amount to much, and if promptly attended to can easily be cured; but neglect is often followed by consumption or diphtheria. No nedicine has ever been discovered which acts so quickly and surely in such cases as PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER. The prompt use of this invaluable remedy has saved thousands of lives.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is not an experiment. It has been before the not an experiment. It has been before the public for forty years, and is most valued where it is best known.

A few Extracts from voluntary testimornals read a vollows:

PAIN KILLER has been my household remedy for colds for the past twenty-seven years, and have never known it to fail in effecting a cure.—
L. S. CROCKER, Williamsville, N. Y.
For thirty years I have used PAIN KILLER, and found it a never-failing remedy for colds and sore throat—BARTON SEAMAN.

invaluable remedy.—GEO. B. EVERETT, Dickinson, N. Y.

I have not recovered from a very severe cold, which I have had for some time. I could get no relief until I tried your Park Killer, which relieved me immediately. I will never again be without it.—C.O. Force, Lowndes, Ga.

Have used Park Killer in my family for forty years, and have never known it to full.—Ransom Lewis, Waynesboro, Ga.

I began using Park Killer in my family twenty-five years ago and have used it ever since, and have found no medicine to take its place.—B. W. Dyur, Druggist, Oneida, N. Y.

For whooping-cough and croup it is the best preparation made. We would not be without it.—A. P. Routs, Liberty Mills, Va.

for colds and chapped lips, and consider it the best medicine over offered.—Gro. Hooper, Wilmington, N.C.

I was suffering severely with bronchitis, and my throat was so inflamed I could scarcely swallow any food. I was advised to try your Pain Killer, and after taking a few does was completely chred.—I wilmings.

Dr. Walting writes from Consolor: Your Pain Killer could be the sore throat so alarmingly prevalent here, and has not been known to fail in a single instance. This fact you should make known to the world.

Mrs. Ellen B. Mason writes: My son was taken violently sick with diphtheria, high fever, and cold chills. So many children have died here, I was afraid to call a physician, and tried your Pain Killer. He was taken on Sunday, and on Wednesday his throat was clear. It was a wenderful cure, and I wish it could be known to the poor mothers who are losing so many children.

For Chills and Fever PAIN KILLER has no equal. It cures when everything else fails. Delays are often dangerous. A bottle of PAIN KILLER in the house is a safeguard that no family should be without.

J. T. WILLIAMS,

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS. Fall Term, 1882.

Reported for the Observer by Walton M. Busbee. Anders, Executor, vs. Ellis, Administrator-Bladen.

This action is instituted to recover a breach of covenant in a marriage settlement, in which it was agreed by the man, that within four years after the consummation of his marriage with the woman he would purchase or cause to be conveyed to the trustee mentioned in the instrument, a negro female slave of not less than a certain value, to be held in trust for the said woman. Upon the trial plaintiff introduced the marriage settlement and read it to the jury Both parties offered testimony, but none was offered on the question of damage, other than that contained in the deed. Upon an intimation from the court that in the absence of such evidence on the question of damages the jury would be instructed to give nominal damages only, the plaintiff suffered a non-suit and appealed.

The court says: The words "of not less than nine hundred dollars value," as used in the contract are descriptive of the slave and not of the sum to be used in the purchase.

If slavery had ceased to exist before the lapse of the four years it would have operated as a discharge; no one can be required to do an illegal act, or be liable in damages for not doing it. Had the slave been obtained the pro perty therein would have speedily perished and in an equitable proceeding the damage would have been the loss of service only. The damages must be assured by the jury upon evidence, whatever the rule of estimating them be, and without evidence only nominal damages can be recovered.

No error. Affirmed. McRae, Administrator, vs. Malloy-

Richmond.

This was an action on a bond given by defendant to the intestate of the plaintiff. As a defense a counter-claim was pleaded. The case was referred at Fall Term, 1880, to John W. Cole and R. A. Johnson to take and state an account. They reported defendant entitled to a credit of $443 50, with interest from "a reasonable time thereafter, say thirty days." The plaintiff excepted to so much of the report as allowed the defendant interest, for the reason that defendant made no demand for said money before the institution of the action. The exception was overruled and judgment rendered for the plaintiff, from which he appealed.

The court says: Where the parties are in the relation of debtor and creditor and the court orders the debtor to make payment, which it has a right to do, the debtor is bound to seek the creditor and pay him, a demand on his part is not necessary to give him the right of action or interest on his claim. Whenever one | e son has the money of another and knows what sum he ought to pay he must pay interest on the same. Plaintiff's exception overruled. No error. Affirmed.

State vs. Laney et als-Union.

RUFFIN, J .: Defendants were tried and found guilty of forcible trespass. The proofs were that the prosecutor and defendant Laney had cultivated distinct portions of a field surrounded by a common enclosure, the prosecutor planting corn and said defendant cotton. In consequence of certain information recoived the prosecutor went to the field n September and found defendant Frank Laney and defendant Carlock, who was his servant, cutting down his corn with hoes. The prosecutor forbide them to cut any more of his corn, but they continued to do so, saying that they had been instructed to cut it by the other defendant. The prosecutor then left, making no effort to put de-fendants out of the field, because he did not wish to be involved in a breach of the peace and defendants continued

t) cut the corn. The court says: The evidence offered did not support the charge of forcible trespass. To constitute that offense the act complained of must be done presenti domino and must involve a breach of the peace, or tend thereto. The title to the property is of no moment in forcible trespass. It is the invasion of the actual possession of another, and not his constructive possession—done in his presence and under such circumstances that endangers the public peace. While defendants may have been guilty of forcible detainer, and probably were, still it is impossible for them to have been guilty of the offense charged, since their entry upon the premises was made in the absence of the prosecutor. No force was used.

Error. Venire de novo. Redmond et. al. vs. Commissioners of Rutherford and the town of Rutherfordton-Rutherford.

The plaintiffs are domiciled in the State of New York, but were the owners of lands lying in several of the counties of this State, which have been sold by their agent who keeps an office in Rutherfordton and had power to sell and execute covenants for title and to collect the money. The covenants to pay the purchase money are solvent only because of the fact that the title to the lands is retained as security. The covenants for the purchase money amount to many thousands of dollars and all are kept in the office of the said agent. The single question presented is, whether they are liable to a State, county or corporation tax. The judge below held them to be exempt, and inoined the authorities of and town from levying and collecting the tax thereon.

The court says: The statute providing for the levying and collecting of taxes in this State directs that "every person required to list property, shall make out and deliver to the township list taker a statement, verified by his oath, of all the real and personal property, moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, &c., in his possession or under his control, on the first day of June, either asowner or holder thereof. or as parent, husband, guardian, trustee, executor, administrator, receiver, accounting officer, agent, factor or oth-

Where parties have debts due them upon land contracts, it is the same as if they were due upon note or bonds, and so far as they have any substantial existence, they are in this State and not elsewhere. Their validity and protection, and the remedies for their enforcement, all depend upon the laws of this State, and in neither respect do they take any benefit whatever from the laws of the plaintiffs domicil. Therefore they should contribute to the support of the only government which affords them protection, and help to defray the expenses incurred in so doing. The writ restraining the collection of taxes assessed against the agent of the plaintiffs, was improvidently granted, and the order to that effect is re-

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. Rev. Sylvanus Cobb thus writes in the Boston Christian Freeman:—We would by no means re-commend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good—particularly for infants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with solic pains, quiet sleep, and its parents unknown rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings.
