WHAT POLLY IS THIS.

Hon. S. S. Cox is one of the brightest men in Congress, gifted to an extraordinary degree by nature, an eminent scholar whose range of study has not been confined to politics, though he has been in politics a great portion of his life. He is always interesting and never fails to command attention when he has anything to say in Congress. For years he has been regarded as a leader in Democratic councils and was warmly supported for the position which Mr. Carlisle now holds, the Speakership of the present Congress. Had it not been for his advanced free trade ideas he might have won it. His prominence in the party, his prominence in Congress, make his utterance worthy of note, because he commands a following and voices not simply the sentiments of S. S. Cox, but of the free trade element of the party of which he is the most brilliant, though not the most noisy advocate. He delivered an elaborate speech in Congress Thursday on the bonded whiskey extension bill, in which,

however, he devoted more attention to the tariff question than to the bill proper under consideration.

In this speech he is reported as saying that whilst he had ever been a devoted member of the Democratic party, which, with whatever failings it might have, was still the party of the poor man as against the Republican party which was the party of wealth, and whilst he believed that the issue were made in the next campaign between free trade and protection the party would meet with defeat, he still preferred defeat upon that issue to success without it. This is strange talk, confession of anticipated defeat before the contest begins, and an expressed desire for defeat unless victory can be won on a plan which is conceded to be impossible. Couple this with

Mr. Watterson's wild ravings about the possible dissolution of the Democratic party, driving men who favor protection out of the party, and going down with flying colors and all that sort of blue grass nonsense, and it looks as if certain gentlemen had made up their minds to run the Democratic party in their own way or burst it.

After nearly a quarter of a century of Republican rule, in which corruption has reached colossal proportions and pervaded every department of the government, radiating from centre to circumference; in which rings and corporations have ruled, rioted and grown rich at the expense of the people; in which the constitution, the rights of the States and the liberties of the people have been ignored and trampled upon; in which the thousands of millions of dollars collected from the people in taxes have been squandered, the larger portion of it going to the benefit of individuals and to keep the party in power; in which the whole tendency of Federal legislation and judicial construction has been towards centralized power—after all this, with all this before them, could these gentlemen find no other issue at this time than the tariff worth going before the people upon?

And does that rise to such towering proportions that rather than let it rest, when wise counsel and slack up in the wild career upon which they have started.

The Philadelphia Record says: "The towns in the South and West keep on growing, like weeds in June. The protective dry rot that assails the manufacturing East does not penetrate to the sound heart of business.

The farmers of the South and West are not giving themselves any concern about the "protective dry rot." They conclude, perhaps, that it is not such a bad thing as represented, while the towns upon which the farmer's prosperity so greatly depends, "keep on growing like weeds in June."

The Lynchburg (Va.) News has received a letter from New York capitalists, offering to furnish one-half the capital necessary to erect and equip a $400,000 or $500,000 cotton factory, if the remainder be subscribed by citizens of Lynchburg.

During the eight months since the beginning of the current fiscal year, June 30, 1883, reports from the customs districts show that 296,223 immigrants arrived in this country, of whom 90,003 came from Germany, 40,972 from England and Wales, 35,476 from Canada and 21,786 from Ireland.

Arthur's opponents charge that he is using federal patronage to further his own interest. Well, haven't they all done it? When John Sherman was Secretary of the Treasury didn't he have scores of strikers on the pay roll whose only business was bruising around getting up a boom and stocking delegations for him?

The Philadelphia Record: Things appear to be working. While Edmunds pricks the wind of Blaine, and the son of his father trips up the heels of Logan, President Arthur will carry off the Chicago nomination. He has deserved this mark of favor at the hands of his party. His conservatism has healed up old sores and made no new ones.

Real estate dealers in Richmond say they are receiving more demands for information in regard to Virginia lands than they have within ten years before, principally from the North and Northwest, where the cold winters have caused many people to look southward for homes in a more genial clime.

