OUR CANDIDATE ..

We this morning hoist the names of Gov. Grover Cleveland, of New York, for President, and Hon. Geo. H. Peudleton, of Ohio, for Vice-President, as our candidates for the two highest offices within the gift of the American people, for the four years commencing March 4th, 1885.

The absolute declination of Mr. Tilden to be further considered in the race for the Presidency, forces the party to look elsewhere for an available candidate, and we are satisfied that Mr. Cleveland bears the charmed name that can lead the Democratic party to success. Our readers will remember that he was elected Governor of New York by the unprecedented majority of 196,000, and that in his administration of the office of Governor, he has made a model executive. He comes, too, from a State which casts thirty-six votes in the electoral college, and it is even now conceded that the candidate who can carry New York will win in the sole reason why we favor Gov. Cleveland's candidacy at this time. The Republican party is committed to the very glad, he said, that the Republidoctrine of protection under the tariff can party had arrived at this conclu-laws for protection's sake The sion and at last, in unmistakable laws for protection's sake. The Democratic party platforms of 1876 with such incidental protection as will be afforded American manufac turers and American labor, by a just, fair and equitable adjustment of such a tariff as will be necessary to meet the necessary e-penditures of the government, honestly and economically administered. As set forth, therefore, by the two last Democratic national conventions, there is no equivocation as to the principles of there are both ads and wiseacres in the Democratic party who would commit the party to free trade. We have contended for some time that the national Democratic convention was the only tribunal which had the power to say what was, and what was not, Democratic law, on this or any other question of public policy, and we have endeavored to adjust our ideas on this subject within the purview of its mandates, as we inter-

Men like Morrison and Hurd would make the tariff the leading issue in American politics in the coming camadministration of justice; we need thousands of useless officials suspended; we need the abolition of the whole internal revenue bureau; we need—in fine, we need so many reforms that the simple adjustment of a tariff to raise $400,000,000, (which we all acknowledged must be raised by a tariff sinks into a many hands.)

by a tariff) sinks into a mere bagatelle.

We think, therefore, that we can better afford to go into a campaign with the general battle cry of reform all along the lines, than we can on the single issue of tariff reform, and the single issue of tariff reform, and nomination of Gov. Cleveland, as our party leader, will of itself put us on that platform. He was nominated by the Democratic party of New York on his record as the "reform" mayor of Buffalo. He was elected triumphant, and he will as certain.

ly be elected President of these Unit States, if he lives, if he is nominateu, by the national Democratic party . Chicago on the 8th of July.

On the same theory we would urge the nomination of Hon. George H. Pendleton, as the candi date of the Democratic party for the Vice-Presidency. He is the author of the only civil service bill we ever had, and his record is all that we could ask. Men are not elected to these positions in this our day and time through sentiment. Party ties are strong, but they are not strong enough to force any man into the "White house" on mere theory. The candidates who will win in the coming race must be in themselves the embodiment of an idea, and the record of the candidates we suggest is in itself the platform on which we can stand shoulder to shoulder, as Democrats, throughout all this broad land. Again we nominate this ticket because it will win. It will sweep every thing before it. It will place the Denocracy on high ground. It will eliminate all the side issues which have crept into the canvass, and it will place the Democratic party once more in the confidence of the masses of the people, and draw to them thousands of independent votes, who would otherwise be carried off into the maelstrom of Republicanism, as

WASHINGTON, June 12.-SENATE .-Ingalls presided over the Senate today, having been designated for that purpose under the rule by the presilent of the Senate. Hill gave notice that on Monday next after the morning business he Butler's resolution offered yesterday providing for an inquiry into the condition of the New York banks was, at Butler's suggestion, allowed to lie on the table, to be called up at his pleasure. On motion of Allison the Senato took a final vote on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill and the bill was passed by a vote of 38 yeas to 2 nays—Vance and Van Wyck. The bill as passed is almost precisely as reported from the Senate commit tee on appropriations, making an addition of $800,000 to the bill as reported from the House. The Mexican pension bill again Yan Wyck moved as an amend ment a bill some time since reported from the pension committee by Cullom to provide pensions for invalid soldiers and sailors who have been discharged from the army or navy after three months in the war of the rebellion, and for the widows and dependent parents of deceased pen-

