A HANDSOME ACTOR.

A Teaser Coming Over from England to Charm the Ladies.

Brooklyn Eagle.

An actor is coming over to this country next year from England who is said to be the most beautiful man on the stage in London for many years.

The younger sisters of the impressionable girls, who used to worship Montague and George Rignold (Henry the Fifth), will now have a chance to idolize a man who is not only strikingly handsome but an uncommonly good actor.

His name is William Terriss and he supports Henry Irving. A great effort has been made of late to find somebody to fill the place of Montague held in women's hearts. Managers are shrewd men in some things. They recognize the fact that women are an important element in theatrical successes. Hence they cater to the tastes of women by presenting society plays and making their stages attractive by gorgeous upholstery and handsome scenery.

They remember the length that drew patronage to Wallack's old theater. Montague created a genuine and long lived furore. Every one knows how handsome he was, but few recall the place that Terriss held in the hearts of the women of the city.

He was as merry as a boy and at heart never cared a rap for the devotion of the women who gushed over him. Every mail brought him letters from silly girls who were without a thought, but he tossed them aside without a glance. George Rignold, on the other hand, exhibited all the ordinary signs of the admiration of women is apt to produce in a man.

After him in point of popularity, came Charles Thorne, but he is a bit too robust and mature to be idolized.

An attempt was made to spring Osmond Tearle upon the public as a professional beauty, but he missed fire, principally because Tearle is intrinsically unattractive.

The Hon. Wm. H. Kelsoy was produced by Wallack with a great flourish, but he failed even more mournfully than Tearle. So the field is clear for the coming man and the silly maidens will have to be satisfied with the element in the Adirondack region into that city. Dr. Laman, who appeared before the commission a few days ago, after saying that the outflow from the 2,700 feet above tide level and the water was on an average 41,000,000,000 cubic feet of water a day, or 300,000,000 gallons per day, some of the streams and lakes in the region were over 4,000 feet above tide level and the water was of the purest kind. He said that the water could be brought in a canal along the east bank of the Hudson River.

The necessary dam would have to be about seventy feet high, and the grade of the canal was to be six inches to the mile, giving a speed of two miles an hour to the water. The water would strike the Harlem River some two hundred feet above tide level and with force enough to run directly through the city pipes. The canal would bring from 800,000,000 to 1,000,000,000 gallons of water daily, enough to supply the city for many years to come. The cities along the line of the canal could also be supplied with water. In concluding his statement Dr. Laman said that the cost of the canal would be about one cent of the cost of the scheme. It would be charged for the water it consumed and private consumers would be supplied.

The Power of the Farmers.

Congressman Herbert, of Alabama, on the Free Ship Bill.

"I wish to God the farmers of this country had it in their power to combine; had it in their power to bring to bear their influence to secure their rights against these powerful combinations; to allow the Congress to make laws that they shall pass. But after all, Mr. Speaker, they have that power, if they would only exercise it. They have only to combine of their own accord, and to elect representatives who will protect their rights. They have the power to do it; and if the farmers of the west would only lay their power to the aid of the farmers of the pockets of some and put it in the pockets of others.

A Prophecy.

The Maginnis cotton mills at New Orleans, will soon duplicate their machinery throughout, thus doubling their labor and consumption of cotton. These mills will then run 17,500 spindles, and give employment to six hundred people in the various departments; Mr. Knight, the superintendent of these mills, has spent most of his life in the mills of Massachusetts, and has a large experience in such matters, and canvassing the subject of cotton manufacture carefully, all its details, he says that the problem will regulate itself, and that all the mills producing plain brown goods in the United States will be situated in the South in two decades.

"Rough on Rats."

Extract of Report from the Celebrated Physician Erasmus Wilson, of London, England.

"Several severe cases of Incontinent Consumption have come under my observation, and have been cured by the timely use of 'Golden Sialin' (See Remedy name, Golden's-Tonic no other) Of Druggists.

"Where Will This End?"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Mr. A. E. Boone was the principal witness in the star route trial to-day, and his testimony was a substantial repetition of that given at the former trial, but Judge Wylie admitted as evidence certain letters which were ruled out before.

While arguing the question Mr. Ingersoll used the phrase, "Where will this end?"

"In the penitentiary," promptly interposed Mr. Bliss.

Mr. Ingersoll shook his finger at Mr. Bliss and said, "You will be there as soon as my client."

"This is entirely unprofessional," interrupted the court.

"Did I provoke it?" asked Mr. Ingersoll innocently. "I represent a gentleman, and do not purpose doing anything a gentleman may not do."

Mr. Ingersoll said he might as well be understood that questions arising in this case would be decided without bias from any former decision, and then suddenly turning to Mr. Williams, who was smiling, exclaimed with great indignation: "What do you mean by that, sir? What do you mean by sneering and giggling like a fool at the decision or this court?"

"I do not understand you. I don't believe the court's language was warranted. I was talking about another matter, and did not hear you," replied Mr. Williams.

"You should have been listening," said the court.

"Your honor has not decided the question yet. I could not have expressed any opinion upon it."

"The court accepts your disclaimer, and owes you an apology for the severity of its language."

The delivery of the opinion was resumed and resulted in the admission of the papers.

The Blue Ridge Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE THIRD DAY. Reported for The Observer.

JANUARY 26, 1883.

Conference met at 9:30, according to adjournment, Bishop Merrill in the chair. Religious exercises were conducted by Rev. D. M. Clayton.

The secretary read the journal of yesterday, which was, after some alterations, approved.

Rev. L. M. Duntun, of the South Carolina conference, was introduced to the conference. Bishop Merrill of the Presbyterian church was introduced. Revs. D. M. Clayton and W. T. Ford, upon their favorable recommendation of their respective presiding elders, were advanced to the chair in the afternoon.

The 14th question was called, and Rev. M. C. Smith was, after a favorable report of the examining committee, elected to Elder's orders.

The 7th question was taken up and Rev. J. F. West was admitted in full connection in the conference.

At this juncture the Bishop delivered an address to the conference, which was brimful of force, logic and information, in consequence of which the business of the conference was suspended for a considerable length of time. J. R. Cantow was continued.

Announcements were made, committees called and the conference adjourned to meet at 9:30 a. m., January 27th. Benediction by L. M. Duntun.
