunday, and on Wednesday his throat was clear. It was a wonderful cure, and I wish it could be known to the poor mothers who are losing so many children.

For Chills and Fever Pain Killer has no equal. It cures when everything else falls. Delays are often dangerous. A bottle of Pain Killer in the house is a safeguard that no family should be without.

All druggists sell it at 25c., 50c., and $1.00 per bottle.

THE JEANNETTE EXPEDITION.

Serious Charges Against DeLong and MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Nov. 3.—The Tribune has a report of an interview with Dr. D. F. Collins, brother of the late Jerome F. Collins, Scientist of the Jeannette Expedition. Dr. Collins says: We have evidence that DeLong used his official position as commander of the expedition to persecute, in every ever. This Lieut. Danenhower admitted to me. DeLong refused to allow my brother at certain times to do any kind of work, and purposely allowed all notes, photographs and records of the expedition, prepared by my brother, to sink. We have evidence that the cap tain forced him to remain behind when he volunteered to go ahead with Nin-derman and Noros to search for relief, my brother being in the best condition of any member of the party to do so. We have evidence that Bartlett now in Siberia, one of the seamen, is in possession of valuable facts, but we believe he has been kept in Siberia purposely, by officers of the expedition, so that his testimony may not get before the board. We are also in possession of full information that on Melville finding the bodies of the DeLong party, he used the most blasphemous and scandalous language concerning my brother's body. We also have reason for believing that the reports made by Melville as to the condition of the weather, which he alleged prevented him from going to the relief of DeLong's party, were false, for on the dates on which he declared the weather bad it has been shown to have been good. Dr. Collins further asserts that jealousy existed between certain officers of the expedition, the troubles first beginning, as he learns, over an order to the effect that all the men should undergo physical examination. Neither Markley, Collins nor Danenhower were permitted to assist in the retreat. Dr. Collins adds: We happen to know that Kusmah requested Mel-ville to go to DeLong's relief himself,or send some one, and Melville would do neither. He first gave an order to Danenhower to go and then counteracted it. Kusman and Shagra were 15 days in making the round trip to Belum from the spot where Melville's party was. Two days each way was ample time for the journey. During the trip these men got drunk, and Melville knew it. While they were gone in search of DeLong, Melville, and those with him, made chess-men and checker boards, and amused themselves, leaving the work of searching for their companions to two ignorant and drunken natives. We have reasonable grounds for being certain that there was a considerable amount of intexicants drank during the fifteen days they waited for the return of the two natives. We know, from conversations with surviving members of the expedition, that certain letters and papers which we believe were on my brother's person, have never been produced. We want to know what has been done with these papers. If Melville had gone with the natives as he ought to have done, no doubt De Long and his party would have been saved.

He would have seen the beacon fires that had been lighted, as stated in De Long's journal, which was found, even if he had started out when Kusmah and Shogra were over due, therefore make the charge, that had Melville done his duty instead of spending his time in playing chess and checkers, De Long and his party would not have died. Melville left them there to die and he is responsible for their deaths. Dr. Collins will lay his statement with documentary evidence before Congress.

> Cotton Weather and Highwaymen in Texas. GALVESTON, Tex., Nov. 3.-A News'

Dallas special says: Bradstreet's reports for the week ending to day from all northern and central counties show that it has been a week of fine weather for the maturing and picking of cotton and $1 and 1.25 per hundred is offered for picking. Hands are scarce.

No fewer than five farmers returning home from selling their cotton have been robbed by highwaymen at the point of the pistol.

Death of a California Publisher. NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—A dispatch from Napa City, California, announces the death at his residence near that city of James W. Simonton, one of the proprietors of the San Francisco Bulletin and San Francisco Morning Call, and late general agent of the New York Associated Press. He died of heart disease last evening.

Bee-Keeping for Profit.

From the New York Tribune. The North American Beekeepers' Association recently held their third annual convention in Cincinnati. Beekeeping is not only a trade, it is a hobby like silk culture or beet sugar making, and the members of the society, as we gather from the reports, come up not only for business but for a certain enthusiastic encouraging of each other pleasant to them, and likely to have a wholesome effect on the public. Beekeeping is one of the industries which Americans have neglected because its profits are comparatively small and steady. It is the risky business by which a man jumps into a great success or great failure, that is popular. There are a few large beekeepers in the country whose honey is found in all the home markets and is exported to England; but the great supply comes from those who make the business supplemental to farming, and it is this class of small farmers who should give more attention to the matter than they have hitherto done. In old times every garden in town and country had its hive, which was usually allowed to stand uncleaned and unattended to until the bees died of cold or foul air. Beekeeping requires little work compared with any other occupation, but that work must be thoroughly and faithfully performed at regular seasons. A lad or active woman can take care of one hundred colonies, but they will require hard and constant work through three summer months, and there must be no shirking. The profits of a single hive of healthy Italian bees average from $15 to $20 in the | Gath. first year, and the increase of another hive. It is not too sanguine reckoning, therefore, to set down $1,500 in a very good season as the clear gain from 100 colonies, which for the labor of one person for three months of the year is at least a fair profit on the outlay. The large beekeepers usually farm out their colonies; that is, place about twenty in each farm which offers the proper food for them, pay for the attention which they require, and at stated times go about collecting the honey. The supply of fine honey never equals the demand in the markets of our large cities, and since the problem was solved of shipping the combs from this port and landing them in Liverpool unbroken, the supply required for Europe is simply said to command a higher price in London than the Greek. Here is one of the many industries by which farmers' daughters in the country could earn a comfortable support and remain at home. But as a rule they prefer to half starve as teachers in city public schools, or shop girls in crowded retail houses of the lowest grade, to any healthful outdoor work In the pure air of the country.

