LOOKING SOUTHWARD.

The friends of Blaine do not believe that he will be able to carry New York, but think he can carry Ohio, Indiana, the Pacific States and are counting upon Virginia, where he is largely interested in mines and other enterprises, and have hopes of carrying West Virginia and North Carolina. Our opinion is that Blaine stands as good a chance of carrying New York as he does of carrying any of the States mentioned, and whether he can carry any of them depends not so much upon his presumed strength or popularity as upon the nominations and the course pursued by the Democratic convention, and the action taken by the Democratic party in the States mentioned. With a lukewarm, distracted, divided Democratic party he can carry any of them; with a united and deter mined Democratic party he can carry none of them. On a full poll of the vote those States are all Democratic. We have but one thing to dread and that is that seme hot head may inthe convention and upon committing the party to the Frank Hurd free trade theories, which would injure Democratic chances in a number of States where the vote is close, and make victory possible where without this question as an issue they would stand no chance of success. It is not the Republicans we have so much to fear as the indiscreet leaders, or would be leaders, in our own party.

Hatrison Endorses Blaike and Logan. Indianapolis, June 7.-In an interview Senator Harrison said he was well pleased with the nominations. He considered that Blaine has a great element of strength, that he is strong with the Irish and will carry the Pacific slope, New York and Indiana. The scandalous stories against him are not believed and his own State. are not believed and his own State approved him. Garfield gave him his confidence in the most conspicutous manner possible. His foreign policy is approved by every one, conceding that we ought to come in closer relations with the States of South America, and share some of South America and share some of that immense trade which England now enjoys. It is nonsense to think he would involve us in war, and the business of the country has nothing to fear from him. He is sound on all great economic questions. Senator Harrison also approved the choice of Logan for the Yice Presidency.

"THE TATOOED CANDIDATE."

How the Statesman from Maine Came Honestly by His Name. As there will be naturally much curiosity today to know the meaning of the phrase "the tatooed candidate," and how the appellation applies to Mr. James G. Blaine of Maine, it may be as well to explain that Puck, a New York comic illustrated paper, published on May 7th a full page colored cartoon entitled "Love's labor Lost." The central figure of the cartoon was the distingushed politician from Maine who is represented to be seated on a three legged wooden stool. His face wears a look of the most intense agony, while his body, which is covered only by a blue colored clout ornamented with massive stars, is tatooed with fraud, the works of the artist spelling out in blood letters the numerous frauds with which the name of Mr. Blaine has been connected. On his back are written the words: "Little Rock Railroad Bonds," 'Mulligan Letters," "Northern Pa cific Railroad Bonds," "Anti-Chinese," while on his arms in glaring characters are the words: "Guano Statesmanship" and "Bluster." On the left leg of Mr. Blaine are the words: "Little Rock Railroad Bonds," "Demagogueism," "M o n o p o l y."

Standing on the floor just in rear of the tatooed man is a bucket, from which a cloud of steam is rising, labelled: "Tribune Cleaning Fluid, while near by is a new scrubbing brush, supported by a cake of "Ed-mundsine," and a huge black bottle labelled "Tribune Editorials." Just in rear of the tatooed man Whitelaw Reed, editor of the New York Tribune, is standing with the perspiration rolling in great drops from his forehead while with a "Tribune Excuses scrubbing brush in his right hand and an "Explanative right hand and an "Explanative pumice stone" in his left hand he is trying vainly to wash the stains out of his hero's hide. Kneeling in front of the tatooed man is William Walter Phelps who is trying to rub out the damning spots on the Maine statesman's leg with "Vindicative sandpaper." Mr. Phelps is supported by an immense basin of "Sophistry acid" and a volume labelled "Borax-False Arguments." In commenting upon the cartoon, Puck says, addressing Mr. Phelps: "You want to show Mr. James G. Blaine, of Maine, to the public as a pure and spotless states-man, do you? Well, do you know what that undertaking implies? It implies the reconstruction of all known principles of morality, and numerous alterations in all existing dictionaries. It involves the trans-

Blaine and Logan.

James G. Blaine was born in Washington county, Pa, January 31, 1830. He graduated from Washing. ton College in 1847, taught school for several years, and in 1853 went to Kennebec, Me., where he become the editor of the Kennebec Journal. As an eloquent and powerful speaker he had already gained prominence, when, in 1858, he was chosen a member of the Maine Legislature. He went as a representative to Congress first, in 1862; was made speaker of the House in 1869, and did not lay down the gravel until 1875, when the Democratic majority elected Samuel J. Randall his successor. The ensu-ing year he received the highest number of votes on the opening ballot for President in the National Republican Convention, at Cincinnati, which finally nominated Mr. Hayes. Appointed the successor of the dead Senator Morrill, of Maine, in 1879. Mr. Blaine was again a popular presidential candidate in 1880, receiving 282 votes on the first ballot. Mr. Blaine on the election of General Garfield, was made Secretary of State, which position he resigned on the death of the President, eight months later.
