Ground to Pieces on a Trestle.

One of the freight trains that came into Charlette on the Air Line from Atlanta yesterday, had blood on the wheels of the cars. The engineer states that while nearing a trestle about Greenville, he saw an old colabout Greenville, he saw an old col-ored man trying to cross it. The train was too close to be brought to a stop and though the engineer reversed his lever and applied the brakes, the heavy train bore down on the help-less negro and ground him to death. The negro was aged 85 years, name, Henry Foster. A dog was on the trestle with him and the animal, too, was crushed to death. Portions of the old negro's body dropped through the trestle to the ground below.

WEDDING IN HIGH LIFE.

Marriage of Mr. George H. Brocken-

First Presbyterian Church.

Last night at the First Presbyterian church, the most brilliant social event that Charlotte has known in many years was consummated in the presence of a crowd that filled the church up stairs and down, where ever a seat could be found, many who came in late having to content themselves with standing up. The event was the marriage of Mr. George H. Brockenbough to Miss Ada Wris ton. The young gentleman is and has been since he became a citizen of Charlotte, one of the most popular and universally admired of all the young men of the city, and the young lady has been a reigning belle since her entry into society. This being the case, it was but natural that a large and happy throng of well wishers should assemble to witness their nuptials. The interior of the church was very handsomely and profusely decorated, one arch spanning the entrance to the middle aisle, another extending from post to post in front of the pulpit, and one large and one small arch spanning the pulpit. Vases of flow-ers were tastefully arranged, and the effect was pronounce beautiful. The decorative work was done by loving hands, who did it well. At the end of the aisle opening to the pulpit, a pair of floral gates were arranged so as to close up the entrance, being especially designed and decorated by Mr. Frederick Moles, whose taste and skill were kindly enlisted on the occasion.

At a little past 9 o'clock, the im-pressive silence fell upon the audience, from the organ loft the thrilling tones of Meadelsohn's wedding march pea'ed forth from the large organ that was manipulated by Mrs. Dewey, and the bridal party slowly entered in the following order, proceeded by the ushers, Messrs Miles Pegram, Dabney Scoville, Torry Bratton and John Walker: Miss Rosalie Wilkes and Mr. Lucian Walker; Miss Kate Williams, of Fayetteville, and Mr. John Bryce; Miss Bessie Graham and Mr. W. W. Overman, of New York; Miss Virginia McAden and Mr. Baxter Myers; Miss Laura Yates and Mr. W. D. Martin, of New York; Miss Addie Williams and Mr. Rebt. Miller; Miss Mounie Dunlap, of South Carolina, and Mr. A. C. Springs; Miss Minnie Wriston and Mr. David Bronson; Miss Bessie Wriston and Mr. W. tendants ranged themselves around the altar, the bride's attend ants, Misses Adele Hutchinson Nellie Tate, and the one of the leading members of the A. M. dressed in pink and the other in blue, walked up the centre aisle and threw open the floral gates for the bride and groom who followed and halted

The bride wore an elegant brocaded satin dress, with white crystal front and court train, and over her head and shoulders was thrown a magnificent bridal veil through the folds of which was seen the sparkle of an elegant pair of diamond earrings, a present from her mother. The bridal party repaired to the residence of Mrs. Cornelia Tate, where a reception was held and the supper was served. The popular young couple were the recipients of an abundance of handsome and costly presents. They took their departure on the three o'clock train this morning for Richmond, the groom's old home, where they will spend a week

Paulding Sent to Jail. Mayor pro tem E. K. P. Osborne held a special session of court yesterday morning to hear the charges against H. I. Paulding. Paulding was arrested in the city Tuesday for a fight and was afterwards identified as the individual who came through Charlotte two years ago and secured money and advertisements from several of our merchants for a register for the Buford House, under false pretenses. Messrs. Pegram & Co., and E. D. Latta & Bro., appeared and preferred charges of swindling against Spaulding, claiming that he had secured money from each of them under the statement that he was get-ting up a register for the Buford House, and the register never having appeared in the hotel. The proprie-tors state that they never authorized Paulding to get un the register. The mayor put Paulding under a bond of $50 in two cases for his appearance for trial before the Inferior court. He could not give bond and was sent to jail. It appears that other parties in the city were nipped, but it was thought that the two cases entered against him would be sufficient. Paulding had his register, printed at THE OBSERVER office and we have long since shed a tear to his memory and forgotten him. His bill wears the same unconcerned look that it had when first made out. Paulding had a register made for the Charlotte Hotel at the same time, but that transaction was all correct, as he had made a trade with Mr. McNinch, the proprietor. He thinks that when Mr Levi Scoville is heard from, his situation will be made less painful, but it is believed that Mr. Levi Scoville will say just what Mr. George Scoville says and that is, that Paulding was not authorized to get up the Buford. House register. The lightness of the bonds required, indicates that the case against Paulding is not so bad as was thought, but still, it is bad enough to give him some trouble.