FROM WASHINGTON.

How the Clerks are Employed -- Making Supervisors and Deputy Marshals of Department Clerks to Serve on Flection Day -- Continued Assessment of Women Clerks.

Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—A publication is made here this evening to the effect that hundreds of department clerks will be appointed as supervisors and deputy marshals at the congressional elections in various States on Tuesday next, 250 being put down as the number from the Treasury Department alone who will receive such appointments. conceivable way, some of the members of the commission. My brother was placed under arrest for no reason whatever. This Lieut. Danenhower admitters and present if the congressional elections on Tuesday, and prevent if possible the return of a Democratic majority. All hope has been abandoned of staying the tide of public sentiment in the North and West, and the South is now looked to as the field from which to gather recruits to offset the losses elsewhere, and the Republican managers have been in the last few days very bold in claiming that they will make up in the South what they lose in the North. Mahone has promised to give them seven votes from Virginia, From North Carolina they say they are to have five, and in nearly every other Southern State their calculations are to gain one or two, or more. To help this out the understanding is that hordes of deputy marshals selected from this point are to be placed in the remote and sparsely settled counties and in heavy colored settlements. North Carolina, where five Re publicans are hoped for, is to be particularly looked after in this connection, but department clerks are not the kind of material which will be entirely availed of. Roughs, strikers and repeaters from this place and from Baltimore will be appointed for this service, whose mission will be to defeat the popular will. The Legislature to be elected in North Carolina will have the election of a United States Senator in place of Mr. Ransom, and a part of the plot is to capture that body and secure a Republican Senator, to make up a possible loss elsewhere. In order to counteract this plot as far as possible, it will be advised from here that the county commissioners in North Carolina provide such separation of the congressional boxes and of those for the reception of ballots for State officers as prevent any tampering, at least with the latter, by the imported roughs SENDING CLERKS HOME. The Republican State committee of Pennsylvania are using every effort to get the Pennsylvania veters who are residents of this city to go home to vote. To such as cannot be induced to go home in any other way they to-day distributed round-trip railroad tickets. They also, at the request of the Pennsylvania Republican Club, of this city have given tickets to all government employes who receive less than $1,000 per annum, including the folders at the capitol from that State. Some of the Republican committees of the Western States, in view of the fact that the clerks have been already assessed quite heavily, have made an arrangement by which they pay 20 per cent. of the rail-road fares. The departments were scoured to day for New York voters. Tickets will be given those who say they are not able to bear the expenses of the trip. HOW WOMEN CLERKS ARE TAXED. It is claimed by certain Republican eaders that no attempt has been made to compel the female government employes to contribute to the campaign funds. If money has not been extorted from them they are obliged to do additional work while the male clerks are away voting. There are many female employes who would prefer to have a moderate sum deducted from their salary for election purposes than be compelled to do a man's work in addition to their own, regardless of the time it occupies. A lady clerk in the office of the commissioner of internal revenue recently sent $25 to the New York Republican State committee. The money was re-turned to her with a letter thanking her for her "kind intention," but stating that they "prefer not to accept any contributions from any lady employer. contributions from any lady employe of the government." The lady wrote again to the committee, insisting on making the contribution.

ANOTHER TAX ON THE CLERKS. In addition to all the other assessments, another comes to light. Mr A M Clapp, the chairman of the Republican central committee of the District of Columbia, has sent a circular to a number of department clerks and others asking a contribution towards aiding them to aid the Republican candidates for Congress in the fitth and sixth districts of Maryland and the eighth Alexandria district of Virginia. The circular sets forth that the name of the person to whom it has been sent has been handed to the committee as one likely to contribute towards Republican success. No particular sum is asked for, the amount being entirely at the selection of the contributor. This committee to day sent agents to various parts of the districts named to urge a strong Republican vote. Maj James McNabb, of the postoffice department, represents the committee in the fifth district. He will spend several days in each county, and then go to Baltimore to look after things there on election day.

A New Building Material. A new building material is coming into use. It is made by mixing the ka-olinite or "top clay," which is found in immense quantities throughout Middle-sex county, New Jersey, with sawdust until the consistency of dough is obtained, when it is cast into large square blocks and burned in kilns. The result is a peculiar terracotta ware, possessing peculiar properties. It has no fibrous texture like wood, its strength arising from incipient titrifaction obtained in firing, and half inch boards made of it, smoothly planed and jointed, show greater strength and tenacity than day oak of equal thickness. It is ag easily worked as pine or spruce, is half the weight of building brick and tightly retains plastering without the aid of lath-ing. Its adaptability to building purposes has already attracted the attention of builders and the demand for it largely exceeds the supply,

Unworthy "Chet."

President Arthur has less moral backing than any President the United States ever had. He does not hear the voice of truth, surrounded by his parasites; but I can tell him, from a considerable intercourse with people in all directions, that he is regarded as the first President whom nobody ever thought of in connection with his high office, and he has increased unconsciously the dignity of that office by his un-worthiness to fill it, and coming to it in the way he did. If he had become a great and faithful President, it might have been thought that the office was not above the capacity of almost anybody; but it is now clear that it is entirely above his capacity and compre-
