LOCAL RIPPLES.

- One of the features of the freight train from Statesville yesterday was a Western North Carolina car, divided into an upper and a lower story, both of which were filled with turkeys. The Christmas birds were being shipped to points down the Air Line road.

- A party of men, women and chilren, to the number of thirty arrived in the city yesterday morning from Anson county, and left on the Air Line train for Texas. The women all had a good cry before the train moved off and though the men tried their best to be cheerful, it was a blue lo king crowd.

-Mr. H. C. Cowles, clerk of the Federal court. is not only an efficient officer and popu ar man. but wins he good will of all by his accommodating disposition. Few public officers are possessed of his genuine spirit of accommodation, and ere are but very few more pleasant to deal with This is voicing the senti ment of the jurors, witnesses and all who had business with the court.

BANTA AND THE REPORTER

Continue the Rounds and Look at Some Where they are to be Found for the Benefit of the Observer's Readers.

Santa Ciaus turned up all right last said he had spent a bad day suffering with ear ache, caused by a drop of molasses getting into it the night previous. Otherwise he was in fine spirits and danced a jig while the reporter was getting on his overcoat preparatory to going out with him reporter drew up was at the boot and

The silk hats. Santa thought would make as good presents as any young or old man could desire. They have also a good line of trunks, valises. handbags, shabls traps, etc From Peg ram's we were conducted to the centre room in Johnston's block, where

A E. RANKIN AND BRO., hold forth. Here we were shown an elegant line of ladies' and childrens' shoes boxtoe | and every style, ranging from the ordinary to the very finest haud made. Santa took down a lot of slippers and showed us a number that would make beautiful presents were then shown through the men's fine shoe department, which is complete and tocked with the very best makes. "For a friend wanting to travel, 'said Santa, 'commend me to those trunks, valises. satchels and handbags for presents. Better ones could not be found." Intimating that there were other places of this sort to visit Santa nurri-d the reporter around to the boot and shoe store

GRAY AND BROTHER

This is a newly established house and everything in it looked bright as a new pin and it was as much as Santa could do to make his way behind the counters for the number of pre ents piled about on all sides. Santa looked over a lot of very pre ty shoes of all styles and makes, ranging in size from a shoe that would scarcely cover hi- thumb to one that would hold a busnel of corn. Gray's line is complete and one could find anything wanted in the way of a shoe. He also has a full stock of trunks, etc. His goods are all new and are marked down the last but not least of Santa's headquarters in this line was next visited At this establishment Santa enumerated presents by the dray load. They have a heavy stock of boots shoes, hats and general furnishing goods. (They have a line of men's shoes that are especially suitable for presents. The Christmas shopper- should not fail to give them a call before laying in their presents for hortly afterwards the newly wedned they will be sure to see here something they want.

> HAPPY MCSMITH But few of our good little readers are aware of the fact that old Santaisa musician of the highest order. The reporter didn t know it himself until he went into McSmith's music house with Santa and witnessed a performance tha was better than a whole minstrel show Sauta performed the remarkable feat of playing upon a piano a mouth harp, a base fiddle, an accordeon and a trom bone, all at the same time, beating a drum and ratting a pair of bones in addition. After giving us "When the Robins Nest Again" by this orchestra. Santa put the instruments back to their places and told us to look around at the array of presents. For the children were toy planes, minature organs, drums, harps, etc. in the greatest abundance and for everybody there were banjoes violins, accordeons brass band instruments, pia os ard organs, organettes, nausic boxes, sheet music, flutes. bugles, trombones, etc, etc. "McSmith generally goes crazy about this time of the year," Santa told us. "and gives away nearly everything that he has. So it is just the time and place for Christmas presents. Tell all your readers to crowd in on him while the spell lasts, for, like Christmas it comes only once a C. M. ETHERE GE

Santa Claus and the reporter next found themselves looking at the loads of presents in the variety store of Mr. C. M. Etheredge, which the old saint aptly described as a perfect paradise for Christmas shoppers. The children will see a thousand things that they want and the older people will be no less greedy. Etheredges stock of Christmas tricks and fancy articles is simply im-mense. Beautiful pre-ents in chinaware, dolls, toys of every variety, pre sents useful ornamental styli-h. beauti ful and cheap to suit whole families. R. H. JORDAN AND CO

This popular house was next on our list. We had heard of their elegant Christmas goods and were not disap pointed in what we saw. They have a beautiful supply of plush goods, em-bracing ladies rollet sets, work baskets, perfumery cases, mirrors cologue bottles in plush, and a great variety of goods in this line, from which the handsomest presents can be selected.

WILSON BROTHERS. Here another very fine array of plush good- were shown the reporter, embracing all the latest novelties known to the Christmas trade. The goods are perfectly elegant any to look at them makes one wish that he was Vanderbilt's private secretary. The perfumery cases toilet sets and cologne bottles are especially worthy of mention and more desirable presents could not be found. Going the reporter found pretty much the same line of goods. Dr. McAden's stock of plush goods, while not extravagantly large, is very choice and embraces some exceedingly pretty pre-ents for the ladies. He has a fine line of lamps, of elegant shapes and patterns, any one of which would make a nice present. His array of fancy articles is pressly recommend his house to the Christmas trade.

Poisoned.

Thousands of persons are poisoned in America by the continued use of mercury, iodide of potassium and other minerals, for various diseases. The mercury works its way into the tissues. producing rheumatism and decay of the bones The iodide of potassium eats away the coating of the stomach, and dries up the gastric juices which digest the food, and the patient lingers along in agony or is glad to die to get away from misery. Swift's Specific is a complete antidate to all poison. It eliminates mercuiy from the system. removes the evil effects of iodide of potassium, and brings back health and happiness.
