IF DON'T FLAP SO WELL. Commenting upon the indifference with which the country regards Sherman's effort to start a bloody shirt campaign, the New York Evening Post says:

The indifference with which the country receives the reports of the Senate outrage committee is gratifying evidence that as an alternative to "bloody shirts" has had its day. It is very doubtful if the reports will ever be read through by a hundred persons outside of the newspaper offices.

Senator Hoar had the cheek to ask the United States Senate to authorize the printing of 150,000 copies of the reports of the majority and minority committees and the evidence in the Cophias case, with the reflections of the respective committees thereon, notwithstanding that these reports had been telegraphed all over the country, and appeared in whole or in part in nearly all the leading journals, and that the bulk of the evidence taken at the investigation was also published by the papers. Very full accounts were published of the Danville investigation, and yet they ask the government to incur the expense of publishing stacks of these reports, which are and can only be intended for public men, men who fought in the armies on both sides, and business men North and South, are doing all they can to bring the sections closer together in mutual interest, and in patriotic spirit, trying to bury what was unpleasant in the past, Senatorial ghouls like Sherman and Hoar keep raking down into the graves, to keep alive alienating dissensions, inspired only by partisan malice and the hope of thus achieving partisan success.

Men like Sherman and Hoar belong to the cold-blooded reptile order, whose favorite haunt is among the rubbish and the ruins. They belong neither to the progressive present nor the promising future, and the sooner they pass into the oblivion which they ought to have dropped into long ago the better it will be for this country.

In the meeting of the funeral directors' association at Pittsburgh Thursday the following question arose: "When man and wife are buried together on which side of the husband should the wife be buried," to which R. B. Brinkhurst, of Philadelphia, replied: "The one who ruled the house in life ought to have the best position, but as in weddings the wife leans on the left arm of the husband, it is advisable to follow out the rule by placing her on the left in death."

On the other stand in the corridor of the House of Representatives in Washington four large photographs were displayed last Thursday. They were photographs of ex-Gov. Tilden, Mr. Flower, of New York, Gov. Cleveland and Representative Hoblitzel. "The next President will be one of that quartette," remarked a well known Kentucky Representative, "but just now I am not able to say exactly which one it will be."

Mr. Fish, "the president of the broken Marine Bank, says that he may be the most stuporous fool in the country, but that he is not a thief. They seem to agree on the fool line. Fred. Grant said, speaking of their catch in the Grant-Ward crash, that he and his father were great fools.

Macon Telegraph: A very decided majority of delegates already selected for the Democratic convention at Chicago are in favor of protection. If the reading out process is to prevail, it may not be exactly certain as to who will be read out.

A London society journal gravely announces that bald men in New York paint their heads as a part of their full dress. It is not as part of their full dress; it is just part of the skin.

The "Dilegits" on the Road—Views of the High Cocksalorum of the 4th District—For Arthur First, Then the Dark Horse—Other Southern Republicans—What a Colored Brother Says is Logan and Long—The Sherman Boom—Blaine Stock Way up in the Pictures.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Caucuses are going on all over Washington to-day. In the Capitol building also is talked off in corridor or lobby by "Blaine's chances," the "Sherman boom," the "Arthur sell out" and "the prospects for the dark horse." Many colored "dilegits" have been fitted into great prominence and put in a state of mind by the proceedings of this day. In all sorts of nooks you see men, white, black, yellow, chin-ning each other, looking wise as they swap opinions. The negroes have for the most part sung out for the President, but there is a reported break in the ranks. Louisiana and other States. The administration grew so weak yesterday that a wavering brother was made firm for the time by the promise of a post-office money order. The meeting was a learning of the transaction, the Logan men went one better, when the now thoroughly soared Arthurians of the Sherman should have what he wanted immediately. What the Loganites will do remains to be seen. The gentleman so much sought after was one of the Hon. Small's friends in the Senate. He is not wealthy. Small himself is not with the administration, but he feels bound to stick through one ballot. That is that a number of the Southern delegates will not vote for Sherman, like Logan in Statuary Hall, surrounded by the illustrious men of the past and in the atmosphere of the chamber of Representatives.

The twenty-fourth annual reception of the women's art department of the Cooper Institute, New York, took place Monday evening. Excuse officer, who looks like a bloated bond holder, and lying on the fat of the land, by the suffrage of the colored people of the country, refuses to take the N. C. Republican and Civil Rights Advocate out of the postoffice. Can't stand strong Republican doctrine. Mr. Revenue Officer is afraid or opposed (we presume) to the colored people of the country, who are the students and the graduates from this class are nearly all making a comfortable living.

ANOTHER BANK FAILURE.

The Banking House of D. W. Middleton & Co., Suspend and Assign for the Benefit of Creditors.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 31.—The following notice was posted upon the doors of the banking house of D. W. Middleton & Co., 147 F. Street. Being to heavy and immediate demands we have assigned to Geo. T. Green for the benefit of our creditors.

The doors of the bank are not closed and a number of excited persons are gathered inside talking over the suspension. No particulars are yet obtainable. Geo. T. Green, the book-keeper of the bank who is assigned makes the following statement.

D. W. Middleton retired from the firm a week ago, owing to ill health and disinclination to continue to struggle against what he thought the inevitable S. E. Middleton thought he could manage to keep open, and so assumed the liabilities but the steady withdrawal by depositors and the increase of interest, he found it impossible to meet the demands. Both have assigned everything, I believe, to me, and I shall endeavor to a settlement as soon as possible.

The Capital stock of the bank $40,000. Green said that he had not the slightest idea of the amount of liabilities which could only be determined by an examination of the books. The firm is composed of Daniel W. Middleton, son of D. W. Middleton, formerly clerk of the United States Supreme Court, and Samuel E. Middleton. They are cousins and the bank has been established since 1867. Green says that statement of condition of bank affairs will be made in the early part of next week. Meanwhile he cannot approximate the amount of liabilities.

Oh! we are hurt, badly hurt. Help us or we may sink. We have just been notified by a North Carolina postmaster that a subordinate revenue officer, who looks like a bloated bond holder, and lying on the fat of the land, by the suffrage of the colored people of the country, refuses to take the N. C. Republican and Civil Rights Advocate out of the postoffice. Can't stand strong Republican doctrine. Mr. Revenue Officer is afraid or opposed (we presume) to the colored people of the country, who are the students and the graduates from this class are nearly all making a comfortable living.

COMPARISON IS PROOF.

A great many merchants seem to try to make a great deal to do about the panic in New York and its effect on the CLOTHING TRADE, etc. One of our firm, who changed to be in New York when the great money crash took place, says it had no significance either on the Clothing or Dry Goods market, but this is the season when manufacturers are compelled to unload.
