BECOMING ALARMED. There are evident signs of alarm among the coalition manipulators in this State at the dissatisfaction that has been manifested within the Republican party as to the result of their work in Raleigh, and the opposition that is being exhibited to placing Dr. York, a recent acquisition, at the head of the ticket in place of some old line Republican. The Greensboro North State, the leading Republican paper in the State, and by far the ablest among them, which vigorously opposed coalition two years ago, but is now an ardent advocate of it, has been devoting its editorial talent lately to soft soldering and conciliating the conflicting factions, appealing to Republicans to swallow the dose, however nauseating it may be, and take advantage of this last chance and hope of knocking the pins from under the "bourbon" Democracy. It pleads well, plausibly, and would doubtless, under ordinary circumstances, if the dose was not so hard to swallow, persuade some of the dissatisfied to swallow it.

In the issue of this week it voices the alarm that is felt by the coalition manipulators by devoting a column of mixed ridicule, denunciation, expostulation and regrets at the defection of Virgil Lusk and Mr. D. McD. Lindsay, who has started the opposition paper at Weldon. It attributes Lusk's defection to the fact that he was ousted from the U. S. District Attorneyship, and while it concedes that he is a man of intelligence and has some strikers at his heels, does not think that he will succeed in smashing the machine and bringing the managers to grief. To lessen the force of the opposition it intimates that both Lusk and D. McD. Lindsay are simply playing the role of cats-paws for the Democratic managers, who are putting up this little job and are putting these gentlemen to the front to do the work. The object of this pretense is too apparent to deceive any one, and it shows the straits to which the coalition managers are reduced when they must thus early resort to indirect accusations of bribery against men in their own party, to whom it refers as follows:

The woods are full of men like Lusk, and it is only another instance of the effects of an over surfeit of government pay, which being withdrawn, from whatever cause, is often followed by unbridled ingratitude on the part of the beneficiary, accompanied by whatever harm their artifices, however weak, can inflict.

It has a little more tender regard for D. McD. Lindsay, whom it "knows well," and "knew in the past to be a good Republican," and hopes that "he may yet have firmness enough to resist the baneful influences of bourbon strategy and cunning."

It concludes with the following warning to the faithful: "But it matters but little who may be the criminal, so long as the name to the black list of bourbon tactics. Every sensible Republican and Liberal in North Carolina can easily discern the 'painted devil' set up to their gaze. Common sense teaches that attempts like those made by Lusk and Lindsay are calculated, if not intended, to further bourbon interests under the color of party fealty. Whatever may be thought of their political intrigues, we are willing to concede that they are men of some intelligence, and being such, they need careful watching. At the same time, their cunning devices to distract the party that has fostered and cared for them in their extremity, will utterly fail, notwithstanding the skill used to cover them—Dut watch."

There is trouble among the managers, and with the work of apologizing for York's previous record, keeping the coalition tub afloat, and harmonizing the malcontents, it will be no picnic with them.

Thursday, June 19, Greensboro will celebrate the completion of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad to that point. The road has been completed for some weeks, but that day was selected to give ample time to prepare for a big jollification. As a live city Charlotte should send a delegation to represent her and participate in the celebration.

All the money necessary ($700,000) to the erection of the new Kimball House at Atlanta has been raised, the contracts given out and the work will be pushed. It will be a seven story building, and in structure and equipment will be one of the finest hotels in the country.

No amount of decorations or of titles can make a hog anything but a hog, or a fool anything but a fool; on the contrary, they serve to make the hog and the fool all the more conspicuous.

The last Democratic ticket suggested is Dorsheimer, of New York, and Hancock, of Texas. Too far apart.

The bankrupt bill which has passed the Senate was defeated in the House last Monday. The House blundered.

A temperance reformer in New Orleans has opened an establishment where he dispenses iced tea, and seems to be doing a good business.

Ben Butler's platform is to educate everybody, pay everybody higher wages, impose upon them fewer hours of work, and distribute the surplus fund in the Treasury to soldiers of the late war.

Geo. H. Lewis, a broker of Washington City, who pretended to run an oil syndicate, has shaken the dust of the capital from his gaiters after victimizing government clerks and others who put money in his hands to the tune of about $300,000.

Germany is fast becoming the military school of all Europe, and Berlin is now crowded with officers of the Continental armies, all anxious to learn the art of war at what is now considered the fountain head. The English officers alone hold aloof with true insular pride, maintaining that there is no school of arms like Woolwich, and Count VonMoltke quietly retorts by showing a dozen practical plans for the successful invasion of England.

Charlotte.

The celebration of the 20th of Charlotte was a great success. The day was fine, the crowd very large, the city was decorated with flags, the streets were brightened by the gay uniforms of the soldiery and the fire-works and scenes enlivened by the bands discoursing music here and there and adding zest to the enthusiasm of the immense throngs that lined the principal thoroughfares.

The "seventeen-year locust" season in Virginia. According to the Prairie Farmer, considerable alarm is felt in some quarters at the announcement. It is a blessing to the country that these voracious fellows are by nature prevented from making a raid all over the country the same year. The history of this insect is curious and interesting. The eggs are deposited in small silts made by the female in the branches of trees. In a short time the eggs hatch, and the young larvae follow down the branches to the trunk, down this to the roots, along the roots to their tips, where they fasten themselves by the Deak, through which they draw sustenance. They also attach themselves to other succulent roots. Here they remain for nearly their entire existence of almost seventeen years without other change than a gradual increase in size. They come nearer the surface as the period of transformation approaches. They make cylindrical holes some half an inch in diameter, which they carefully cement and varnish, so as to be impervious to water. In this they remain for several days. They usually issue from the ground, crawl up a tree or stump, take a rest and cast their skin. They come out in the evening, and by morning the perfect insect is ready for flight. They seem to prefer the oak to other trees, but will take up with many others, having rather a liking for the apple tree. They usually appear in the latter part of May, and they disappear in about six or seven weeks.

York—Str—grth.

The editor of the Lenoir Topic, writing on the political situation, speaks as follows of York's strength up in the hill country: "We have just returned from an extended trip through the counties of Watauga and Ashe, and our political impressions are derived from the sentiments we heard expressed by the mountain people. As has been stated before in these columns, the Republican ticket, headed by York for Governor, is considered over there to be a weak affair. We found that a reaction had set in since the election of 1882, and that York would not have been such a hard man to beat for Congress. Many Democrats who voted for him upon personal grounds and because he announced from the stump that he was as good a Democrat as he had ever been, have signified their intention of never voting for him again since he had removed the mask and, Mahone-like, openly declared himself to be a Republican. We met on our trip with several citizens from Wilkes, and they assured us that this county, the home of York, which gave him a majority of 1,300 in 1882, will give him at most a majority under 500, and basing their calculations upon the revulsion of feeling referred to above as attending York's apostasy, they feel confident of the ability to reduce his majority to less than 300.

The Norfolk Election.

NORFOLK, VA., May 23.—Full returns from the municipal election yesterday were not made till this morning. Lamb, (Rep.) is re-elected mayor by a majority of 50, against 300 lost election. The rest of the Republican ticket was elected except four members of the council, which are Democratic by large majorities.