Ingalls moved as an amendment Senate bill number one, being a bill introduced by him on the first day of the present session, amending arreas of the pension act so as to provide that all pensions now or hereafter granted by reason of death occurring from causes originating in the service since March 4, 1861, or in consequence of wounds or injuries received or disease contracted since that date. shall commence from the date of death or discharge, and in considera-tion of all claims for pensions the soldier on whose account the claim is made shall be conclusively presumed to have been sound and free from disease on entering the service. Ingalls read from a plank of the plat-This is one reason, but it is not the form of the recent Republican convention pledging that party to the repeal of the limitation contained in terms, declared in favor of this principle. and 1880, according to our idea, are party associates to carry out the committed to a tariff for revenue, expressed desire of their party. He with such incidental protection as had up to this time favored the pas veterans that had been applied to those of the revolutionary war and the war of 1812. He regretted that the Mexican bill should be made a pack horse for every pension proposi-tion, but the measure had new as-sumed a feature which compelled him to abandon the position heretofore held by him. He read a letter from a soldier of the late war setting forth that there were still 1,400,000 Union soldiers, that they were voters and would not wait as the soldiers of the revolution and of other wars had waited, until they were weak, before asserting their claims on the country, and that if Congress and the President did not recognize their rights they would elect a Congress and a President that would do so. As this question was to become, Ingalls said, a test as to which political party was the friend of the Union veterans, he proposed that the next thing to be considered in connection with this bill was whether the declaration of the Republican party was to be carried out in good faith. Sherman said that with his views of the demands on the treasury he American politics in the coming campaign. We believe that there are many other reforms in the government to which the tariff question is secondary. We need reform in our civil service; we need reform in the administration of justice; we need survivors of the demands on the treasury he would, if not pressed, vote for Ingalls' proposition. The political platform would not change his views. He did not think the principle was right. A pension should commence when the application for it was filed, and as for the proposition to put all survivors of the Union army on the and as for the proposition to put all survivors of the Union army on the pension roll at this time, that would so weigh down our finances as to make it almost impossible to bear. He did not think that such a proposition would receive the sanction of Congress. He wanted to relieve those laboring under a charge of desertion and to relieve from too much technicalities those wha could furnish reasonable proof of title to pension. Sherman suggested a special committee of nine Senators to look up and consider the whole subject.

Harris, Cullom, Ingalls and Maxey opposed this, and after further debate and the reading of a letter from the commissioner of pensions, the

Another Embezzling Bank Teller.

CLEVELAND, O., June 12.-Isaac Stanley, paying teller of the National Bank of Commerce, was arrested last evening for embezzling $100,000 from the bank. The shortage was discovered Tuesday afternoon when cashier Garretson counted the reserve fund kept in a special apartment of the vault, the combination of which was known only to Garretson and Stanley. When asked to explain the shrinkage Stanley confessed that a year ago he was troubled about a debt of $800 on his house and thought he could take that sum from the reserve fund without harm to any one, invest in grain, realize a profit, pay off the mortgage on his place and return the money. The investment was unfortunate and to cover his loss he took more, and so on until he had taken $100,000. directors ordered his arrest. Stanley has assigned his property and his speculative deals to the bank. The bank will not be affected by Stanley's defalcation.

Dear Sir—The 6 foot Number Eleven Osborne Harvester and Binder we bought of you on trial is doing good work. We have seen two different makes of machines at work and the Osborne makes a BETTER SHEAF and ties it TIGHTER than either of them. J. C. REID.

Messrs. Reid and Borge are cutting my wheat today, with the Osborne Harvester and Binder, some of which was very heavy, down and tangied. The machine is saying my grain well, hakes a NICE TIGHT SHEAF, and I am well pleased with its
