A Thundering Prediction.

Prof. J. C. Baker, who has been ndeavoring to take care of the weather in this part of the country for years past, came in yesterday with his predictions for June, which we print for the benefit of those who are inclined to watch the professor. He says that June 1 will be a little He says that June 1 will be a little rainy, with thunder; 2, good rain and thunder; 3 and 4, thunder and little rain; 5, good rain and thunder; 6 and 7 partly cloudy and thunder; 8 little rain; 9 thunder and hot; 10 hot; 11 thunder and hot; 12 look for little rain, 13 to 18 little rain each day; 19 and 20 nearly fair, and warm; 21 cloudy; 22 hot; 23 foggy morning and rain at evening; 24 local rains, thunder and warm; 25 little rain; 26 cloudy and cooler; 27 rainy; 28 rainy cloudy and cooler; 27 rainy; 28 rainy and thunder; 29 foggy and cloudy morning; 30 cloudy.

A Glance at Mecklenburg Crops. By a short drive through the country one will get a good idea of the splendid crops the farmers are growing this season. Wheat is fence high all along the roads and as thick as bristles in a horse brush. Oats are also looking fine and almost ready to cut. On the whole, the small grain crop this year bids fair to eclipse that of last year, large as that was. It is noticed, too, that more land is put down in wheat and oats than ever before and as one spins along the before, and as one spins along the road the glorious fields of waving grain greet the eye with a frequency that is pleasing. The cotton fields are smaller and fewer, and the acreage in corn is largely increased. Cotton is from three to six inches high, and the laborers are busily engaged chopping it out. The stand is a good average. Corn is coming up finely, and is growing rapidly under the influence of the late good rains. On all the farms the prospects for a good crop year are bright, and the farmers were never better satisfied.

Baker, a prominent young citizen of Baltimore, Md., to Miss Virginia Yancey, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Y. McAden. The doors of the hospitable mansion were thrown open to a very large number of friends and invited guests, in the presence of whom the ceremony was performed at 9 o'clock by Rev. Dr. A. W. Miller, of the First Presbyterian church. The following couples were the bride's attendants: Mr. Frank Baker and Miss Mamie McAden; Mr. Jim Whiteley and Miss Grace Dewey: Mr. Robert Swepson and Miss Laura Yates; Mr. Ernest Young and Miss Carrie Bryce; Mr. Eli Springs and Miss Kate Williams; Mr. Fred. Ahrens and Miss Sallie Luske; Mr. Baxter Myers and Miss Lucy Talliaferro; Mr. John Bryce and Miss Monnie Dunlap; Mr. W. H. Justice and Miss Louise Morehead. The bride was attired in an elegant white satin dress, trimmed in point Duchesse lace, a magnificent Duchesse veil falling in graceful folds from her head to the tip of her trail, forming one of the handsomest bridal costumes ever known in Charlotte. From her ears sparkled a beautiful pair of ear rings of opal set in diamonds, a gift from the groom, and on her wrist she wore a diamond brace let, a gift from her father. The wedding supper was a triumph of cultany skill, and was prepared under the special supervision of a caterer from Richmond. THE HOMING PIGEONS.

Arrival of Eighteen Aerial Racers to be Liberated for a 500 Mile Journey Home-- Something About the Birds and Their Records.

A few days since THE OBSERVER announced that a number of carrier pigeons would arrive in Charlotte from Keyport, New Jersey, to be liberated for a flight of 500 miles back to their homes. Yesterday Mr. W. W. Pegram, who had accepted the trust, received by express a basket containing eighteen pigeons, all of which will be liberrted in the morning between 4:30 and 5 o'clock, from the roof of the Central Hotel. The pigeons belong six each to Messrs. E. H. Conover, S. G. Lamberton and E. H. Conover, S. G. Lamberton and Dr. W. E. Johnston, all of Keyport. They are in size something larger than our ordinary pigeons and blue in color. On their wings they bear the marks of their owners, made with rubber stamps besides the name of the race station and a private mark. The greater part of these birds are a year old, but at least five were hatched in September and November of last year. The arrival of the birds home is attended to by Mr. E. S. Starre who finds out how each loft is located in regard to the each loft is located in regard to the telegraph office, and allows each a certain time according to his location to reach that office. When a bird arrives home, the time he alights on the loft is taken. When he enters the loft he is caught, the private mark on his wing feathers is found and a message giving it is hurried off to the telegraph office. The operator notes the time the messenger enters the office and notifies Mr. Starr. The time of entering the loft is the time the messenger entered the office, less the allowance. The private mark is the allowance. The private mark is proof of the return. All the birds sent Mr. Pegram were in the race from Lynchburg to Keyport, and their records in that race are given below. No. 1 is Baby Mine. The 338 mile birds are Dr. Johnston's, the 338 1-16, S. G. Lamberton's, and the 338 5 16 E. H. Conover's. The time

Mr. Pegram has appointed the following committee of starters, who are requested to be on top of the Central at 4:30 a. m., to note the exact minute of the departure of the birds: H. C. Eccles, H. H. Hill, D. G. Maxwell, Wade Harris, J. S. Mason and George H. King. Mr. Starr will telegraph back the arrival home of the birds. The little flyers are being cared for by Mr. Pegram and were yesterday visited by large parties who were curious to see them. They are handsome birds and considerable interest will be manifested by our people in their journey.

A Picnic Crowd Surprised.

The Atlantic, Tennessee & Ohio Railroad is not the biggest corpora-tion in the United States. In fact, we have other railroads here in North Carolina that think they are almost as large as the Atlantic, Tennesse & Ohie road, and may some day equal, if not excel it in magnitude. But little or big, the Atlantic, Tennessee & Ohio or big, the Atlantic, Tennessee & Ohio can put on more airs to the square inch than any other corporation that we can find on the railroad map. One of the Sunday Schools of the city contemplated a picnic at Davidson College this week, and accordingly made the proper application for rates for a special train for the occasion. Davidson College is distant only 20 miles, and a train of four coaches was wanted to take the Sunday was wanted to take the Sunday School there and back. While waiting the answer, the Sunday School authorities eagerly counted over their cash, to see how far they would be able to make it go, and speculating upon what use they would make of that left from paying the railroad bill, which, they supposed, would not amount to more than $65. A fine trip had been planned and all was a glorihad been planned and all was a glori-ous anticipation of a real fine, jolly day on the campus with the children, but imagine their feelings when the but imagine their feelings when the railroad authorities announced that they would furnish the train for the insignificant sum of ($185) one hundred and eighty-five dollars. They had evidently understood the request to be a bid for the purchase of a whole train of cars, engine included, but the Sunday School merely wanted to hire the train for one trip.

The Davidson College picnic was given up, and for $85 a train of five cars was procured to carry the picnic to a point on a less pretentious railroad. The Atlantic, Tennessee & Ohio ought to move up to Vanderbilt's

The Bloody Mowing Machine. A sixteen year old son of Mr. Starr Neeley, of Steele Creek township, was yesterday very badly injured by a mowing machine, the blades of which came in contact with his leg, and tore all the flesh away between the knee and ankle. The machine was being drawn through the woods, when one of the wheels struck a tree and the blades, in falling, in some manner caught the boy's leg, with the painful result above noted. The lad was suffering intense pain at last reports, but physicians were giving him all the attention possible, and it was not thought that he would lose his leg.
