THE A. M. E. CONVENTION.

A Day Spent in Discussing the Camp Meeting Question.

BALTIMORE, May 15 .- Bishop A. W. Wyman presided to-day at the African Methodist Ep iscopal general conference

Rev. J. B. Stanbury presented an appeal in the case of Rev. C. H. Green, which referred to the committee on appeals.

Green was accused of immorality and suspended by the New Jersey annual conference. The principal subject before the body was a discussion in regard to the commending of camp meetings by the general conference.

Rev. Dr. P. Roberts opposed camp-meetings, however well conducted. Out of a great number of speakers, very few were in favor of recommending the campmeetings.

Rev. L. J. Coppen said if the con-ference would allow him he would speak of the various immoralities that were practiced at campmeetings. It was difficult to control people where they were not surrounded by the restraints of regular life but it was impossible when they were turned loese in the woods. He was also opposed to campmeetings on the score of expense. He said that in 24 hours last year the colored people of Baltimore had paid $42.000 to one Railroad company in this connection, and that too when some of the colored people were asking charity. The people who were converted in the woods were not often seen in church afterwards.

P. W. Andrew Brown, of Georgia, said they might have had immoral campmeetings in Maryland and speculate on them, but they did not do so in Georgia. He illustrated his remarks with an anecdote that produced great merriment.

example, he says I thought Gen. Mc-Clellan could have entered Richmond if he had pushed on across the Chick ahominy, and that Gen. Lee thought Gen. Lee did not think so, and had assured me that if McClellan made the attempt he would be upon his heels before he could break the line of defense, which I with a small force on the south side of the Chickahominy would maintain. With a grain of truth, there is a general misrepresentation of anything I could have said about Grant or Sherman,
