MAKE IT TOO HOT.

Fred Douglass was imported into Maryland to help bring the colored voters up to the Republican rack on election day, and made a speech at Denton last Wednesday. His remarks were addressed exclusively to his colored hearers, urging them to stand by the Republican party and to give no ear to the men of their race who advised them to act independently in politics. Not satisfied with giving this advice he went further and urged them to "make it too hot" for any of their race who went wrong, that is any who refused to vote the Republican ticket. In that same speech he denounced the decision of the Supreme court on the civil rights bill. Is it not one of the negro's civil rights to vote in accordance with the dictates of his judgment, and act with any political party he sees fit, or independent of any if he deems it best? But Douglass ignores his civil rights in this respect and advises his friends to make it "too hot" for any negro who dares to exercise his civil rights to the extent of voting as he sees fit. If they took his advice they would probably engage in more business than they could well attend to, for that system of bulldozing would not be long permitted to go unchallenged and unrebuken. Fred in his old age is not proving himself the most competent adviser for his people.

good of the very best ma es, guarantee satisfac The following letter from Sir Lyon Playfair, an emment English scientist, who is visiting the Boston exposition, to Mr. P. M. Wilson, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, shows We cordially invite all to call, examine and suphow the North Carolina exhibit is appreciated by those who see it from at home and abroad:

Boston, Mass., Oct. 26, 1883. DEAR SIR: As the only living manager of the great exhibition of 1851, and as one who has taken part in al-most every European international exhibition since that date, you may like to have from me a few words of appreciation of the North Carolina contribution to the exhibition now open in Boston. I have twice visited the exhibition, but have had only eyes for the North Carolina section. Your exhibit is admirably arranged, and fully illustrates the resources of the State. There is as much science as technical skill shown in the selection of objects and in their arrangement. I augur much of a State that knows so well how to apply science to practice. Mr. Dabney's knowledge of mineralogy and chemistry is conspicuous in the arrangement and labelling of the specimens. An international exhibition of food products will be held next year in London, and I would be glad to see a contribution to it made by the same board of agriculture, which has shown such an enlightened superintendence of the general exhibit on the present Trunks and Valises. W B have the best and most stylish makes of Ladies.' Misses' and hildren's, Snoes and Slippers all kinds and prices There is good metal in Mary An derson, the Blue Grass girl, who is now playing in England. When playing Pauline a few nights ago, the Prince and Princess of Wales were among her auditors. The Princess was so pleased with her acting that she called for the manager and requested him to send Mary to her box, as she desired to be introduced to her. Mary sent back word that she could not go till the piece was closed as it was against her rule to see people off the stage during a performance. The Princess became a little miffed at this and said that she and the Prince never waited after a performance, but she did wait, saw Mary and complimented her very highly on her acting.

Mr. Talmage, the statistician of the Milwaukee chamber of commerce, has compiled from official and "trustworthy private" sources, the figures of the corn yield of 1883. He puts the crop at 1,621,100,000 bushels. Cow Feed. making it, with one exception, the largest in the history of the country. From the table we learn that Kansas and Missouri are neck and neck at the head of the list, each producing 190,000,000 bushels, or together nearly one quarter of the entire crop. The product of Georgia is estimated at 36,-000,000 bushels.

The Democrats of Virginia have put on their working harness this time. and are going to make a determined effort to route the Mahonites next Tuesday. In Ricmond and nearly all the other cities and cowns in the State Democratic merchants have resolved to close their stores on election day to give their employees an oppor. tunity to work for the success of the ticket. This spirit wins.

Bishop Hoed.

To the Editor of the Observer: A news item which appeared in Thursday's issue of the OBSERVER is calculated to do injustice to Bishop Hood if uncorrected. That Bishop Hood was justified in his action in reference to Bishop Hillery will be shown by the following extract from the proceedings of the meeting of the Board of Bishops, A. M. E. Zion church, held at Salisbury, N. C., September 26th, 1883, as announced in the official circular, issued for the information of ministers and members of the church:

"In executive session the board considered the case of Bishop Wm. H. Hillery, which had been investigated at the Kentucky conference, which met in Henderson, Ky., Sep-tember 5th, 1883, and which case had been referred to the ensuing general conference. The presiding officer of the said conference, Bishop J. W. Hood, stated the case in detail and showed the groun s upon which Bishop Hillery was silenced. The board unanimously sustained the action of the presiding officer in the case, and thereby declared that Bishop Hillery was suspended at the Kentucky conference, and they no longer recognized him as a member of the board. They directed the editor of the Star of Zion to publish the fact immediately, that the public might know the nature of the case."

A Question About Drafts. N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 6, 1883. Editor Journal of Commerce: A question of commercial law has arise in the course of my business upon which authorities widely differ. Knowing that your valuable journal discusses such questions for the benefit of your subscribers, I take the liberty of submitting it, and ask your kind attention: A is employed to pack and ship goods belonging to B. Having had previous transaction with B, wherein he proved himself very slow pay, A draws at sight on B favor of banker C, with bill of 'lading attached to order of shipper, also bill of charges. B accepts draft, signing B & Co., upon which C surrenders pa p rs and Railroad, D, delivers goods. A's domicil is in Alabama, and B and C are domiciled in Mississippi. A's instructions to C were "collect for my account." Draft was returned, not protested "payment refused." Is not C liable?

Reply.—The United States Supreme Court in an elaborate opinion reviewing the authorities on this question (Nat. Bank v. Mer. Bank, 91 U.S., 92) held that a bill of lading attached to a time draft forwarded for collection without any other instructions, may be surrendered to the drawee on his acceptance of the draft, and it is not the duty of the collecting agent to retain the bill after such acceptance. The court also held that a sight draft, where it is entitled to grace, as in the case before us, stands on the same footing as a time draft. The parties here being residents of different States, and therefore entitled to go into the Federal courts, this decision will control, and the banker C. therefore, incurred ne liability by the surrender of the draft.

Decision. MEMPHIS, Oct. 3.—A large meeting of prominent colored citizens, held last night, adopted resolutions expressing regret at the decision of the Supreme court on the civil rights bill, and asking the people of the State to join in petitioning the Legislature to repeal all its acts discriminating against colored people, and in protesting against confounding social and civil rights, and in favoring the encouragement of colored people in habits of economy and intellectual culture. They also compliment Judge Harlan. Addresses were made by Congressman Casey Young and others.