A Horse's Reputation Ruined. Mr. R. Y. McAden's family horse ran away yesterday morning and threw Miss Virginia McAden and Mr. W. R. Wells out of the English cart to the ground, at the side street by Burgess Nichols' store. Mr. Wells was quite painfully injured, but Miss McAden fortunately escaped unhurt. This event was the wonder of the day. The horse had been in Mr. Mc-Aden's service for a long time and had been daily driven about the ployed as flagman on the Air Line Railroad. Jim had a sweetheart, but she gave him the bounce, and he looked lovingly to a bottle of laudanum as his one and only solace. At Central, he switched off from his train, sought a secluded spot and turned the bottle of laudanum to his lips, absorbed its contents and lay down to die. Somebody discovered bis conditions bowever, and between the streets rby his childen. All who knew the animal considered him as safe as living horse could be and its caper yesterday was looked upon with astonishment. The horse was not frightened by anything so far as is known, but just took a notion to run, and did so. At the atart, the horse kickedwickedly and strewed the streets with fragments of the dash-streets with f streets rby his childen. All who streets with fragments of the dash board of the cart. The German Carpet Makers.

King's Mountain, about one year ago, by two enterprising Germans, was in the city yesterday, and says his suc-cess has been satisfactory. He now has seventy five patterns, and is supplying ingrain carpets to the trade all over the State. During the past year, he has hardly been able to keep pace with his orders, but by next fall he will be prepared to more easily meet all demands, as his factory will be greatly enlarged by that time. They manufacture the most beautiful ingrain carpets, and as the OFSERVER predicted, their trade has grown so large that their looms never rest except on Sundays. Their factory is picturesquely located on the side of a steep hill overlooking the springs, and all around it is a thriving garden cultivated by their thrifty wives. They are intelligent, industrious Germans, and it is pleasant to hear of their success.

A Drummer Knocked Down.

About six o'clock yesterday afternoon a couple of policeman were seen running into Corder's saloon. next to the Central Hotel, and in about a minute upwards of a hundred people had congregated about the door. There had been a small difficulty in the saloon between J. M. Kendrick and C. P. Thacker, a whiskey drummer, who travels for Foster, Muller & Co., of Baltimore. Thacker emerged from the saloon with a bad looking black eye. The just within the gates and beneath two had some misunderstanding over the settlement of a bill. Mr. Kendrick says that Mr. Thacker went about town telling the saloon keepers that "Kendrick had beaten him out of about $40." They met in Corder's saloon and the knock down ensued. They were summoned to appear be fore the mayor this morning, when their case will be investigated.

Soap Factory---Charlotte's Latest Maanincturing Enterprise.

Passing by Thos. H. Gaither's new block of buildings on College street vesterday afternoon, the reporter had his attention attracted to something going on in the basement of the store room next to Mr. Gaither's on the Fourth street corner, and stop-ping to investigate, found that a soap factory was being commenced. This new enterprise is being inaugurated by Col. C. W. Alexander, who is going into the manufacture of soaps. on an extensive scale. In the basement, the factory proper, where the boiling process is gone through with, is located. The second floor will be used for the store room. An elevator will carry the soap from the basement to the third floor, where it will be cut and boxed, ready for the market. Col. Alexander will manufacture all grades of soap, from the ordinary aundry to the most delicate toilet. His kettles, tanks, tables, etc., are all now in position and he will be ready to begin work within a week or two. He has employed the services of Mr. A. J. Woodsworth a practical soap maker from Chester county, Pa., to superintend the factory. This enter-prise bears success upon its face and our merchants and people need no longer send North for their soaps. When the factory commences opera-tions the Observer will have something more to say about it, and will endeavor to tell its readers what a soap factory looks like and how soap is made.
