CLINCHING THE NAIL. We publish today that portion of the correspondence between Messrs. James G. Blaine and Warren Fisher, Jr., heretofore unpublished. For the ast eight years they have been securely kept by Mr. Mulligan, not withstanding repeated attempts were made by friends of Mr. Blaine to secure possession of them, and they are now given to the public, Messrs. Fisher and Mulligan say, in vindication of themselves from the charge of misrepresentation. The first series of letters produced before the committee of investigation in Washington, and since so freely published throughout the country, were bad enough, but these are worse, and prove beyond the possibility of a doubt Blaine's guilt in connection with the Little Rock transactions. They show him not only to have been lending his official influence to furthering that enterprise, for which he received a compensation in money and bonds, but also as acting as an agent of the enterprise in disposing of its stock to people who had confidence in him, and believed his statements as a disinterested party. But even if Mr. Blaine could satisfactorily explain all the others, there is one of these that it is utterly impossible for him or any one else to explain, and that is the draft of the letter he sent to Mr. Fisher, when he was a candidate for the Presidency in 1876, certifying that all his transactions in connection with the Little Rock scheme were honest and honorable. This letter was drafted by himself, written by his confidential clerk, and sent to Fisher for his signature. Honesty needed no tricky subterfuge of that kind, and an honest man, whose actions would bear the lights to be turned on would never have resorted to it. If these letters do not prove Blaine's corruption, then othere is no force in

The Chicago Inter-Ocean, Republiscan, has a very despondent editorial on the outlook in the West which concludes thus: "There must be bristling energy on every side, a planting of new batteries and bringing forward new guns. The highest and best talent and most trustworthy and energetic management of which the party is capable should be put into requisition, and that immediate-

With all their boasting, after the herculcan efforts of Mr. Blaine and his friends the net Republican gain at the last election over the Lelection of 78 is 1,457, with an increase in the total vote of 5,500. And this was in a State where bribing voters is openly and shamelessly carried on.

When the slander batteries were turned loose upon Governor Cleveland and his friends consulted him as to how they should reply he said, "Tell the truth." Blaine never said that to his champions. If they did his letters to Fisher and sometimes the post scripts were the most im-portant part of the letters. "Burn this," was one of his p. s's.

John Sherman expresses the opin-ion that the Republicans can carry Ohio, but that it will require energetic action and hard work, and, he might have added, -a good deal of "soap."

Fisher was not as obliging as he might have been, or he would have burned some of those letters as Blaine requested him to do.

Hadn't Mr. Blaine better institute a libel suit against Warren Fisher and James Mulligan?

The Republicans and Greenbackers of Missouri have fused.

Old man Bismarck has an eye to siness. One of the industries in which he is engaged is the manufacture of powder.

Benjamin H. Bristow, of Kentucky, rominently mentioned as the Repub ican nominee for the Presidency 1876, has come out for Cleveland.

In the frightful cholera mortality at Naples that city is paying the penaltyof filth and neglect of sanitary regulations.

A report reached Washington Friday of the serious illness of President Arthur in New York, but it only turned out to be a bad case of toothache. Something the matter with his molars.

Mrs. Belvia Lockwood, the candi date of the Woman's Rights party for President, is charged with wear ing false back hair. This is supposed to be a campaign slander.

MARYLAND PROHIBITIONISTS

Resolve to Place a State Ticket in th Field.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 16.—At a conference of the Prohibition party of Maryland in this city today it was resolved to put an entire State ticket in the field, and also to recommend that the various Congressional districts nominate Prohibition candidates for Congress. During an address Rev. D. B. Newman, of the National Executive Committee, said National Executive Committee, said that the Democratic party was the declared enemy of prohibition, and its convention at Chicago was composed of 800 lunatics running at large. The Republican party was no better, and the speaker believed that if James G. Blaine occupied the Presidential chair he would pocket every bill in favor of prohibition. The Republican party had no more back bone than a fishing worm, and was fast hastening to its doom. Hon. fast hastening to its doom. Hon. Wm. Daniel, the Prohibition candi date for Vice President of the United States, was present and took an active part in the meeting.

A Talk With John Kelly.

New York, Sept. 13.—John Kelly was sauntering down Broadway wearing a self satisfied smile when a reporter of the Mail and Express corraled him. "What do I think about last night's meeting?" said he, repeating the reporter's first question. "It shows that Hall will not go back on its record as a Democratic organiza-tion, and will heartily support the Democratic nominees." Some doubt is expressed as to the heartiness of the endorsement."

"I don't see why it should be questioned. A sweeping majority vote carried the resolutions. more could be expected?"

"Why, then, was Grady so liber ally cheered and so enthusiastically supported in his stand against the Governor?"

"It was the outsiders present and not the committeemen who did most of the cheering and hissing—the galery and the rear of the room. Some think that all but, the members of the committee and representatives of the pres should have been

"It was the original intention to keep all others out, but when we learned that so many were desirous of witness ing the proceedings we decided to throw the doors open to the public as an act of courtesy. The utmost freedom prevailed, as the result shows, as to how each one of the members of the committee should vote. "What do you consider will be the result of the meeting ?"

What Blunted Mr. Blaine. New York Herald, (Ind.)

Blaine, when Senator, once re marked: "I profess to be a plain, blunt man." As this was spoken just after the Mulligan investigation it might be regarded as a joke, and we are further supported in this view by his conduct on the prohibition question on Monday. Slippery Blaine is a better description of him.