Prince Bismarck, having sufficiently recovered from the irritation over the Laeker affair to invite Minister Sargent to the Emperor's birthday dinner, they will probably take some "cold tea" together.

Does not Mr. Watterson assume rather much in playing the grand Mogul of the Democratic party, and cavalierly declaring who is and who is not a Democrat? Mr. H. W. goes just a trifle too far.

Mr. Watterson seems really anxious to drive somebody out of the Democratic party. But suppose somebody persists in staying in, what is Mr. W. going to do about it?

The marriage license bill, reducing the cost of the license from $4.50 to fifty cents, has passed the Maryland legislature, and is now waiting the Governor's signature.

A call has been issued for the South Carolina State Democratic Convention to meet in Columbia, June 26th.

Logan's friends are alarmed at the proportions that the Blaine boom is reaching and charge him with treachery.

An Industrial Congress. A call has been issued for an industrial Congress to meet in Chicago, May 21, to take into consideration the fact that while the nation has vast undeveloped resources and opportunities for raising nearly every product it needs, it does not, but annually imports millions of dollars of products, which could and ought to be raised here as cheaply as anywhere else.

Only Handling a Pistol. CHATTANOOGA, TENN., March 20.—A special to the Times from Birchwood, Tenn., says: James Bowers shot and killed Miss Roake last night while handling a pistol. He had taken her home from church.

Badger News and Observer.

Johnson vs. Pate. 1. An ejectment, as well as in action to recover personal property, the verdict and judgment conclusively determine the matter in issue between the parties.

2. Where plaintiff in ejectment claims under a mortgagee's sale, and also by reason of an estoppel arising out of a judgment against the defendant in a involving partition the title to the same land; Held, that a general denial of the plaintiff's ownership does not controvert the existence of the record of said judgment.

3. A judgment rendered upon demurrer is as conclusive, by way of estoppel, as a verdict finding the facts confessed would be.

4. A judgment by consent cannot be corrected by the court without the consent of all the parties to it. It is not the judgment of the court except in the sense that it is recorded and has the effect of a judgment. In such case the court can only correct its own errors in making the entries, as for instance, the misprinting of its clerk.

5. A party complaining of such judgment upon the ground of fraud or mistake can seek redress by instituting a new action.

6. An interlocutory consent order may be corrected upon motion in the cause.

Howerton vs. Sexton. 1. The act of the Assembly requiring service of infants and copy of complaint upon infant defendants before appointing a guardian ad litem was in error in making the proceedings was begun.

2. This case is governed by the former law (C. C. P. section 59) and the failure of the guardian to answer the writ to sell land for partition worked no injury to the tenants in common, it appearing that a sale was necessary to their interest, and that the sale was ordered upon their petition, although the appointment of the guardian was not signed by them and the appointment not dated. The Code, section 387, requiring defects in the writ, no personal service of summons upon infants, remarked upon.

3. Where it appears that a sale of land for partition was made in the face of all concerned, the court will not set it aside on the ground of a want of precision in the record of the proceeding, and in the absence of evidence of fraudulent practices in bringing it about.

4. The testator expressed a wish that the farm products be applied to debts and then to the education of children; the proceeds of the farm proved to be insufficient for this purpose and as there was nothing in the will to prohibit the conversion, and as the interest on the money would more directly conduce to said purpose, a sale of the land was upheld.

5. This cause is remanded to the end that there may be an inquiry as to the payment of the purchase money and the manner of its disposition.

Rescued From Death.

Wm. J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1871, I was taken with a severe cold, followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and sleep, and was confined to my bed. In 1871 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I got a bottle, when, to my surprise, I commenced to get well, and to-day I feel better than for three years."

LOOK OUT! DURHAM BULL. Durham is historic. It was neutral ground during the armistice between Sherman and Johnston. Soldiers of both armies dried their ponies with the tobacco stored there, and after the surrender, marched home with their packs.
