NORTHERN CAPITAL.

While it is true that a large amount of Northern capital is finding investment in Southern development and enterprises, it is also true that the Southern people are not sitting down waiting for Northern capital, but are going on bravely and successfully with their own resources. They have not yet learned the art of blowing about their achievements, and hence many people, getting their impressions from partisan papers in the North, think that for whatever of progress that has been made in building up the industries of the South is due to the enterprise and capital of Northern men. The Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer-Sun, noticing some editorial remarks upon this subject in a couple of Western Republican papers, pricks the bladder thus:

If Columbus had have folded her hands eighteen years ago, when her 60,000 bales of cotton, all of her factories, all of her mills but one, and many of her other buildings were burned, the picture would be very different from what it is to-day. She could not boast her sixty thousand spindles, her twenty thousand looms, the largest iron foundry in the South, the only bagging factory in the State, and her many other enterprises that rise as a monument to Southern pluck and Southern capital. What is true of Columbus is true of other sections in the South, though no city in the State of Georgia has received less aid in foreign capital. Where Atlanta and Augusta have received thousands of dollars in foreign capital invested, Columbus has received nothing. What she is and has is the work of her own hands.

Take for instance the two cities of Columbus and Augusta, which are the two leading manufacturing cities of the So 1th. In Columbus we have a capital and a capital stock of over three millions invested in cotton mills, and not a dollar is owned by Northern capitalists. There are a few men who now live at the North who sion money, and Gileston & Co., of own stock in the factories, but they filing fraudulent claims for pensions. lived here at the time the stock was procured, and when they went North they carr ed more capital with them than they left behind. In Augusta been a new mill and with a capital stock of $1,000,000—the Chief Thomas O'Connor, of New Or-John P. King. Of this $600,000 is leans, was elected president, Henry owned in Augusta and $400,000 is Northern capital. In all the other millz the Northern capital is about on treasurer. A number of vice presia par with Northern capital in this | dents were also elected. The convencity. To say ten per cent of the cap-ital invested in Southern manufactories came from the North would be a very large estimate, and would exceed rather than fall short of the exact figure.

What is here asserted about the manufactories of Georgia is true also of the manufactories of this State, in which but a very small proportion of Northern capital invested. But for all this there is an open field and a warm welcome to all who may wish to plant themselves among us and take advantage of the magnificent opportunities the South presents. In the meantime our people are going on in their own quiet, unpretending way, and are accomplishing results that astonish when their full magnitude are grasped. The South wants and welcomes capital from abroad to facilitate development, but is not folding her arms and sitting down on the river banks waiting for it, as some ignorant writers or willful falsifiers would try to make it appear.

PAT WINSTON'S WILL.

Pat Winston is nothing if not eccentric. A short time ago he made a political leap out of the Democratic party into the Republican ranks, which surprised his friends. We have just heard that he has written his will, one of the "items" of which is as follows:

"I give and bequeath any right, title or interest I may die seized of, in the Democratic party, to Col. Paul B. Means, of Cabarrus county."

We are afraid Col. Means may find some difficulty in ascertaining that the bequest has any value.

Hon. David Davis owns the opera house in Bloomington, Ill., and runs it on a moral schedule. He won't permit any questionable plays to be put upon the boards.

A Decision of Interest to Liquor Importers.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Secretary Folger to-day received from Attorney General Brewster an opinion in regard to the effect of the clause in the new tariff law which provides that there shall be no allowance for breaking, leakage or damage in wines, liquors, cordials or distilled spirits. The Attorney-General holds that this provision repeals only the arbitrary allowances in lieu of leakage and breakage which before existed and does not require an assessment of duty upon a greater quantity than is actually imported as shown by the return of the proper officer. The customs officers will be immediately directed to conform their action to this opinion.

A Son Avenging His Father.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 27.—This morning while Alfred Gossel, colored, was charge of officer Dominick to receive life sentence for the murder of policeman Jno. Caffry last April, the eldest son of Caffry stepped up behind Gos-sel, who was handcuffed. at the corner of Rampart and Contie streets and shot him in the head. Gossel died in a few minutes. The deputy sheriff who was in charge of the murderer immediately arrested Caffry.

Southern Spiritualists.

CHATTANOOGA, Oct. 27.—The spiritualists of the South after a fortnights session, consisting of daily lectures seances, &c., held general convention yesterday and have completed a permanent organization by the election of Sam'l Watson, D. D., of Memphis, president. Chattanooga is made Southern headquarters. Literature of the spiritualists will be distributed broadcast throughout the South from this city. A Southern camp-meeting association will be also organized.

More Pension Attorneys Locked Out. ### A California Sugar Monopolist.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 27.—It is stated that Clause Speckles, proprietor of the California Sugar Refining company, and who holds a monopoly of the Hawaii sugar trade, has contracted to purchase the entire crops of sugar of the island, on the condition that all shipments shall be made in his vessels. This is equivalent to a monopoly of the carrying trade both ways, as other vessels going there will not get return cargoes.

The Worn-out Street-Car Horse.

The wretched beast staggers along with his heavy load, looking miserable, and feeling worse than he looks. The driver urges him onward with the whip, and perhaps swears at him a little to make him go faster. - The horse plunges on a few steps, then comes to a sudden halt and tries to stand still for a few moments of rest. His shaky legs give way under him, and he falls heavily to the ground. Boys and men croud around him, and try to make him stand up. They pull his tail and punch nim with sticks. Some of them are so cruel as to kick him. Presently he gives a few convulsive gasps, and he is dead. Poor street-car horse! He was overworked and underfed. He had! hard life of it. Now that he is gone, the company will put another hore; in his place. The other horse will be overloaded and worked to death in like manner. Cruel business.

There are many men who overwork and underfeed themselves f they are in as bad a way as the nearly-dead street-car horse. Scinctines they do it from a sense of solemn duty and stern conscientiousness. They do not mean to kill themselves. They only want to name a living for their families. With impoverished blood and unstrung name to the restrictions. ach and aching head and torpid liver they drag along a many miserable existence. They make their families as miserable a time of the

To bring these wretched, worn, and weary men out of their misery is better than to let them die. Is not a man better than a house Can a husband and father be replaced at the price of a worn-out animal? Save the man! Brown's Iron Bitters will renew his blood, restore his strength, drive away his pains, and make a healthy man of him. Your druggist, who keeps Brown's Iron Bitters, will tell you of the work it has done in renewing poor invalids who were almost dead.
